Are Men Just Plain Show-Offs?

By ERNEST E. BLAU
A. John Hendrick Bangs

A wrote: "I love to watch the rooster crow. He's like so many men I know. Who brag and bluster, rant and shout. And beat their manly breasts, without

The first damn thing to crow about!"

Whatever good points the male may have, modesty in the presence of women isn't one of them. The male show-off starts to strut his stuff when he's a small boy and stands on his head in front of little Goldilocks—and he doesn't stop until he's 70.

IF HE HAS bleeps bigger than a pea he thinks he's a combination of Tarzan and Atlas. He tells his gal what big stuff he is at the shop, or about his drag with the judge, or about his knowledge of world affairs.

Lifeguards tell me most of their troubles are guys, not gals. "Seventy per cent of the people I pull in," says a Rockaway guard, "are men who get out there and think they're Johnny Weismuller."
