Union Officers Found Guilty Of Contempt

Arraigned After Raid
On Local 103 Offices

Three international officers of the Hoisting and Portable Engineers, AFL, were found guilty of contempt of court in Superior Court last night in the aftermath of their raid on the offices of the union local last week.

They were convicted by Judge Ralph Hamill on charges that they seized about $40,000, office records and three automobiles from Local 103 of the union in violation of a restraining order issued last Aug. 27.

The restraining order was issued on an injunction suit brought by members of the local to prevent international officers from taking over management of the Indianapolis office.

Hearing Set Sept. 25
Judge Hamill ordered the three officers to return the cash, automobiles and office records to the local office pending a hearing Sept. 25 on the permanent injunction.

The three officers cited for contempt were O. B. Soule, Terre Haute, international trustee; Earl Whitehurst, Ft. Wayne, and Russell McCoy, Kokomo, agents of the international office.

Witnesses testified that the international office "raided" the Local 103 office in the Peoples Bank building here Sept. 2, held a secretary prisoner for nearly four hours and took over the cash and office records.

Held "In Trust"
The international officers testified they took over the money and records to hold them "in trust" until a dispute over election of officers for the local union had been settled.

Lynn G. Miles and Julian Pace, attorneys for the local union, said members of the local had voted unanimously to restore management of the union to local officers. International officers had been managing the local since 1939.
