

SUNDAY, FEB. 20, 1949

Rush 'Sparks' Astoria After Mutiny Calls

Radio Operator 'Breaks Down' On U. S.-Bound Ship

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 19 (UP)—The American freighter William Phips returned to Gibraltar today and put ashore its radio operator after he had suffered a "nervous breakdown" and flashed a series of frantic messages indicating there was a mutiny aboard the ship.

The radio operator was taken to a hospital in Gibraltar. The garbled messages, one of which said, "they are trying to kill me," caused a U. S. destroyer to speed after the William Phips to investigate a possible mutiny.

The freighter passed the Rock of Gibraltar this morning bound for Galveston, Tex., from Naples, Italy. Shortly afterward, the U. S. Army Transport Gen. Stuart Heinemann picked up the first dim SOS near the Azores.

Subsequent messages, flashed in rapid succession, which were picked up at other points, said: "Got Pierce radio operator... locked in radio... smoking me out... please get bearing."

(In New Orleans, an official of the Lykes Shipping Company, which operates the ship, said the William Phips was captained by J. Kelly, hometown unknown, and carried a crew of 45 including a radio operator named Pierce. The ship left Galveston last month with a load of grain.)

Bartender Kills Armed Patron

Shoots After Being Target of 5 Shots

RICHMOND, Feb. 19 (UP)—Police said tonight that John Seery, 27, was shot and killed by a bartender here following an argument over a drink.

Authorities said Seery went into a downtown bar, demanded a drink and fired five wild shots at bartender Charles Hoffmeister when he was refused.

Mr. Hoffmeister, a former New York policeman, grabbed a pistol and fired twice, wounding Seery fatally.

"Trouble Maker" Police said Seery had a minor police record and was known as a "trouble maker." They said Seery first argued with Mrs. Forrest Fought, wife of the tavern's owner, before picking on Mr. Hoffmeister.

When he was refused his drink, police said, he whipped out his pistol and fired. Mr. Hoffmeister was not injured.

Police said Mr. Hoffmeister was being questioned. No charges were filed against him.

CIO to 'Mop Up' Reds In Unions on Coast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (UP)—CIO sources said tonight that a "mop up" campaign against Communist influence in CIO affairs is expected to start next week in California.

CIO Vice President Allan S. Haywood, top lieutenant in the anti-Communist drive, is scheduled to leave next week for Los Angeles. He will investigate a petition from a group of right-wing unions demanding ouster of the City Industrial Union Council.

Los Angeles, San Francisco and the California State Council are the only big groups directly under CIO administration still in the hands of left-wingers. CIO officials said.

TVA Retains Freedom Under Hoover Report

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (UP)—The Hoover Commission has rejected a recommendation by one of its "task forces" that the Tennessee Valley Authority be placed under Interior Department direction. It was learned today.

The proposed change was strongly supported by Chairman Herbert Hoover at a commission meeting Thursday. But a majority of the 12-man group on government reorganization voted to leave undisturbed TVA's status as an independent organization which reports to the President.

The big power authority in the Tennessee Valley area has 15,200 employees. Its 36 plants produce 2,206,000 kilowatts of power.

Moscow Says West Misjudges Red Army

LONDON, Feb. 19 (UP)—Radio Moscow claims today that Anglo-American military men are trying to conceal the accomplishments of the Soviet army in the last war. Such efforts are not succeeding, the broadcast said.

It quoted Lt. Gen. Galadjev, head of the political department of the Soviet army, as saying that western military men are alarmed at the popularity of the Soviet armed forces and the authority of the Soviet army in the eyes of the people of the world.

The broadcast said Gen. Galadjev spoke at the general staff meeting held in honor of the 35th anniversary of the Soviet army.

A Sage Helps Light the Way

Hilton U. Brown, George Leamon and Dr. DeForest O'Dell... at 90, a senior newspaperman has something to tell a college editor and a journalism professor.

Hilton U. Brown Faces 90 Puffing His Favorite Cigars

Countless Hoosiers Hail Birthday With Telegrams, Letters, Flower

By HAROLD HARTLEY Today hundreds of Hoosiers will climb the winding walk to "The Rocks" on the crown of the hill at 5087 E. Washington St. They will be there to shake the hand of one of the town's most respected and honored citizens.

For Hilton U. Brown, it will be the day on which he, and countless well-wishers, celebrate his 90th birthday in his 55-year-old mansion atop the grass-carpeted hill.

Last night Mr. Brown, the editor and good citizen, faced his 90th birthday with twinkling brown eyes and a smile-etched face in his book-walled library, laden with mementos from the friends who have meant most to him along the way.

In his housecoat of West Point gray, and smoking his favorite cigar (he still smokes 10 to 12 a day), he lifted his feet to the corner of his desk and looked over his shoulder into the fallen dusk.

"Strange Light" "There's been a strange light out this evening," he said, "amber and gold." Then after a pause, "I've been surprised—overwhelmed the flowers." He motioned to his daughters. "The girls put them out where it's cold."

His son-in-law, Floyd Mannon, attorney, brought in a tray piled high with letters and telegrams of congratulations. They were from men high in political and business life, and old, time-tested friends.

Even while he was talking two more came, one from Louisiana and one from some one at Folk's Dairy.

On Friday he had been to a meeting of the Jordan Foundation where the other members surprised him with a resolution, and presented him with flowers.

And Butler University where he was elected to the board by the alumni in 1938 (he's been board president since 1903) sent him a basket with 90 jonquils, one for each year.

Knew Woodrow Wilson The widely-traveled editor emeritus of The News, now vice president of the Indianapolis Newspapers, Inc., has been far in the world including the Paris and Versailles peace meetings where he knew Woodrow Wilson as he has many presidents.

"It's a different age," he said. "I've grown up with the town. I've tried to adjust. There's no comparison. Women used to sew more, skim the milk and make butter. Now they can get out more."

Viewing the peace problem from a 90-year-wide horizon, he said, "The trouble with Europe is the differences in languages, habits and currency. Only the higher classes speak the tongue of neighboring countries."

"When I was at the Peace Conference in 1926—" His daughter stopped him. "You mean 1926?" He said, "That's close enough."

Mr. Brown who has an L.L.D. (one son-in-law calls him doctor) will preach a sermon this morning at the Downey Avenue Christian Church.

"What's the subject?" His eyes twinkled again. "Why 'Ninety Years,' of course."

So today, then the procession winds up the walk to the hilltop mansion of Hilton U. Brown, you will, in fact, be seeing a reflection of 90 years of community devotion coming back to touch his hand.

In Indianapolis—Vital Statistics

EVENTS TODAY
Sinfonietta, Spring Trio Concert—2:30 p. m., World War Memorial auditorium.
Miss Betty Conner, Piano Recital—3 p. m., West Park Christian Church.
Palestine Speech, "Opportunities for Brotherhood"—7:30 p. m., First Baptist Church.
Business Film, "The Stone Flower"—8:15 p. m., Kirkham Community Center.

EVENTS TOMORROW
Indiana State Teachers Association Convention—9:30 a. m., Indiana Hotel.
Contemporary Literature Group, American Association of University Women Meeting—1:30 p. m., home of Mrs. Henry A. Wright, 4732 Carrollton Ave.
Free Chest X-Ray Mobile Unit Services—Monument Circle, in front of Indianapolis Power and Light Co. building, today through Friday.
Navy Club of Indianapolis Meeting—8 p. m., 4174 College Ave.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Marie Clark Profit, 22, 1414 Hiatt; Susan Adams, 19, 1421 Hiatt.
Ralph Robert Millspaugh, 19, 1224 Perry.
Catherine E. Anderson, 19, 2043 Struble.
Kenneth R. Shipley, 29, 721 N. Talbot.
Andrew P. Jones, 29, 606 N. New Jersey.
Walton Little, 25, 1928 N. Penn; Carol Garver, 22, 1137 St. Peter.
Jesse Franklin, 31, 606 Udeli; Ruby Thompson, 29, 2213 Miller.
Charles Eugene Glover, 22, 411 E. Walnut.
Judy Mae Lee, 21, Somerset, 823.
Charles Petty, 24, 270 S. Dearborn; Naomi Frances Petty, 19, 270 S. Dearborn.
John Samuel Knapp, 33, 409 E. 24th; Mary Adeline Tagge, 33, 122 W. 18th.
A. Richard Brown, 22, 230 Sanders; Minerva Maier, 18, 230 Sanders.

THEODORE TWIGGS, 42, 3226 Valley; Paula Brown, 29, 110 N. Grand.
Cecil Dale Hayes, 29, 4530 Norwalk; Elma Mae Byroad, 17, 4380 Norwalk.
William David Gibson, 39, 622 N. Illinois; Jessie Marie Wood, 27, 1438 Nelson.
Robert Earl Long, 26, New Augusta; Margaret Tere, 24, 412 E. 10th.
Richard Smith, 21, 4918 E. New York; Jacqueline Hanna, 18, 864 N. New Jersey.
Ralph O. McDonald, 19, 1017 Central; Maggie Manley Brown, 18, 1617 Central.
Vernon E. Kow, 23, 351 E. 25th; Reva Ethel Reams, 18, 904 1/2 N. Wayne.
Donald Carson Williams, 24, 2611 N. Indiana; Thelma Maxine Morton, 18, 2306 N. Illinois.
Melvin Hoffman, 20, 2618 N. Dearborn; Joanne L. DeMoss, 21, 2313 N. Harding.
Bryant L. Elliott, 19, 494 S. Morton; Evelyn Jane Shipley, 19, 616 S. New Jersey.
Jack W. Smith, 22, 412 E. 17th; Helen Louise Scotten, 18, 283 N. Holmes.
Mary E. Stafford, 18, 412 E. 10th; Evelyn Hargrave, 22, 120 W. 12th.
Albert T. Cardale, 23, 120 W. 12th; Vivian D. Butcher, 18, 1143 Prospect.
Andrew S. Mihal, 21, 2047 N. Alabama; Mary E. Stafford, 18, 412 E. 10th.
Fred W. Hall, 22, Greenfield; Helen L. Donahue, 20, 2450 E. Michigan.
Hiram Cox, 61, Columbus; Lillian Woody, 64, 1108 N. Dearborn.
Herbert Cornelius Press, 19, 238 W. 23d; Mary Frances Press, 18, 1154 Oxford.
James McKeen, 30, 252 E. Wyoming; Marjorie A. Jefferson, 17, 831 Hawthorne.
James P. Snodgrass, 24, 719 N. Emerson; Myrille M. Longdon, 18, 3715 E. Robson.
Howard W. Lempe, 21, 628 N. Pennsylvania; Margaret Brayshaw, 18, 292 E. 22d.
James Edward Johnson, 19, 610 W. North; Clara Mabel Ponderfelter, 18, 316 W. 13th.
Richard A. Reed, 22, 134 E. New York; Lucille Albright, 20, 361 N. Dorman.
Chauncey E. Fisher, 21, 1207 Sheridan; Doris Jean Bolton, 18, Lyran.

Winter Routs 'Spring Fever' East and West

Cold Replaces Two-Day Thaw On Cattle Ranges

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (UP)—Winter staged a come-back from the Rocky Mountains to the East coast today, with lower temperatures ending the spring-like weather which had prevailed over much of the United States.

Snow fell in the northern Great Plains states. Rivers in two central states were spilling over their banks.

But in some of the cattle-raising regions, blankets of blizzard-hardened snow were shrinking, and the brown winter grass could be found again by gaunt cattle hunting forage.

Insulated by Clouds The cold replaced a two-day thaw in the West and balmy temperatures in the East which caused some flowers to bloom early. However, a cold wave did not develop generally as expected because a cloud layer insulated much of the country from a sharp drop in temperature.

The new snow extended from Montana and northern Wyoming through the Dakotas and Minnesota. It was due in Wisconsin and Michigan by tomorrow. However, the weather bureau said it was a light fall.

Making Progress But, after nearly two months of blizzards and storms and emergencies for livestock and residents, the West was beginning to see an improvement in almost all the states.

Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, commanding Fifth Army's "Operation Snowbound" said that relief measures were making "excellent progress." He said that the snow battle was about over in South Dakota and most of Nebraska. Only in North Dakota was the situation bad.

Judge Believes Politicians Got $50,000 for Parole

(Continued From Page One) tion" from Mr. Greenwald to the court. In that letter he said, in substance, that Frank Souerdkie, triggerman in the shooting for which Workman was sentenced, has told him he had reason to believe that William E. Jenner would help him obtain clemency.

Mr. Jenner, now U. S. Senator, was at that time state chairman of the Republican Party. The letter said Mr. Greenwald felt he should inform Mr. Jenner of this statement and that he did.

The letter quoted Mr. Jenner as saying he felt no obligation to Souerdkie in the matter and that, so far as Workman was concerned, he would do nothing unless he was "well paid for it."

What the court's reaction was to this letter is not a matter of record, although no subsequent investigation ever has connected Mr. Jenner with any effort to inject himself into the Workman case.

Refused to Take Any Part in Case ON THE CONTRARY, it has been established that Mr. Jenner was asked on another occasion if there was any help he could give Ott Workman and that he flatly refused to take any part in the case.

Yet the Greenwald "letter of explanation" was followed by widespread rumors that Mr. Greenwald had been fired "to shield somebody."

The second unexplained circumstance involved the fact that the major investigation by the attorney general and two state police detectives in 1945 failed to turn up the $2000 payment by Workman to Mr. Greenwald. Not until months later, when Mr. Greenwald was on the carpet before the court, did the official break on the fee come.

Then it seemed to come easily enough, on a quadruple toss from Workman to Prison Trustee Carter Manny to Clemency Secretary Frank Tucker in the Governor's office and from there to the court.

Tardiness of this development led Judge Gilkison in the recent interview to contend that "certain persons" within the prison administration must have known about the transaction. Since payment was made by check in a Michigan City Bank and since certain prison personnel customarily accompany parolees to the train, Judge Gilkison contends there was no reason for the long lapse of time before the story came out.

Judge Gilkison expressed a conviction that the sudden decision to spring the trap on Mr. Greenwald was "because he didn't split the $2000 with anybody."

Commenting on failure of the investigation by former Attorney General James Emmert to uncover the details of the $2000 payment, Judge Gilkison told two Times reporters: "That investigation whitewashed it neatly."

Believes Workman 'Dangerous' Risk

JUDGE GILKISON today is frank to say that he believes Ott Workman would be a "dangerous" parole risk. His own connection with the Workman case is largely a matter of record since the time they were of opposite political faiths back in Martin County years ago.

As an attorney, Judge Gilkison at one time or another has been retained by both Frank Souerdkie, whose testimony sent Workman to prison, and by Workman, himself. In the Workman trial, a brother, James Gilkison, testified that Ott Workman's reputation was "bad."

In Workman's 1940 suit to break his father's will which disinherited him, both Frank and James Gilkison testified on the opposite side. Judge Gilkison is on record in the earliest attempt by Workman to obtain parole as opposing it. And he unwaveringly opposed it now.

As for Workman's being a "political prisoner," Judge Gilkison pointed out in the interview that Workman, a Democrat, "was convicted by an all-Democrat jury, prosecuted by three Democrats and defended by three Democrats, twice refused parole by Democratic Governors, overruled on appeal by a Democratic Supreme Court and finally paroled by a Republican."

Nipping, Aye Wor?

LONDON, Feb. 19 (UP)—If you sneeze and lost your dentures while feeding seagulls, it's an accident and you get a new set free.

That was the decision today of Bristol officials of the National Health Service.

They examined the case of a man whose top dentures fell into Bristol harbor while he was feeding the gulls. The local executive voted him a new pair, holding that the old teeth were "lost by accident and not carelessness."

Reuther Wins OK Of UAW on Pensions

DETROIT, Feb. 19 (UP)—The CIO United Auto Workers Economic Conference gave formal and unanimous approval today to UAW President Walter P. Reuther's plan to demand $100 monthly pensions and other social security benefits from the nation's auto makers.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Delegates representing 95 percent of the UAW membership voted to back Reuther's proposal that $100 monthly pensions be given by auto companies to all when they become 60. They rubber-stamped his other demands, already approved by the UAW executive board, for medical and welfare benefits, and agreed that the social security program should come before wage increases.

Butler Announces Summer Courses

Offer Four Sessions Beginning May 16

Butler University's summer schedule will go into effect on May 16, Dr. George F. Leonard, director of the sessions, announced yesterday.

Divided into four units, the pre-summer term will continue from May 16 through June 3. The regular term will be held from June 14 through Aug. 5 and a third "veterans semester" will open on June 14 and continue through Aug. 26.

The post-summer session will be held from Aug. 8 through Aug. 28. Five conferences, workshops and institutes have also been planned, Mr. Leonard said.

A business education conference will begin June 13 and run through July 1, while an audiovisual aids conference will take place during June 20 through June 25.

From June 20 through July 29 a laboratory school, grades 1A to 5, will be held. A guidance conference has been planned for July 11 through July 16. A kindergarten-elementary conference will be held July 18 through July 23.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.

Courses also will be offered in the university's evening division during the summer months in accounting, classical languages, economic theory, education, history, political science, labor, psychology and stenographic work.