Nevada Spikes Licenses of 3 Big Casinos

Bookmaking War Rocks Las Vegas

CARSON CITY, Nev., Dec. 2 (UP)—The Nevada Tax Commission cracked down on legal bookmaking today because of a dispute that "threatens to result in physical attacks upon persons and property."

The commission revoked the state bookmaking licenses of three large Las Vegas gambling casinos—the Golden Nugget Club, the Frontier Club and the Boulder Club. The order becomes effective Dec. 30.

Seven other casinos in Las Vegas were told they must clean house by Jan. 1 or their licenses would not be renewed. These clubs were the Eldorado, Las Vegas, Monte Carlo, Nevada Turf Club, Santa Anita Turf Club, Zanzibar and Savoy Club.

The dispute centered about the refusal of Continental Press, a nationwide race wire service, to sell its facilities to the Santa Anita Turf Club of Las Vegas.

Charge Monopoly
Its operators, Ed Margolis and Neft and Dave Stearns, have been charged with being a monopoly in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Another suit charges Margolis and the Stearns with bootlegging race results from a Las Vegas casino by boring a hole through the ceiling and relaying the information gained by short wave radio.

The tax commission also said gamblers Moe Sedway, Connie Hurley and Morris Rosen, were interested financially in the Boulder News Service, which distributes the Continental report to Las Vegas book makers.

Fears Violence
All three have been accused with unduly influencing distribution of race results, and of jiggering the rates charged through interlocking ownerships of various Vegas race horse books.

None of the three, the commission ruled, will be allowed to reapply for a bookmaking license until he can prove he no longer is connected with distributing Continental.

Father Slays Son, 9, Attempts Suicide

GLASTONBURY, Conn., Dec. 2 (UP)—A 9-year-old boy was found dead in bed today and his father was hospitalized in fair condition in what police described as murder and attempted suicide.

Mrs. Margaret Andrews, returning from work, discovered the body of her son, David, and her unconscious husband, Henry, 30, in their bedroom. Police said a hose was attached to a kitchen gas stove jet, which was turned on. Asleep and unharmed in another room was the couple's 6-year-old daughter, Mabelle.

Iron Lung Patient to Fly
Home for Christmas

BOSTON, Dec. 2 (UP)—A 38-year-old infantile paralysis victim who has been confined to an iron lung for 15 years—the second longest confinement in medical history—will fly to Tujunga, Cal., tomorrow to spend Christmas with her family.

Miss Celia Surovsky has been a polio patient at Boston City Hospital since 1933. Paralyzed, with the exception of neck and face muscles, she now can remain outside the iron lung for about eight hours a day.

Fun at 101

GOFFS FALLS, N. H., Dec. 2 (UP)—Onetime drummer boy James M. Lurvey, second oldest of New England's three remaining Civil War veterans, marked his 101st birthday today with a hearty breakfast topped by a brandy-spiked mug of coffee.
