Hollywood Hands Britain
Miracle Man of Movies

Blacklisted as Suspected Communist,
Dymtryk Turns Out a Masterpiece

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN, Times Foreign Correspondent.
LONDON, Mar. 18.—The current miracle man in the British film world is Edward Dymtryk, the Canadian-born Hollywood director blacklisted by Hollywood some months ago for refusing to state his political beliefs to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Mr. Dymtryk has made a motion picture for J. Arthur Rank, the Mr. Big of the British film industry. And in the making he has achieved (for this side of the Atlantic) a double record. The film was shot in 32½ days, it cost $200,000 less than its $600,000 budget.

By an industry now bathed in gloom partly brought on by the failure of pictures costing $5, $6 and $7 million, it is considered nothing short of miraculous that anyone could make an A-film for a mere $460,000.

Looking for Work
Mr. Dymtryk came here looking for work after he and nine others—dubbed the "Unfriendly Ten"—were fired and blacklisted by Hollywood and charged with contempt by the Thomas Committee.

All of this of course, was known to Mr. Rank. But it did not prejudice him. Mr. Rank is a very religious man. He teaches a Sunday School class in a little village in Surrey.

Mr. Rank had just one question when Mr. Dymtryk came to him. Unlike the Thomas Committee, he did not ask, "Are you a Communist?" Instead he asked, "Do you believe in God?"

"That's all I want to know," said Mr. Rank. "Anyone who believes in God can't be a Communist."

Mr. Dymtryk got the job. Plays It Cagey
Mr. Rank, however, played it cagey. He would not let Mr. Dymtryk make his usual message-type picture, such as "Crossfire"—Mr. Dymtryk's last Hollywood film which was an eloquent appeal against antisemitism. Instead, he confined him to making "a picture about nothing"—a murder story.

Even so, the brilliant director's gifted touch has lifted "Obsession," as the film is called, out of the ranks of ordinary murder mysteries. And the picture, due to be released next May, has become the talk of the British film world.

Doctor Sees
Costs Climb
In Hospitals

New Developments
In Medicine Cited
As Factor in Rise

By JANE STAFFORD
Science Service, Medical Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18.—Hospital costs will continue to rise, even though there are "encouraging signs of price reductions" elsewhere, Dr. Richard D. Vanderwarker, director of Passavant Memorial Hospital, Chicago, predicted at a sectional meeting of the American College of Surgeons here.

New developments in medicine, among them the use of radioactive substances now available from the atomic pile at Oak Ridge, are one factor that will increase hospital costs, Dr. Vanderwarker pointed out.

Hospitals will need "expensively shielded areas" and other new equipment when the radioactive isotopes come into common use as they may very soon.

"Further discoveries in the field of 'wonder drugs' and the possible solution of the mystery of cancer will also influence costs," he stated.

Pay Rates Higher
Increased rates of pay to hospital personnel, extension "rightfully" of social security benefits to them and fluctuating occupancy rates in hospitals are the other factors on which Dr. Vanderwarker based his prediction of a rise in hospital costs.

Lowered prices may be a curse instead of a blessing to hospitals if they mean an economic depression because they will lower occupancy rates in hospitals. Lower occupancy increases the unit cost, that is, the cost per patient per day.

The "break-even" point of occupancy for hospitals probably requires that 80 per cent of their beds be occupied. One possible way of maintaining this high occupancy rate would be for general hospitals to take psychiatric patients. This could be done, Dr. Vanderwarker said, with a minimum expense for alterations and there is a large demand for psychiatric beds.

Defends Charges
The charges a 275-bed hospital makes for the use of its operating rooms may seem high to the patient and the surgeon. But the charges are only 50 per cent of the total costs of maintenance of the operating rooms, Dr. Vanderwarker said this was discovered when his hospital installed a cost accounting system.

Payroll is the largest item of hospital costs, accounting for 60 per cent of total hospital costs. The way to attack this, Dr. Vanderwarker said, is not through salary reductions but through job analyses and better selection of personnel to make the personnel "maximally effective."

WHEN TO CUT ASPARAGUS
No spears are cut from asparagus during their first two years of growth; by the third year enough development has taken place to permit harvesting.

3-Ounce Drink Measures
2 Ounces on Main Stem

By Earl Wilson

NEW YORK, Mar. 18.—America Laughs. Some diet-conscious Broadwayites were consulting their calory charts in a famous restaurant, and one fellow said, "I'm allowed two ounces of something."

Spoke up Howard Riley, the radio producer, "The only thing of two ounces you can get on Broadway is a three-ounce drink."

UNBEKNOWNST to the rest of the Ohio State University faculty, Prof. Alfred J. Philby is secretly developing a ball that will juggle a seal.

He hopes to get on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts Show.

HENRY MORGAN, hunting a book title, should call it—suggests Rod Maclean of Los Angeles: "To All in Tents and Porpoises."

A FOUL FIEND has been circulating the report that Tallulah Bankhead just blacked the eyes of her handsome leading man, Bill Langford.

I went backstage at "Private Lives," where Tallulah emphatically denied it. Then, calling Mr. Langford, whose eyes looked normal, she said, "Darling, do I ever beat you?"

"Cruelly and unmercifully every night!" he replied, lovingly. So I guess she didn't.

CARL BRISSON remarks at the Waldorf Wedgwood Room that he knows a man who's so in love with his wife—he even likes the way she looks on television.

MONTE PROSE was standing in front of a cafe at 3 a. m. looking confused. When he spotted a friend, Monte said, "Tell me one thing—am I coming out of this place, or going in?"

FRED ALLEN—who's on a strict diet—eats plain omelets at the Stage Delicatessen. Boss Max Anas has been sneaking cheese into them, and the other day when cheese squashed from one, Max stammered:

"The secret leaked out."

NANETTE FABRAY tells me she's still trying to live down a Hollywood studio yarn that she was born in New Orleans. She was born in San Diego, but a press agent writing her biography thought N. O. more glamorous.

For that matter, when a starlet says her pop was a tailor, the studios, automatically change it to "civil engineer." Ask them why.

CRACK BRINGS CRUISE
A COUPLE OF YEARS AGO Senator Claghorn (Kenny Delmar) said on the air, "There's no such thing as the North Star. If you want to see some REAL stars, look at the Southern Cross."

A ship captain at sea heard that just after he'd finished taking a reading of the stars.

He was so amused that he has now invited the Delmars on his victim, confessed to him that he'd been tapping his wires, and asked him, "Tell me, do you think that was good information?"

The Midnight Earl
WHAT'S HOT: Harold Minsky, just in from Miami, signed with the Capitol Hotel to bring his Colonial Inn show to the Carnival May 15. "Minsky's Carnival" will include lavish production numbers but will modify or eliminate the strip acts.... Patsy Kelly's got pneumonia.... Al Rosen's building living quarters in the Coronet Theater for Mae West, who'll reside there on doctor's orders when she resumes in "Diamond Lu."

Tommy Morton of "Lend an Ear" was robbed of his pay envelope.... Bing Crosby definitely signed with Chesterfields for next season.... Paula Castle is the vocalist with the amusing Chubby Jackson band at the Royal Roost. Iceland comic Danny White told about the big game hunter who was reported missing—Something he disagreed with ate him.

Jack Carter, noting that Sally Rand's here to go into the Cligue on Broadway, wonders whether the income tax guys ever tell her she takes off too much for entertainment.... That's Earl, brother.
