

Ever Wash $10,384.50 Worth of Dimes? Here's How Clothe-A-Child Helpers Go About It

Firemen Maynard Byrum, Robert McDonnell and Robert Prince scooped up the Mile-O-Dimes with brush and dustpan, all $10,384.50 of it. Watching over their shoulders were Fire Chief Roscoe McKinney, Assistant Chief Charles Gregory, Patrolman F. J. Craig and Battalion Chief Harvey Keppel.

Times employees William B. Jefferson, Clarence Boles and Otto Hughes washed the dimes in great tubs. The coins were transported to The Times by firemen and police. Soon the dimes were gleaming.

Ervin Freudenburg, Norbert V. Booker, William Nicewanger and Ralph Truex of The Times began drying the dimes with large cloths. Hundreds of the city's needy children were clothed by the Mile. No Christmas enterprise in the United States has more donors than The Times' Clothe-A-Child.

"DO YOU all know 'Away in the Manger?'" asked Mrs. Long.

"Wees," said a three-year-old girl.

The strangeness of a party was leaving them. They were beginning to realize it was for them.

Judy Burkhardt of the Howe High School service group read the story of "Wolfski Bear," who was trapped into being a Christmas present because he left home at an early age. A two-year-old twisted in his seat and cuddled up to Mrs. Bailey, the kindergarten teacher.

One of the little girls hit one of the little boys on the head. He looked at her astonished, turned back to hear the story. Then they sang a little more loudly this time:

"Jolly Old St. Nicholas . . . don't you tell a single soul . . .

"All the stockings you will find . . .

"Mine will be the shortest one."

I DON'T think Santa heard Danny sing," said Mrs. Bailey. "Were you singing Danny?"

"No," said Danny. "I didn't want to."

Caroline Schuster of the Howe Group read the saga of "Tuffy the Tugboat." The three brothers who had been waiting outside to go home with their mother for Christmas peeked in and listened.

After that, there was ice cream and Santa Claus boots filled with small lollipops.

'3-Time Pardon Winner' Spends Yule With Mother

Prison Gates Open After 13 Years; Logger Steadfastly Denies Slaying Hotelkeeper

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 25 (UPI)—For the first time in 13 years, Mrs. E. L. Boggie, Lebanon, Ore., will be able to celebrate the yule tide season with her son.

Clarence G. Boggie, 35, was pardoned by Washington's Gov. Mon C. Wallgren Thursday after he had served 13 years for a murder he apparently did not commit.

The prison-wearied logger, three times pardoned from Northwest penitentiaries, left the prison here yesterday homeward bound.

"It's been a long time," he said. "I carried Christmas gifts for his father and mother."

Boggie had been sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Moritz Petersen, a Spokane Wash. hotelkeeper.

in his life at the home of the prison chaplain.

"I bought a nice pair of slippers for mother and a pipe for dad," Boggie said. For money, he used the five dollar bill the state hands every freed prisoner.

Plans to Get Married

"I plan on getting married to a lovely lady," Barnett, Wis., he said. "I can't wait to see her."

Boggie talked to the "lovely lady," Bernice Nickels, 40, on the phone last night.

"We've never met, just written to each other while I was in prison," he said.

"It's been a long time," he said.

His father and mother.

The governors of those states had pardoned Boggie earlier.

The "three-time winner" went shopping yesterday, then to church.
