Aussie Pastor Left Out in Cold

Times Foreign Service
SYDNEY, Australia, Mar. 2—The housing shortage in the country town of Nimbin, is giving the Methodist minister there no end of trouble. During the war, the parsonage was rented to a soldier's family, since the church then had a bachelor minister.

A new minister has been called. But the war veteran refuses to budge — because he can't find another place to live — and the court says the church can't evict him. So the new minister and his wife have to sleep in a tent. Pretty sore about the whole thing are the Methodist Church authorities, who are threatening to close down the Nimbin church. Zoologists Agog At Water Flea With 2 Spines

WOOSTER, O., Mar. 2—The cyclops experts are all agog over what Andy Weaver found in a pond in Ohio.

A cyclops is a water flea, a microscopic animal — that flips through the water on its antennae trying to get away from the fish that eat it. That is what Weaver found, and the reason water zoologists are so excited is because the one he discovered is a species that nobody thought existed before outside of North Carolina. What is more, it is a new form of the species, a matter of little interest to hungry fish but of great importance to zoologists.

MR. WEAVER, who is 22 and a senior at the College of Wooster, began dabbling in zoology nine years ago when his uncle gave him an old microscope.

When he took his cyclops apart under the microscope, it didn't resemble any of the species he'd read about. He sent it to Dr. R. E. Coker, a cyclops specialist at the University of North Carolina. It was just like a species Dr. Coker previously believed was confined to his state, except that Mr. Weaver's water-flea had two spines on its foot, instead of one.

Very soon now, Mr. Weaver will publish his report on his cyclops, which he calls bispinosis, for the world of invertebrate zoology.
