Scouts 'Rough It' At Summer Camp

Site to Be Open All Summer

More than 100 boys are roughing it at an outing at Camp Chank-tun-un-gi sponsored by the Central Indiana Council of Boy Scouts.

The camp will be open all summer with groups of scouts coming and going the entire time.

The boys swim in a large concrete pool and go boating and canoeing on the river. At night, they gather around a campfire for entertaining programs of all kinds. Parents and friends often drive out for this nightly feature or to visit the scouts on Sundays. "Chow" is served in the big dining hall which seats over 200.

Hubert Vitz, veteran scout master in Indianapolis, is directing the camp. C. Otto Janus is camp chairman.

BEES LIKE RILEY—Two colonies of bees decided they like the shaded, pleasant surroundings of Riley Hospital. They settled there and refused to budge. Maintenance men provided proper housing. Now, the bees are making honey.

Mrs. Ode is accused of fatally shooting her former husband, Harvey S. Broglin, when he called at her home at midnight, Feb. 3.

Farm House Blaze Kills Aged Bachelor

BOONVILLE, Ind., June 28 (UP)—J. Henry Sasse, 67, died today in a fire which destroyed his home two and a half miles east of Newburgh.

Mr. Sasse and his brother, Fred, bachelors, lived together in the small frame house. They farmed and also worked a small coal mine on their property.

Fred Sasse told Warrick County Coroner Gilbert Meyer he had gone to the coal mine when he heard a blast back at the house and saw flames. The house was too far gone to save when neighbors and Newburgh firemen arrived.

The cause of the blaze was not determined.

Why Not Try This? THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Cooking in Backyard

Even though you have no outdoor grill built in your backyard, the family can have a lot of fun these spring and summer days experimenting with camp-type cooking.

One of the first things to do is to build yourself a cook-hold—a small pit at least half a foot deep and line it with rocks. When a fire is built in this hole a couple of hours before the cooking is to be done, the rocks will help maintain a fairly even temperature.

One can use a covered pot that fits right into the hole for cooking vegetables or meat. The pot should be surrounded and covered with coals from a good hardwood fire.

Children will have lots of fun baking their own potatoes in sand-filled tin cans. The potato should be wrapped in wet leaves or a wet piece of paper and put in the can so that it is entirely surrounded by sand. Any part that touches the can is likely to burn. Press the lid back over the can and bury it in the hot coals for from 30 to 40 minutes.

These are just a few ideas. Your family probably can work out many others. And from time to time, I'll suggest other backyard eat treats.
