Call British Troops In Dock Strike

Guards Ordered
To Move Foodstuffs
LONDON, June 23 (UP)—The government called out the Coldstream Guards today to move foodstuffs rotting on the strike-bound London waterfront.

The order to the troops to get the food moving was issued after all but a handful of the 20,000 strikers ignored appeals by the government and union leaders to get back to work.

Fifty or more of the nearly 150 ships tied up by the strike were loaded with foodstuffs.

Some 4 million eggs were on the Tooley St. wharf. About 350 tons of tomatoes were rotting at the West India dock. Quantities of potatoes were stacked all along the waterfront.

The strike began nine days ago. It was called in protest against the disciplining of 11 dock workers who demanded extra pay for unloading zinc oxide.
