

Flanders Wins Support for Meat Rations

Republicans Fear Blame in 1948

By EARL RICHERT
 Scripps-Howard Staff Writer
 WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Support is growing in Congress for the proposal by Senator Ralph Flanders (R. Vt.) to get a meat-rationing program set up now in case the coming meat shortage makes it necessary.

Behind it is the spectacle of millions of voters, who presumably will become just as angry again as they did in the fall of 1946 when meat all but vanished during the off-and-on again period of price control and lost control of Congress for the Democrats.

This time the shoe appears to be on the other foot, politically. President Truman and Agriculture Secretary Anderson have asked for the power to impose rationing and even price control if necessary. But the Republican Congress has not given it.

This time, without imposition of government controls, the meat shortage is not expected to result in bare grocery shelves but counters at least partly filled with meat at prices so high that many persons cannot afford to buy.

Mr. Richert

Fearful of Blame
 The blame, Republican leaders fear, will be placed on them.

Senator William E. Jenner (R. Ind.), who is not in favor of rationing because he thinks it will only create another black market, says that if he were only playing politics he would vote for rationing and thus cause the administration to be blamed for a program which would not work.

If the Republican party wanted to play politics, he said, it should enact the entire Truman anti-inflation program so that when prices kept on soaring there could be no reason for blaming the Republican Congress since it gave the President what he wanted.

Senator Raymond Baldwin (R. Conn.) said he was in favor of getting a rationing program ready because he fears that in the spring meat prices will go so high that only the rich can afford to buy.

Foresees Pressure
 "I don't want price controls and rationing," he said, "and I hope it won't have to come. But I think we should get ready."

Senator Baldwin said that while meat rationing might create a black market, the prospective alternative was prohibitive prices.

Senator Edwin Johnson (D. Colo.), who, like most of his colleagues, is against any government control of meat on the grounds that another black market would result, said he could foresee the development of "tremendous pressure on Congress to do something."

Main support for meat-rationing preparedness is developing among congressmen from industrial areas while main opposition comes from representatives of the livestock-growing areas.

How Many New American Millionaires

Guesses Total Than '20 Fig

By PAUL E. LEA

Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The making of a millionaires is not a new thing, but the U. S. government won't know for how many have zoomed this.

Guessing is that the fall far short of the peak of the middle twenties and commodity is nothing like it was in those dizzy, pre-depression days, and Federal taxes are a whole lot higher.

In 1929, before the bubble burst, 813 Americans reported incomes of one million dollars. There were 62 of them in 1944 and 71 in 1945. Figures on 1946 won't be available for months.

The government is in two kinds of millionaire the person who reports of that much or more and pays tax on it. It is the fellow who has amassed wealth to the million or more in second estate, and other investors.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has many millions are reported, government has any idea how many millionaires there are today ranges up to various attempts at their number have been as picking out all the names of $50,000 or more as go. There is no way whether that is from salaries or income or wealth. The funny thing about kinds of millionaires million-income fellow as millionaires at all millionaires may have or very little income, some that is—because securities, losses, of just return.

Under present tax who gets a million pays around $840,000 of tax. That leaves him a millionaire unless he is making that much years and hangs on to ever taxes.

The real millionaire, gets a full net 6 per cent holding, and not would have an income that were all taxable—state or business or pay half of it in taxes.

Income tax began its first big reported crop year-income millionaires in 1916, when 206 millionaires reported. That money was made in the boom business entry into the first war.

The million-income to 141 in 1917, to 67 in 1918. The going good for awhile. Then the upswing 1920, 21 in 1921, 67 in 1922, and 75 in 1923. Then the upswing 1925, 231 in 1926, 280 in 1927, and 513 in 1929.

As the bottom fell thing million-dollar income. There were 150 in 1931, 20 in 1932, 50 in 1933, and 41 in 1935. That figure was the second war boom.

There were 52 millionaires in 1940, 57 in 1941, 64 in 1942, 66 in 1943, 68 in 1944, 69 in 1945, and 71 in 1946.
