

Aussie Councilors Get 'Windsor Look'

Times Foreign Service
MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 30.—J. S. Disney, Melbourne's new lord mayor, wants to give his city councilors a "Windsor look" when they attend important doings. He urged them to wear buckled shoes, black silk stockings, knee breeches, cutaway coats, and shirts with lace at the throat.

But cloth-shorts Melbourne tailors aren't enthused over the idea. The difference between making court-dress fancy shirts and ordinary ones, they say, "is the same as the difference between building a battleship and a rowboat."

It Happened Last Night

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Clark Gable was going to be at the baseball game but it seemed silly of me to mention this to my Beautiful Wife.

"You wouldn't want to go, it's no place for a lady of your refinement," I remarked, lovingly, so I went with my brother-in-law, Pete Overman. Sure enough—Clark was there and all the gals were grunting, groaning and gasping.

Clarkie (just another one of the millions of Ohio boys who made good) had almost stolen the show from Yankee Joe DiMaggio.

And men cheered Gable as though he were Grable.

CLARK—a former Akron (that's in Ohio) rubber-worker—got an ovation such as only Babe Ruth and Bing Crosby got in recent years.

Well, when I got home, I admitted the horrid deceit to my B. W., who was burned up like a bride's toast, and said:

"Maybe we shouldn't bring Sluggie up to be a bookmaker, or an opulent ticket speculator, or a saloonkeeper. Maybe we should teach him how to trim a mustache, wear a blue suit, and the right thing to say to a dame."

Loved by All

"AW, YOU DON'T TEACH ANYBODY sex appeal," the B. W. said.

"That's right, I was born with it," I said, but that got nothing, and I mean nothing, I began reasoning that Clark (did I mention he's from Ohio?) is loved by both sexes because he's a modest guy who went to war, came home quietly, and kept out of messes.

Why, I didn't hear an anti-Gable remark up there at Yankee Stadium where Clark sat with Nancy Davis, the Chicago brain surgeon's daughter who's his newest attraction; as well as Bob Goldstein, Dan Topping, Bill Holden, Joan Caulfield and some others.

One tough baseball fan—annoyed when some people stood up to stare—did snarl:

"Siddown, you can see him any time for 35 cents plus tax."

GENTLEMEN—George Solitaire, prez of the Joe DiMaggio Fan Club, at one time bellowed to all 70,000 fans:

"Aw, if you want to see a star, look out in center field!"

But a dozen foot cops and some mounties helped Clark out after yesterday's game and he apologized to his friends for their discomfort.

"Rough on you people to have to go through this," he said. "Rough! Why, they hated it like a bum hates rum."

I WAS ENTRANCED at seeing what goes on.

The other day Toots Shor's daughter, Kerry, had a 2d birthday.

They had a birthday party. But the Yanks were playing that afternoon. Toots ordered the party held in the morning.

It was the first birthday party in history where cake and ice cream were served at 9:30 a. m.

Pop Needs Appeal

HYSTERIA? Yes, there was a little directed at Ted Williams—spelled "hysteria."

The popularity of Gable (by the way, he comes from my home state, Ohio) at the baseball game did not end the argument between the B. W. and me. The B. W. repeated that he has sex appeal.

My brother-in-law, Pete, who was my second, said:
