

C. of C. Board Opposed To School Aid Bill

Called Threat To Freedom

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Apr. 12.—The board of directors of the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce today were on record as being opposed to the federal aid to education bill now before the House of Representatives.

Adopted yesterday at a closed session the resolution described the bill as a "threat to the integrity and freedom of the educational system in the United States."

Charles W. Kern, Indiana Labor commission, warned board members of the spread of communism among those who have been taken in unsuspectingly by Communist infiltration. He said labor was getting more and more interested in corporate affairs and that an unrelenting drive is on to seize a larger share of industrial earnings.

Congressman Speaks
He also said there are some indications of a breakdown of labor leadership, pointing to instances wherein labor has followed its minorities within the unions rather than the elected leadership.

Congressman Robert A. Grant of the Third District and member of the House Ways and Means Committee, called for a revision of economic legislation to encourage business.

"The greatest enemies of the United States are those who are the sworn enemies of our risk-capital system. They think of themselves as 'liberals,'" Congressman Grant said. "They may profess complete loyalty to the United States, but as believers in the doctrine of state socialism they are the real enemies of this republic."

"They work night and day toward their goal of controls and regimentation," he declared, "toward their dream of a completely planned economy. This group has infiltrated into almost every phase of our national life, and like corrosive acids, is gnawing at the foundation of our free institutions."

WCTU to Hold Institute

A spring institute will be held by six WCTU groups at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in Wheeler Rescue Mission. L. E. York will speak in the afternoon. The Rev. Leonard Hunt will conduct morning devotions and Mrs. Hunt will sing.

Gets ROTC Promotion

James R. Newton Jr., 720 E. Georgia St., Apt. 20, was promoted today to the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel of Indiana University ROTC unit. Howard W. Kayser, also of Indianapolis, received the rank of cadet major.

Aviation Cadet Class to Open

Army recruiters today said a new aviation cadet class will be opened July 1.

Qualified veterans from any branch of the armed services who meet the Air Force requirements may apply now for cadet training, they said.

Applicants must be between the ages of 20 and 24½ and unmarried. They must also have two years or more of college credit, or be able to pass an equivalent education examination.

Lt. Herbert Warren, local recruiting officer, said the training is over a 12-month period. Graduates are commissioned as second lieutenants in the Air Force Reserve and placed on active duty with the Air Force.

Solon Explains Balk on Oleo Vote

Says Ludlow Made Him Petition-Wary

By DAN KIDNEY

WASHINGTON, Apr. 12.—A Southern Congressman who failed to sign the margarine petition, which got the required 218 signatures in the House, blamed it all on Rep. Louis Ludlow, Indianapolis Democrat, who did sign it. He is Rep. Noble Gregory (D. Ky.).

According to Mr. Gregory, times were still a little tight when he arrived in Congress in January, 1937. He was fresh from his job as cashier of the First National Bank of Mayfield. And he had on a pair of shiny new $4 shoes which he had purchased at a chain store.

Meets Mr. Ludlow
Upon arriving at the House floor for the first time, the affable Mr. Gregory walked up, grabbed his hand and told him how glad he was to welcome "such a smart young fellow" and expressed the wish that more like Mr. Gregory would come to Congress. Dazzled by the $4 shoes, Mr. Ludlow said he sure would get a pair just like them, Mr. Gregory recalls.

Then the Hoosier congressman started to move away, but turned back again and asked Mr. Gregory if he had "signed my little petition." Knowing nothing about it, he soon was signing under Mr. Ludlow's guidance. Later he found out that it was the most controversial measure of the day—the Ludlow resolution providing for a referendum on war.

"That taught me a lesson," Mr. Gregory said. "I haven't signed a petition since. Although I am heart and soul for repeal of the oleomargarine tax, I just couldn't bring myself to sign that petition. I am still petition shy."

WOMEN'S GROUP TO MEET

The women's auxiliary to Indianapolis Photo-Engravers' Union No. 11 will meet at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. The meeting will be held at 329 N. Pennsylvania St. Mrs. W. E. Towle is secretary.

Legion-Times Horse Show Attracts Wide Attention

Scores of Inquiries Indicate There May Be More Entries Than Ever—Possibly 350

Extensive interest in the first annual Legion-Times Charity Horse Show on May 14, 15 and 16 at the Indianapolis Coliseum has already been shown. Scores of inquiries have been received from Midwest horse owners, Mrs. Marie M. Bowen, executive secretary of the Indiana Saddle Horse Association, said today.

"The response to the first announcement of the show indicates there will be more entries than ever—possibly 350—of the best show horses in the Midwest," Mrs. Bowen said.

Final plans for the show are currently being completed by officials of the Times, the Robison-Ragsdale post of the American Legion and the Indiana Saddle Horse Association. They call for competition in 44 classes with over $5000 in prizes, which are donated. Proceeds of the show will go to a worth-while charitable organization to be announced soon.

For the first time, the show is designed to attract the public as well as horse owners and members of the Indiana Saddle Horse Association. Low, popular prices will be charged.

Mail orders for ticket sales will open in a few days as will a downtown Indianapolis ticket office. Keep reading your Indianapolis Times for the opening of ticket sales and for further information on the show.

Directors from the west central and southeastern districts will meet Thursday and Friday, and those from the northwestern and east central districts will meet April 28 and 29.

Miss Marie M. Fischer, president of the state association, will open the first meeting tomorrow. John A. Brown, Ft. Wayne, and Mrs. Pauline Reinzel, Washington, Ind., will conduct the first two conferences.

Simon H. Irick, Frankfort, and Mrs. Rose O. Smith, Lawrenceburg, will serve as co-chairmen of the second two meetings, and Miss Corrine Giesinger, Winamac, and J. Wesley Stewart, Anderson, will preside at the final sessions.

Ask Mrs. Manners—'My Ex-Husband Still Wants a Home'

IF I'M GOOD enough to live with I'm good enough to marry. I live with my ex-husband because of our children. He keeps saying that we'll be re-married, but he has said that for four years. Now I'm not sure I'd marry him if he'd say so.

He has lost self-pride and I don't have much use for anyone like that. I consider myself and children clean, though we don't have fine things. He says he loves me but doesn't show respect to me, just living with me.

WONDERING.
If your husband is good enough to live with he is good enough to marry. You've both lost self-respect.

Tell him that you're leaving this very day if he doesn't plan immediate re-marriage and make reasonable "repairs."

You may be surprised how fond you are of this man if he makes you an "honest woman."

Told to Let the Cats Alone

MY NEIGHBOR was childless, as I am, until she buried alive a black cat with a white spot on its forehead, in her back yard. She now expects a child. Is this superstition or the truth? If it isn't true are there books regarding the subject?

WORRIED.
You wouldn't believe anything silly like that, would you? A fine mother that woman is going to make! Animal lovers won't like her act and neither do I because it recalls my childhood and my Casanova cat, Tom. I was brokenhearted when he dragged himself to die (from fast living) on the creek bank near our house. I buried him near the house with my five cats including Blackie who died in convulsions after swallowing a humberbee. Tom looked real cute, too, in a doll dress and bonnet to which he objected so strenuously while alive, as he rode in my doll carriage.

Ask your doctor or the Maternal Health Center, 307 N. Pennsylvania St., about "motherhood possibilities, and let the cats alone. Read "You and Your Superstitions" by Brewster Berry and "Shattering Health Superstitions" by Morris Fishbein.

Should I Leave School to Marry?

I'M 18 AND a sophomore at Indiana University. My boyfriend asked me to marry him but I feel I'm too young and should finish my education. He comes from a wealthy family and says he can support me for the rest of my life, but he wants me to quit school. We love each other so much. What should we do?

WORRIED READER.
I hate to see you tie yourself down when making new friends is so much fun. I also hate to have you refuse love and security. How about waiting until next fall after a summer of separation? If you must marry, try to persuade him to let you continue with your education. Tell him how close studying together will keep you.

Young Job Hunter Seeks Advice

I'M 17 AND want to work this summer. I've never worked except in my uncle's drugstore. Where do I get my first Social Security card and how do I apply for a job?

Apply for a Social Security card at the Social Security Administration Office, 342 Massachusetts Ave.

Send brief, typewritten letters to places interesting you, visit employment agencies, and advertise. In your letters ask about openings and list your qualifications, saying that you'd be glad to appear for an interview. Dress neatly and modestly for the interview. (I like those "corde" and wild socks but don't wear them just this once.) Be courteous, brief and alert. Show an interest in the business, and in advancement.

Personally thank those firms without openings but kind enough to write—and visit the best places, though you didn't hear from them.

Threes a Crowd, She Complains

EVERY TIME my boyfriend and I do anything one of his boy friends has to go along. I've lost interest in him.

He's 19 and I'm 17. He went steady with a girl who did him dirty. I was done the same way. Neither of us believes in going steady, but we promised not to go with anyone else. He is jealous of me. Shall I stop seeing him?

PUZZLED GIRL.
Men don't like to know that they're being monopolized and you're both too young to monopolize each other. I think you really enjoy his jealousy, but not your own. You don't have to give him up, but you don't have to date just one boy.

Seeks Sponsor for Blind Singer

I WONDER WHERE I can find someone, individual or company, who would be interested in sponsoring a blind singer of spiritual songs. This man knows more than 100 church songs. His wife, who was sole support, had to leave work because of poor health and there is no income. The gentleman has his own pianist and is willing to go anywhere. He would like a 15-minute spot on the air.

I'll send you letters, if any arrive. Ask your friend to contact the Industrial Board for the Blind and to visit radio stations.

Advice on 'May-December' Wedding

TO "PUZZLED," 22, talking about marrying a girl 17—I'll bet that you have said many times, "I don't know what this younger generation is coming to." I'm one of the younger generation and say truthfully, "I don't know what this older generation is coming to." This girl belongs to the younger generation. Have you considered what her friends and relatives would say if she married an old man like you? I don't say that you will pass on today or tomorrow but 70 is the average age for death and your remaining eight years might ruin this girl's future happiness.

She doesn't love you if she brings the young fellow along. She probably does it to give you a hint how ridiculous you look without hurting your feelings.

So, Grandpa, take Mrs. Manners' advice and stick to your own generation. Ask her about Joy Lodge and meet some nice "lavender and old lace" to your liking. You may meet a lady with the same virtues as the younger girl and what the girl lacks the older one may make up for.

Thank you for a good letter.

30 Thefts Solved In Arrest of Trio

KOKOMO, Apr. 12 (UP).—Police of 11 northern and central Indiana cities closed the books today on 30 safe crackings and robberies, when Kokomo police said that four men in jail here had signed statements admitting the crimes.

Kokomo police identified the bandits as Lavin Glen Amos, 30; Ralph Peters, 21; John Wesley Sargent, 19, and Jack Walker, 18, all of Kokomo.

All except Amos were arrested Saturday after police investigated a two-car crash here. Amos fled to Plymouth, where state police arrested him yesterday.

Police said the bandits admitted taking several thousand dollars worth of loot in 15 attempts in Kokomo, three each in Logansport and Winamac, two in Greentown, and one each in Burlington, Knox, Windfall, Bunkerhill, Peru, Camden and Frankfort.

Two other boys, 10 and 11 years old, were turned over to JAD after snatching a small coal oil stove from a watchman's shanty at the Malleable and Steel Castings Co., 540 N. Holmes Ave.

Two Men Report Beatings by Attackers

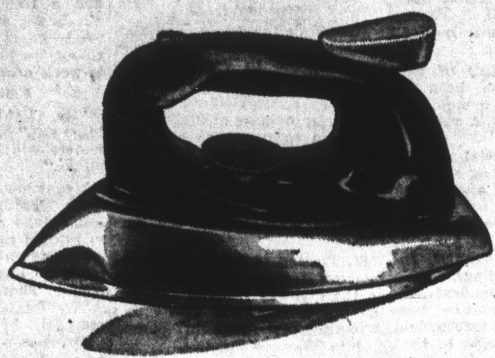

Anthony Pacone, 40, of 119 S. Davidson St., was recovering today from a beating by three men yesterday in front of the Union Station. He told police two unidentified men who jumped on him were joined a few minutes later by a taxi cab driver.

James Anderson, 38, of 1116 E. 13th St., was walking near 16th and Yandes Sts. Saturday when a man jumped out of a passing car and struck him on the head with a crank, he told police. He received treatment at General Hospital.
