

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Diana Barrymore, 1 year, said it to a Washington, D. C. drama critic. He asked John's daughter if she'd like to return to Hollywood to work. Said Diana: "Hollywood is only for old people. Aunt Ethel loves it."

Could be that she's bitter about her film debut at Universal several years ago. It went over with a hush and she acquired a reputation of being too hot to handle.

THE GRAPEVINE is insisting that Cornet Wilde and his wife, Pat Knight, working together in "The Grapes of Wrath" picture, "The Complainers." Cornet, they say, is trying to rewrite the script and Pat is telling the director how to direct. But I happen to know that the grapevine is all wet. Everyone at Columbia is pleasantly surprised that they are getting along together.

Speaking of Columbia, I overheard this between two movie chorus girls: "Too bad Eisenhower wouldn't run. But I guess he's happy as president of Columbia." "President of Columbia? When did Harry Cohn quit?"

NANCY DUKAKIS, movie bit player, is helping Ronald Reagan forget Jane Wyman.

COALS TO Newcastle again: Warner Brothers shipped 50 "granite" boulders to a granite quarry for a location scene in "The Fountainhead." (They're made of featherweight plastic so Gary Cooper can push 'em around.)

Clark Gable will stick around in London for the Olympic Games. Rita Hayworth has canceled her trip to Rome because of her illness. She's currently soaking up sun at Antilles on the south coast of France.

CONSTANCE BENNETT'S French poodle, who accompanies her everywhere (including the Waldorf Astoria hotel, the Stork and other fancy spots) hasn't been able to crash the plush new Mutual Don Lee studios in Hollywood. All dogs are barred.

CHARLES LAUGHTON, usually Hollywood's "worn-dressed" actor, switched to fancy tweeds and pin stripes for "The Big Clock." A New York clothing firm asked him for an endorsement. Laughton sent them a photo with his shirttail hanging out and a note: "That guy on the screen wasn't me. This is me."

BIG BUSINESS...
Gladys Swarthout is here at Butler Bowl tomorrow night for a gala evening that will be long remembered in Indianapolis. We are indeed fortunate to have Miss Swarthout in town. Don't miss seeing and hearing her.

HOOSIER STARLET—Emalyn Remmel, Indianapolis soprano, who will have the second female lead in "The Merry Widow," operetta starting next Sunday at Butler Bowl.

Local Soprano To Sing at Bowl

Emalyn Remmel, Indianapolis soprano, will have the role of Natalie, second female lead, in "The Merry Widow," opening next Sunday at Butler Bowl. Alonzo Price, producer of the "Stars Under the Stars" operettas, has engaged Miss Remmel for the important role in Lehár's operetta following her work as understudy to Virginia Cord in "The Desert Song." A native of Ft. Wayne, Miss Remmel studied voice and drama at DePauw University, and has had numerous professional engagements throughout Indiana and the Middle West. She has lived in Indianapolis four years.

Bets Are All Off On Election Until Confusion Jells

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 20 (UP)—James J. Carroll, odds maker, said today that the political situation was so confused that he will not set any odds on the November election for at least another month. Carroll said he may wait until September before he makes up his mind. "I won't get any real business until then anyway," he said, "so far, most of the people who wanted to know the odds just wanted to make barroom bets."

English Fans Applaud Benny for 10 Minutes

LONDON, July 20 (UP)—Radio comedian Jack Benny, making his first appearance in England since 1931, received a 10-minute ovation from a capacity audience when he opened a three-week engagement at the Palladium last night. Band Leader Phil Harris, Marilyn Maxwell and Mr. Benny's wife, Mary Livingston, appeared in the show that followed the format of Mr. Benny's radio show.

IN JORDAN OPERA—Patti Browne, soprano, who will sing the part of Santuzza in Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," to be produced at 8:30 p. m. today on Jordan Conservatory's Delaware St. campus.
