Housewife Freed In Terror Shooting

Charges Dismissed Against Mrs. Crawford

Charges of assault and battery with intent to murder against a 32-year-old housewife who shot her husband Mar. 31, were dismissed today in Municipal Court Four.

At the same time, a hearing on charges of assault and battery with felonious intent against the husband, Harley Crawford, 61, were continued until June 30.

Mrs. Margaret Crawford is alleged to have shot her husband twice with a .45 caliber revolver after what she described as a "night of terror" in which the husband stalked outside their home at 1134 Martin St. and threatened to shoot her and their two children, Lois, 11, and Charles, 12.

In the court action today, Judge Alex Clark concluded by lecturing Mr. Crawford.

Considers Children

The judge said, "The worst thing about this case is that if I sent you to the state farm it would be the children, the innocent bystanders, who would be hurt the most."

Mr. Crawford was released on $250 bond pending his hearing. He was instructed to return to work in order that he might support his wife and children but he was warned by Judge Clark not to molest them.

Mrs. Crawford's two shots struck her husband in the face and abdomen. His survival was termed "miraculous" by General Hospital physicians. The bullets only "tunneled" below the surface of the skin, causing no serious injury.

A suit for divorce, filed by Mrs. Crawford, is pending in Superior Court 2. Mrs. Crawford charges her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment.

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Apr. 29 (UP)—One of five Bulgarian "anti-Communist" refugees who escaped from a ship at Hoboken, N. J., was still at large today, police reported.

Four of the men were picked up by a patrolman last night as they walked along the state highway near here, but a fifth, Siarl Fladerf, was not with the group. The men were taken to police headquarters to await immigration authorities who plan to return them to Istanbul.

The five men were among 10 stowaways who arrived without papers aboard the Egyptian liner Khedive Ismail this week. They said they fled from Bulgaria to Turkey to escape persecution by the Communists.

"Gosh! Hot doggy," gasps Jimmy Blier, of 60 N. Mr. Hope visited the Vice President in his office on Capitol Hill yesterday. After awhile the pair strolled out to the Capitol's front steps where a gusty wind caught Mr. Hope's hair and mused it up.

"Someone ought to turn off that fan," cracked Mr. Hope. "It's nothing like it is inside," Mr. Barkley shot back.
