MacLellan-Lawrence Marriage Followed By Wedding Trip

Newly Wed Couple Depart on Trip To Cincinnati and Smoky Mountains

A wedding breakfast in the Woman's Department Club followed the marriage this morning of Miss Billie Barr Lawrence and Wallace O. MacLellan. The rite was read in the St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church at 11:30 o'clock. The Rev. Fr. John Lynch read the single-ring ceremony.

After the breakfast the couple left for a trip to Cincinnati and the Smoky Mountains. The bride traveled in a brown gabardine suit with matching hat and lizard bag and shoes. She wore an orchid corsage. They will be at home with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Tom Lawrence, 5014 Broadway.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce J. MacLellan, 1628 N. Alabama St., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Charlotte Jane Denford was the maid of honor. Her yellow marquiset over taffeta frock was styled with a shawl neck-line, tight bodice and full skirt. Her hat and gloves matched her dress and she carried white roses and lilacs.

Bride Wears White

The bridesmaid, Miss Betty Crippin, wore a dress like that of the maid of honor in aqua tones. She carried Eriacraft roses and lilacs. Kathleen Leslie Dunn, the flower girl, was dressed in a pink net frock over taffeta. Her matching bonnet tied under her chin and she carried rose petals.

The bride's gown was made of white shirred net over white taffeta. It had a square neckline, tight bodice and two-tiered skirt falling into a long train. A rose point lace cap held her fingertip veil. She carried white roses, sweet peas and orchids.

Richard MacLellan, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The ushers included Edward Walsh and William L. Dunn.

The bride, a graduate of Hanover College, is a member of Phi Mu Sorority. Mr. MacLellan is attending Indiana University.

Blackwood on Bridge—Humanics Sometimes Works Better Than a Finesse

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

AN IMPORTANT branch of the subject of finesse is the study of when and how to avoid them. Sometimes you can throw an opponent into the lead at a time when he must lead right back into your tenace holding.

At other times (as in today's hand) your knowledge of bridge humanics will suggest a play that is superior to a finesse.

Mr. Muzzy opened with the king of diamonds and, noting his partner's play of the jack, continued with the ace of diamonds and then a small diamond which Mrs. Keen ruffed. She returned the three of clubs and Mr. Dale won with the ace.

ner's play of the jack, continued with the ace of diamonds and then a small diamond which Mrs. Keen ruffed. She returned the three of clubs and Mr. Dale won with the ace.

The opponents already had three tricks and were bound to get a club. It was therefore obvious to Mr. Dale that somehow he had to avoid the loss of two heart tricks. Note that this would have been easy if the nine of hearts were added to either the closed hand or dummy. But lacking the nine, the heart situation looked pretty hopeless.

Pins Faith in Muzzy

Mathematically, Mr. Dale's best chance with this combination was to hope that Mr. Muzzy had five hearts to an honor, which would leave Mrs. Keen with a doubleton honor.

In that case he would lead a small heart from the board and put in his ten spot which Mr. Muzzy would win. But then the play of the ace of hearts would drop Mrs. Keen's honor and make dummy's jack good.

But Mr. Dale thought that set-up was almost impossible on the bidding. With Mr. Muzzy on his left, he decided to forgo mathematics in favor of humanics. He figured Mr. Muzzy must have one of the heart honors for his overcall and if he had both of them the hand was hopeless anyway.

So at trick five Mr. Dale led his deuce of hearts. "Not through the iron duke," said Mr. Muzzy with little originality as he roared up with the queen.

Better players than Mr. Muzzy have gone for this one. Mr. Dale now had a simple finesse for Mrs. Keen's king and the contract rolled in.

Foster Parent Job Discussed

"Being a foster parent is as important a job as any can be named," Miss Louise Griffin told the local women here yesterday at the Foster Mothers luncheon. The event was sponsored by the Auxiliary to the Children's Bureau of the Indianapolis Orphan Asylum in the YWCA.

This care must always be considered part of the broad community program to prevent social problems and strengthen family and community life in our state and nation, said the director of the state public welfare department's child welfare division. "A foster child has the same needs as other children—and a few extra. We are helping rear tomorrow's citizens—tomorrow's parents."

Miss Griffin urged the women who had the experience of understanding foster children to give leadership in the community. Help citizens realize the importance of a preventive program rather than one which involves spending exorbitant sums on correctional institutions and mental hospitals, she said, because today's children are allowed to become the socially and emotionally maladjusted adults of tomorrow.

When we fail in our responsibility, she said, children are left in their own homes or situations where they are neglected or mistreated; they are placed in unlicensed homes or adopted without proper planning, or they are left in institutions too long.

Mrs. John Shirley presided and Mrs. Hazel J. Baker Jr. headed the luncheon committee.
