

Shower Gifts On Gov. Gates As Term Ends

200 Pay Tribute At Columbia Club

Gov. Gates' official and political family showered him with gifts and praise last night in a final tribute before he leaves office.

Next Monday at 11 a. m. he will present Henry F. Schricker, the Democrat who preceded him as Governor and now will succeed him, to an inauguration audience in the Statehouse. That presentation will be his last official act as Chief Executive.

More than 250 governmental and political associates paid their respects at last night's $10-a-plate dinner at the Columbia Club, plushy seat of Hoosier Republicanism.

They presented him with a silver tea service and a leather scroll, and dubbed him the "grand guy" of Hoosier GOP politics.

Richard T. James, for three years lieutenant governor under the Gates administration, paid special tribute to the governor's record in building Indiana's public and mental health services.

His "Monument"

"No governor," Mr. James said, "has done more for Indiana's mental institutions or in the field of public health."

He pointed to the start of three new institutions under the administration, built on the foundation of a far-sighted policy which set up a post-war building fund for that purpose.

The new institutions are the Northern Indiana Children's Hospital, the Northern Indiana Hospital for the Insane and the LaRue D. Carter Memorial Hospital, a psychiatric screening institution.

All are nearing completion and will live, Mr. James said, as a "monument to the leadership of Ralph Gates."

After Mr. James' recital of the accomplishments of his administration, Gov. Gates replied that his principal reward had been the "realization that we have contributed to the well-being of Indiana."

"Lottiest Goals"

The scroll lauded the retiring governor's "integrity, energy, ability and enthusiasm."

"He has blended an understanding of statecraft with enduring service to the loftiest goals of government," it said.

"A generous spirit, a keen sense of humor and a gracious personality endear him to us. We respect him as a man, we honor him as a leader, we love him as a grand guy."

Book Review Set By Christian Service

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Broadway Methodist Church will present Mrs. George B. Gannon in review of several books on the Life of Dr. Albert Schweitzer tomorrow afternoon.

The program will follow a 10:30 a. m. business meeting and 12:30 p. m. luncheon in the church building. Rogan Baldwin will give suite selections and accompany Mrs. C. B. Moore who will sing Indian Christian hymns. Mrs. James E. Perry will give the devotions.

Hotel English To Be Razed Soon

Demolition of the entirely vacated English Hotel block is expected to be started within two weeks.

Sale of the northwest segment of Monument Circle by the William E. English Foundation to the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States was completed yesterday when Equitable officials received the deed. Price was $21 million.

The J. C. Penney & Co. has taken a long-term lease on the property from Equitable and will construct a three-story building upon which floors will be added later.

Klein & Kuhn, property management agency, will supervise the property when completed and the building project will be under supervision of Clifford C. Wood, Chicago, regional director of real estate for Equitable.

Insured, but Wrong Way

Miss Monray Thomas... Nothing was left of Miss Thomas' home at Warren, Ark., after a twister hit the town Monday. When she checked on her insurance policy she sobbed. Storm damages were not covered. She makes her living as a waitress.

Hail and Rain Add Grief To Freezing Tornado Area

Dazed Residents Cleaning Up; 250 Arkansas Homes Destroyed

WARREN, Ark., Jan. 5 (UP)—Freezing weather multiplied the suffering in this grief-stricken town today as dazed residents began the long job of cleaning up after a tornado that killed at least 54 and left hundreds injured.

As if the howling, killing twister that tore up some 250 homes were not enough, the elements continued to plague this broken community.

Hail and heavy rains followed the hop-skip tornado Monday night. Thunderstorms and a heavy downpour kept up all day yesterday.

Last night the skies cleared, but the temperature dropped. By early today, weary cleanup crews battled freezing weather to get this once-bustling lumber town back to "normal."

The furious, whirling tornado rushed across 100 miles of northwest Louisiana and Arkansas late Monday leaving wreckage and injured in its wake everywhere, but this town near the end of its path was by far the hardest hit.

Of the 54 known dead, 49 were killed here. Only haphazard estimates of the injured could be made, but they ranged from 270 to 400.

Founding Panel Meets Tuesday

Central Indiana Chapter of American Foundrymen's Society, Inc., will present a question and answer panel at its monthly meeting at 3 p. m. Tuesday in the Athenaeum.

The panel will be composed of Indianapolis and central Indiana foundry officials representing gray iron, steel, non-ferrous and malleable metallurgical processes.

Participants will include J. P. Lentz, International Harvester Co.; Richard Bancroft, Perfect Circle Corp.; G. C. Dickey, Harrison Steel Castings Co.; and Fred Kurtz, Electric Steel Castings Co.

Also included are Ray Pickenworth, C. & G. Foundry and Pattern Works; Paul L. Hargitt, Light Metal, Inc.; William Zeunik, National Malleable & Steel Castings Co.; and Carl Schopp, Link Belt Co.

William Ziegelmuller of Electric Steel Casting Co., Speedway, is chairman.

Coroner Probes Roomer's Death

The body of a 27-year-old man, believed to have been dead several days, was found in a rooming house at 926 N. Park Ave. last night.

Coroner Jerome Holman Jr. said there was no evidence of violence on the body of Wendell Kaivert, 42. He was found in his room lying face down on the floor.

Police entered the room after the rooming-house owner, Gene Lyttle, 27, reported he had not seen Mr. Kaivert since Christmas. Coroner's deputies were examining the body today to determine time of death and cause.

Poised to Start Production Race

functional parts where the strain is extreme.

The labor market here seems to have its feet on the ground, with little unemployment.

General Motors is sitting pretty with its two-year "cost of living" contract. But Ford may have problems with a fourth round of wage increases.

Labor leaders made careful note of the statement by Henry Ford II not long ago to the effect that a fourth round of wage increases is "inevitable."

Chrysler also faces labor negotiations about the middle of the year. These probably will be handled as quietly as possible in keeping with the policy of the corporation to keep its family internal problems as far out of public sight as possible.

The new Plymouth to be unveiled late next week will be lower, wider and longer, with more glass and integrated fenders. But officials assure you that it won't be low enough "to knock your hat off."

G. M., which is on top, intends to remain there and is putting great hope in its "rocket" engine, having sunk some $12 million into an engine plant for Oldsmobile at Lansing.

Long-range guesses point out that all of the G. M. valve-in-head power plants, except Pontiac, will evolve easily into super-high compression motors when gas stations add higher octane fuel pumps.

You can feel the crackling tension in the air here as motor executives gear up their organizations for the competitive race scheduled to get the starting gun before the leaves fall.

When that date arrives, auto salesmen again will squeeze the customer's hand, and not his pocketbook, ask him to have a comfortable chair, give him a big cigar and treat him like a long lost brother.

Reports $298 Million In Bank Resources

The Indiana National Bank, largest in the state, in a condensed statement as of Dec. 31 showed resources of $298,198,014.

The bank's highly liquid position was reflected in its $235,274,994 in cash on hand and on deposit with Federal Reserve and other banks, and in U. S. securities.

Other bonds and securities were listed at $15,945,812; stock in the Federal Reserve Bank $450,000, loans and discounts $45,239,900, bank building $400,000, accrued interest receivable $1,083,138, and other resources $104,178.

7 Slots Seized In Club Raid

Seven slot machines, containing a yet undetermined number of nickels, dimes and quarters, reposed today in the police property room after a raid yesterday at the Print Graft Club, 315 1/2 N. Delaware St.

The machines were taken from the club by Capt. Harry Yarbrough and his squad. The captain said he went to the club, knocked on the door and asked to see the manager.

When the door was opened, he said he saw the machines in the room so he and his squad moved in and took possession.

No arrests were made in the raid.

The club is operated as a non-profit organization by the Union Printing Crafts Bowling Association.
