THE BIG MOMENT of a horse show, for a contestant, comes when he—or she—takes a ribbon from the judge's hand, grips it between teeth (to leave hands free for reins) and gallops out of the ring.

Before that, though, there are long hours of practice and of checking up on equipment. That's what the horsemen shown above are doing. In preparation for the first annual Legion-Times Charity Horse Show to be staged next Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Coliseum at the Fair Grounds.

All of them ride at the Bonham Stables, the leader—among Indianapolis stables—in number of entries for the show. Of the show's more than 300 entries (a new record for the spring event) 30 are from Bonham's.

Entries have come from all over the Midwest—several from well-known Ohio and Illinois stables—as well as from city and state horsemen who will be competing in 45 classes for the $6500 worth of premiums.

CO-OPERATING with the Robison - Ragdale American Legion Post and The Indianapolis Times in sponsoring the show is the Indiana Saddle Horse Association. The ISHA horse show committee, headed by Charles T. Coats, includes E. A. Crane, Col. H. D. Johnson and Parker T. Spianey.

The three night performances will be at 7:45 o'clock and the
