

Vatican Hints Approval of Atlantic Pact

Pontiff Calls For Votive Mass On Passion Sunday

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12 (UP)—Pope Pius indirectly endorsed the European Union and the proposed North Atlantic Security Pact today in a solemn call to the Roman Catholic faithful of the world to defend God against his increasing enemies.

The Pontiff asked the world's Catholic clergy to celebrate an extra mass on Passion Sunday, Apr. 3—a votive mass "to expiate the crime of the enemies of God." Although he did not directly mention the case, the Pope's "Apostolic Exhortation" left no doubt that he regarded the sentencing of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty as athens's crowning blow in a struggle that, he said, "seems, if ever, has been so acute as it is today."

Warns of Disaster
At the same time, the Sacred Consistorial Congregation extended the church's excommunication to all who participated in or even concurred in the sentencing of Cardinal Mindszenty. Earlier, the Congregation excommunicated all who participated in or concurred in the cardinal's arrest.

Pope Pius, in his exhortation to the Catholic clergy, warned that rejection of God brings about "disasters."

"Who does not fear and abhor strife and civil discords and wars which in the future will cause immense destruction?" he asked.

"That such a disaster will be averted off we welcome with approval the steps that have been taken to United States together in ever closer alliances."

"But this will be a faltering attempt founded on quicksand unless there prevails everywhere a strong sense of the brotherhood of men, which renders mutual contracts sacred and secure, strengthens pacts and welds communities together."

Diplomatic quarters in Rome were quick to interpret the Pope's reference to "ever closer alliances" as an endorsement of the new Western European Union and the proposed North Atlantic Security Pact.

Both the proposed Atlantic Pact and the military clauses of the Western European Union agreement assigned to the West against any surprise attack from Communist-ruled Eastern Europe.

The Pope exhorted his clergy to let nothing concern them more than "battling to defend the name of God."

Morals Collapse
"With supreme insolence," he said, "the enemies of the name of God avail themselves of every kind of help and advantage. Books, periodicals, the press, the radio, organizations, public meetings and private interviews, education and culture; all are at their service to spread the name of God."

The Pope said that without reverence for God, right and wrong become mere words and moral law collapses.

After mature thought and deliberation, the Pope added, he had decided to "permit and exhort" the Catholic clergy to celebrate on Passion Sunday a second mass "which will be the votive mass for the remission of sins."

Recognizing that some clergy, presumably those behind the Iron Curtain, might be unable to say such a mass, the Pope said: "Those who for any reason do not use this privilege shall say the mass of the Sunday and at least earnestly commend our intention to God during the eucharistic sacrifice."

Grandmothers Learn New Home Nursing Methods

Mrs. John M. Rotz, 608 E. 96th St., watches approvingly as Mrs. Leroy Huddleston, 1806 Ingram St., and Mrs. Blanche Heidenreich, 2206 N. Harding St., demonstrate their training in the Grandmothers Home Nursing Class of the Red Cross.

13 Ladies Conduct Class On 'Care of the Sick' Here

Graduate Nurse, Mrs. John Rotz, Organized And Instructs Group at Red Cross House

By OPAL CROCKETT

If there are better ways to pull Junior's loose front tooth than to tie it to a doorknob and bribe him to open the door, Grandmother wants to know about it. She refuses to struggle along with old-fashioned home nursing when the Red Cross teaches new methods.

Ready to serve their families, as always, 13 grandmothers conduct the Grandmothers Home Nursing Class on "Care of the Sick," at the Red Cross Chapter House, 1126 N. Meridian St., on Tuesdays.

These 13 grandmothers have wrung their hands while members of their families writhed in pain on old-time featherbeds. They've walked the floor, helplessly, until the doctor came. Their total of approximately 800 full years of living has taught them to grasp at new methods when they're available.

Belong to Club
Mrs. John Rotz, a grandmother three times, organized the class and instructs it. She is a graduate nurse and president of the Mary Washington Grandmothers Club. All but three members of the Home Nursing group belong to that club. Mrs. Leroy Huddleston and Mrs. Blanche Heidenreich, shown in the photo with Mrs. Rotz, have 16 and 7 grandchildren, respectively.

Mrs. Charles Schlegel, 75, of 4615 Winthrop Ave., is the eldest grandmother in the class. Ages of members range from 61 to 76.

"We don't talk about birthdays. We talk about our grandchildren," the grandmothers explain. They fear they may need to call upon those grandchildren to serve as "patients" for they are so accustomed to serve they're reluctant to play patient and accept treatment.

Miss Eva MacDougall of 5031 Park Ave. is director of Red

Henry Thake, 4848 Caroline Ave.; Mrs. Harry Smith, 2146 W. 44th St.; Mrs. Maude Smith, 2150 White Ave.; Mrs. Harry Stearns, 1521 W. Vermont St.; and Mrs. Charles Steinmetz, 4555 Allisonville Rd.

The Mary Washington Club was formed Dec. 2, 1948 and is affiliated with the National Grandmothers Club. Local officers, with Mrs. John Rotz, president, are Mrs. Elsie Manning, 2116 Dexter St. and Mrs. Flossie Lauffer, 1316 W. 32d St., vice presidents; Mrs. Huddleston, treasurer, and Mrs. Howard Grubbs, 3933 N. Keystone Ave., secretary. All of the officers except Mrs. Lauffer are enrolled in Home Nursing.

Other club members enrolled are Mrs. A. E. Austin, 1210 Shannon Ave.; Mrs. W. Earle Miller, 6642 Kingsley Dr.; Mrs. Ina Smith, 3237 E. 38th St.; and Mrs. H. P. Willwerth, 2471 E. Riverside Dr. Also taking the course are Mrs. Lynora Baker, 3330 N. Meridian St.; Mrs. Estella Cunningham, 142 E. Ohio St.; Mrs. Ethel Roger, 5234 E. St. Clair St.

Other members of the Mary Washington Club (not in the class) are Mrs. Alvin Adams, 5626 Guilford Ave.; Mrs. Robert J. Adams, 1836 Mansfield St.; Mrs. Harry Bernhardt, 4931 W. Ford St.; Mrs. William Castleman, 1028 N. Belle View Pl.; Mrs. George Connell, 3910 College Ave.; Mrs. Floyd Jones, 5734 Kingsley Dr.; Mrs. C. B. McAnally, 5632 Guilford Ave.; Mrs.

Classmates of '24 to Walk Manual Halls Again at Fete

Graduates to Mark Silver Anniversary At School's Birthday Observance

By DAVID WATSON

The old halls and stairways of Manual High School will feel the tread of familiar steps Friday when the silver anniversary reunion of the 1924 graduating class is held with the 54th birthday celebration of the school.

In all probability the staid old walls of the building will echo repeated questions as to the whereabouts of "Joe" or "Sally." Sometimes these questions will bring enthusiastic responses of "Why, haven't you heard . . . ?" Again an old classmate might say in a puzzled tone, "I don't know. Haven't seen him since . . ."

Surprises Due
Actually, some members of the old class of '24 would be surprised to learn the achievements of former school chum, especially in view of the original class prophecy.

Alonso Martin, for example, never became governor of Indiana as was prophesied. It is doubtful that he ever tried to become the state's chief executive.

Mr. Martin picked the job of manager of the Indianapolis Athletic Club, and held that office until he moved to Washington, D. C. last year to take over the management of the Congressional Country Club.

George Anderson never rose to the rank of general in the Salvation Army as was predicted. He went to law school and is a well-known Indianapolis attorney.

Double-Cross Prophecy
Perhaps a local theater usher, taxi drivers' and chauffeur's union could have used Charles Dosch as its future president when the class prophecy was written in 1924, but Mr. Dosch went on the stage instead. He is well-known for appearances at Civic Theater programs and the local summer opera presentations.

Even the girls of the class double-crossed the prophecy writers. Miss Helen Adolay never pursued the theater ticket selling career posted beside her name in the classbook. She teaches now in one of the city's public schools.

But all of these minor problems will be ironed out when the anniversary reunion opens Friday and former classmates again learn "who's who."

Mrs. Thomas Neale (Helen Harmonson) is in charge of arrangements for the program, assisting her husband.

Honor McComb
During her Manual days she was the first recipient of the Bruce Robinson Post, American Legion Citizenship Medal, and was May Queen in 1922.

E. H. Kemper McComb, who served as principal of Manual High when the class of '24 was graduated, has been chosen by the group to be guest of honor during the 25th anniversary celebration. He retired as principal last year.
