TO A TEEN-AGER, the ingredients of a successful party are old clothes, crazy games, an indestructible rumpus room and loads of food.

Euvola Club parties are famous in the younger set for originality, variety and just plain fun.

At the most recent one, held in the home of Mary Wheaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wheaton, 5696 Washington Blvd., the members and their "dates" staged an old-fashioned evening of party games.

DRESSED IN BLUE JEANS and pedal pushers, the Euvolas started off their party with the best part of all—the food. The soda bar has all the "tixins" plus the thrill of personally concocting a super deluxe hot fudge sundae.

Even the clean-up crew enjoyed the fun. The dish washers and their many assistants did more eating than working, but they reason that nothing cures "dishpan hands" like an ice-cream soda.

CLEAN-UP CREW

LET'S DANCE
