

Ask Mrs. Manners—

Divorcee Wants Love But Boy Friend Strays

DEAR MRS. MANNERS:

I'M A divorcee of 20 in love with a man who knows it and tears my heart to pieces. He says he wants to settle down and have a home. But when I mention I'd like to do the same thing, he changes the subject.

Should I try to win his love? Many of the same things, and I makes dates and then stands me up, with poor excuses.

THE WONDERER, City.

He probably does want to settle down and he's out looking for the right girl while you sit home, snubbing, excusing his negligence and disinterest. Men are practical, up to a point. Love seldom halts their appetites or disturbs their sleep. But they aren't so practical that they'll marry girls only because they're good cooks. They're not so practical that they'll wait until they can afford marriage. Nothing stops them, if they're in love, and they never let girls sit at home with a chance to see other men—if they're in love.

You need a new man who is around a lot and asks to be around the rest of your life.

bashful, disappointed boys sobbing on their shoulders.

One thing nice about sparks is that they can appear quite suddenly. This girl may never notice yours but some other girl will. You'll have to make enough improvements that a girl will overcome your bashfulness and you'll have to learn what girls like to get those sparks in action.

Casual Thanks

SHOULD I call and thank my secret boy friend for sending me a greeting card?

N. CITY.

Better thank him, casually, when you see him, or you'll scare him away. He'll find a way to follow up that greeting card if he's interested, and if you're attractive and popular enough.

GIRL LEFT OUT

YOU have helped lots of girls. Hope you can help me. I am just a plain, poor girl, in love with a boy who has plenty of money and a nice home. He knows I'm in love with him. There was no way to keep him from it.

All the time he was telling me how much he thought of me—he was seeing other girls with nice homes and lots more than I have. I thought he loved me, but I never ran after him. I sometimes believe he's ashamed of me. Could a man love you and love someone else all the time?

BROWN EYES, CITY.

The world's a pretty small place when you haven't been in it very many years. It consists of school, the gym, the swim and skates, that gang you think you could never replace, and home (a vague place where you change clothes and eat). The boy stays with his crowd and excludes you, not because he has a better home than you have, but because these other girls are in his crowd. Gangs are hard to crash, but you might be able to do something about finding your way into new crowds if you go to Tech's Personality Clinic, learn to make pretty clothes, and take courses in general education. It may be impossible to join his crowd but there will be crowds not minding your finances if you add up in intelligence, personality and style.

MILLIONS NOW USE
CHEWING-GUM
LAXATIVEAmazing Laxative Action
Detours the Stomach

Medical authorities say that one of the best laxatives may upset you that they irritate the stomach.

But FEEN-A-MINT, the delicious chewing-gum laxative, works in an entirely different way. The action of FEEN-A-MINT's special medicine actually helps the stomach. This is because it does not act while in the stomach, but only when farther along in the lower digestive tract... where it should. Thus, FEEN-A-MINT does not irritate.

And scientists say chewing makes FEEN-A-MINT's fine medicine more effective—"readies" it so it flows gently, gradually into the system. You feel wonderful again quickly!

TRY FEEN-A-MINT—at any drug counter—25c, 50c, or only 10c!
