Hays Praises Flanner House Social Work

Ex-Film Czar Talks at Anniversary Session

Flanner House's "efficient and fruitful" social work was praised today by Will H. Hays, former czar of the motion picture industry, on the observance of the institution's 50th anniversary.

Mr. Hays addressed a luncheon meeting of the two-day seminar in the Indianapolis Athletic Club. "Flanner House is unique in that it specializes in helping men, women and children to help themselves. It does not believe in handing out gifts but in enabling people to discover and make full use of the gifts that God gave them," Mr. Hays said.

Holds Advisory Post
Mr. Hays, an associate in the Hays & Hays law offices in Indianapolis and Sullivan, his home town, still holds an advisory capacity in the film capital.

In an interview in his Columbia Club room preceding the dinner, Mr. Hays spoke of his continuing interest in the Republican Party of which he is a former state and national chairman and former postmaster general, and presented his views on the recent election.

"The feature of the election," he said, "was the failure of so many millions of people to vote at all."

"More men in politics for what they can give and not for what they can get" are needed, he said.

Urges Peace Patriotism
"People should apply their patriotism in peace as well as in wartime and make the country's business their business," Mr. Hays asserted.

"If they do that, governmental evils will be short lived indeed. And the only way to do it is by attention to the processes of practical politics."

There must always be "two political parties, both strong and virile," he said. "There is no other way to audit and to police a democracy."

Offer a Year Program
A 50 per cent increase in the number of the country's doctors, dentists and nurses is provided in a proposed 10-year health program, J. Donald Kingsley, assistant Federal Security Administrator, told the meeting yesterday.

The address climaxed the opening session of conferences and seminars celebrating the founding of Flanner House, Indianapolis, Negro community service center.

Mr. Kingsley said that critics of the plan's national health insurance program have indulged in "nonsense and pure fantasy" in calling it a "socialistic experiment" and "state medicine."

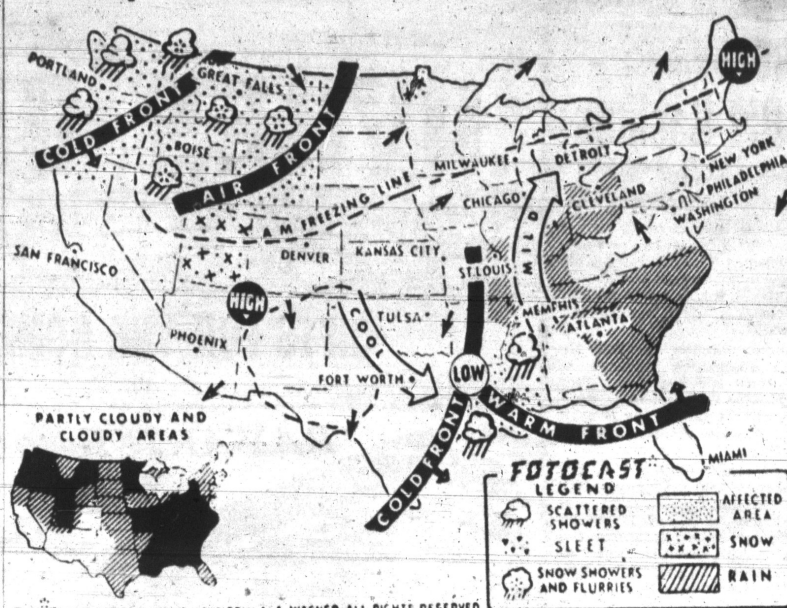

Urged by Ewing
The plan recently was submitted to President Truman by Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing.

Pointing to Flanner House, Mr. Kingsley said: "Indianapolis has a right to be exceedingly proud of this great social service center which plays such a significant role in the life of the community."

The Democrat session in the Spencer Hotel, National Committeeman Frank McHale suggested to the legislators that they "pass as few bills as possible." He said the party program would be sufficient without "cluttering up the books with a lot of fob legislation."

He also urged the newcomers including most of the Democrats in the upcoming General Assembly to "stick together."

"Let's not have two or three prima donnas in this thing," the veteran party leader said. "If the majority of your party outvotes you, be a sport about it and do what the majority does."

Puppets Balk Allied Move From Red Hall

Liaison Units Quit, But Dispute Rises

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP)—Soviet sector German police delayed the withdrawal of the Western powers' liaison officers from Berlin city hall today by demanding to inspect the British officer's files and his pictures of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

A German police officer at the Communist-controlled city hall in the Soviet sector told the British officer, Lt. Col. H. P. Whitford, that the inspection was ordered by the puppet mayor of Eastern Berlin, Friedrich Ebert. A crowd assembled outside the building and tension mounted for a time.

"Tell Ebert to come to my office and see me," the angry British officer retorted.

The German policeman, later notified Lt. Col. Whitford that the Russian liaison officer would attempt to settle the dispute.

Yank Awaits Outcome

In adjoining conference, American and French liaison officers stopped packing their files to await the outcome of the British-German police dispute.
