

Teen Talk— Tudor Hall School Net Champs To Be Decided When Greens, Whites Compete Here Tonight

Game Planned Between Girls,
Mothers; Exams Next on Agenda

By CONNIE McCOWN
Tudor Hall Guest Columnist

AS THE INDIANA high schools enter the "finals" of the basketball season, we find Tudor Hall School beginning its decisive round of tournament play also.

Tonight the two school teams, the Greens and the Whites, captained by Jackie Brandt and Joyce Hollowell, respectively, will vie for the school championship. The Athletic Association under the leadership of Nell Becherer, is at present instigating a game between some of the upperschool girls and their mothers.

Could it possibly be to even up some old scores? If this plan comes into reality, we hope the mothers have a little more stamina than the fathers did in last year's game. They staggered out of the gym, red-faced, exhausted and fit to be tied (as they were, 26-26).

No sooner do we end our basketball competition than those dreaded exams poke up their ugly heads. Fortunately spring vacation begins next Friday just in time to keep us from falling flat on our faces.

Everyone but those seniors taking College Board Examinations on Apr. 9 will forget school for the next 10 days and live in a flurry of social events.

We hope it rains just a couple of days over vacation so that the prospective journalists of the school will stay home and write some entries for the Prose and Poetry Contest, sponsored by the school literary magazine, the "Crown." The "Crown's" sister publication and school yearbook, the "Chronicle," edited by Peggy Roach, goes to press around Apr. 15. Those last two pages of ads certainly took a lot of scrambling. Connie McCown, senior, is editor of the "Crown."

"Cum Laude day" comes on Apr. 21. This academic honor comes to the Tudor seniors who rank in the upper fifth of the class and who have a B-plus average.

After a girl is elected to the Cum Laude Society, Tudor undergrads all hope that she will make Phi Beta Kappa in college, for this means a holiday at school. This year Mariou Hyatt, Tudor '43, received the honor from Barnard College, where she graduated last June, consequently we have our holiday on May 6.

Open House To Be Apr. 25

Each spring parents and friends of the school are invited to Open House. On Apr. 25 we will see them visiting our classes to find out exactly what goes on behind those mysterious, closed doors. An assembly program in which each class is represented will also be given.

One of the highlights of this school is the one-act Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Trial by Jury," to be presented on April 30. The operetta is sponsored by the school music and dramatic clubs. Prelude and Masquers, whose presidents are Jean Stacy and Judy Meek.

Following the operetta, the modern dance group, Workshop, headed by Connie Cadick, will present a program entitled "The Evolution of Dance in America." The "baby" of our talent clubs is the newly organized Artisans Club. It was started this

Send Books Overseas

Joan Eberhart, Lois Camic and Lyndal Reed . . . pack books for students in the Philippines.

THE LIBRARY CLUB of Southport High School is conducting a drive to gather books for the Premier Secretarial School, Lagaspi Albany, Philippine Islands. The school suffered under Japanese occupation and was damaged in recent typhoons. Texts and magazines covering business subjects are needed, and the Southport teeners are also gathering fiction and non-fiction books.

Lois Camic is president of the Library Club, Joan Eberhart is vice president and Lyndal Reed is secretary. Mrs. Alice Black is sponsor of the group.

year to promote a greater understanding of all types of art. Wilma Jean Velling is its first president.

A special event of the year is Class Night, the last Friday before finals, when awards are presented, farewell songs are sung by the high school, and the planting of the ivy, a Tudor tradition, is carried out by the seniors. A dance for the seniors and their escorts will be given after the formal activities.

The "big night" (or Commencement) will arrive on June 3. The seniors will walk down the church aisle in white evening dresses, carrying large bouquets of red roses, and led by their president, Judie Morrison, and the President of Student Government, Gretchen Wemmer.

Although the expression on their faces will appear to be that of complete assurance, each of them will have an inner fear of tripping over her skirt or of dropping her bouquet.

The Commencement Dance is held at the Woodstock Club and is followed by a breakfast at the school residence. The seniors and their escorts, and any parents who can take it, will leave Tudor in the early hours of the morning (the latest the school has ever smiled upon) but then, we're big girls now.

A FOUR no trump bid is not forcing—and does not ask for aces—unless at least one member of the partnership has made a suit bid somewhere along the line.

suit first. Do not jump directly to four no trump. Put in a jump take-out of three in your suit. Partner will raise your suit to four if he has good support for it.

If his holding in your suit is something like a doubleton king or doubleton ace he will probably bid three no trump. After you hear his response you can decide what to do. In any case, a four no trump bid by you now will be recognized by partner as asking for aces.

If your partner opens with two no trump, as in today's hand, and you want to find out about aces, again you must bid a suit first. Mr. Dale, holding the North

Designing Woman— Pans Decorate Kitchen

By ELIZABETH HILLIER
SQUARE CAKE pans, crisp shelf edging, clippings from the picture section of the paper or a magazine—and pictures like this almost make themselves.

They are just the kind of bright spots for a kitchen wall that gives you a blank look, or for the children's room or a recreation room.

The shiny tin pans are smart little shadow boxes just as they are. Choose a starched little shelf edging by the yard of pleated fabric in a pert tiny print or a bright plain color.

cards, was willing to play either hearts or no trump. The only question was how many. He bid three hearts, which Mr. Masters raised to four.

Now Mr. Dale bid four no trump. If his partner had bid five hearts, showing two aces, he would have passed, with every expectation of making that contract. Actually, however, Mr. Masters bid five spades, showing three aces, and with this information Mr. Dale was happy to contract for a slam.

He decided the slam should be played by his partner. There GLUE the picture subjects onto the pans with a very light coat of strong glue—if the paper is thin, back the pictures first with plain paper.

It's no trick at all to finish your masterpiece with the shelf edging—simply glue its binding or tacking strip to cover the edge of the paper.

Let the children share your picture-making project—the littlest ones can choose their own subjects from their old picture books and Miss Teen will love making her own pictures all by herself.

Party to Fete Bride-to-Be Next Friday

Shower Will Honor
Jane Eaglesfield

Mrs. Albert E. Metzger II and Mrs. James W. Hutchison will entertain for Miss Jane Eaglesfield at a miscellaneous shower and dessert bridge next Friday. The event will be given in the Metzger home, 3433 Central Ave.

Miss Eaglesfield and Eldon Howard Nyhart will be married Apr. 5 in the Advent Episcopal Church. Invited to the party are Mesdames Evans Harrell, Lawrence Earl, Sylvester Johnson Jr., John D. Gould Jr., Herbert A. Jose Jr. and Walter Vonnegut.

Also Mrs. John E. Peschau, Mrs. Philip Stutz, Misses Nancy Stout, Joan Booser, Lucy Holliday, Ann Bobbs, Jody Wilson, Nina Lockwood, Margeann Ropkey, Ann Evans, Ora Coats, Suzanne Ramsey and Ann Kennedy.

Mrs. Howard E. Nyhart and Mrs. Foster Oldshue gave a tea and kitchen shower this afternoon in the Oldshue home, 6458 Holladay Drive. Mrs. Nyhart is the mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Those who attended the party were Mrs. John LaRue Eaglesfield, mother of the bride-to-be; and Mesdames Gould, Edward Hansen, Dayle C. Rowland, Robert V. Cummins, C. L. Brosey, John Waldo, Carleton Edwards, George S. Dailey, and Robert E. Lingie.

Also Mesdames David Hughes, James Trotter, John Esser, Charles Martin, Russell Hippensteel, John Hollett, David L. Smith, Allen Greer, Paul Summers, Robert Becherer and Fred W. Ranney Jr.
