

Call 2 More Negotiators in Bendix Strike

Company, UAW Cite Issues in Walkout Which Began Apr. 20

Times State Service
SOUTH BEND, May 10—Two additional federal negotiators were expected here today to try to break the strike deadlock which has kept some 5500 Bendix workers off their jobs since Apr. 20.

The U. S. negotiators, Clyde Mills of Washington and Arthur Viat, Detroit, regional director of the Federal Mediation Service, were to join Paul Holbrook of Cleveland and Marvin Scknayder of Detroit, who have been wrestling with the issue since it began.

A company spokesman said there is but one issue, namely, that the UAW-CIO violated its contract, which runs to June 27, 1950, with a slowdown about a week before the strike was called.

UAW Cites Issues

The UAW cites three issues, none of which is wages.

ONE: A speedup which reduced wages, asking more production for less money, especially in brake shoes in Dept. 5-C.

TWO: The firing of 47 people on the charge of violating the contract with a slowdown.

THREE: The "unfairness" of a $1.5 million lawsuit filed during the first week when the UAW says the strike was in a "wildcat" stage.

The union also charges a plant police car struck down a striker, and that a male office worker kicked a girl picket.

Get Strike Pay

UAW strikers are drawing strike relief from the union, somewhat below a subsistence wage. Stanley Ladd, president of the South Bend local of UAW, said the relief pay "runs about $2 a week."

Plant officials contend there are 7500 on strike but the union deducts 2000 office and supervisory workers not involved.

The strike in the Bendix Products Division of the Bendix Aviation Corp. has caused six automobile companies to withdraw dies for brakes. The auto companies were Willys-Overland, Nash, Lincoln, Cadillac, Hudson and Kaiser-Frazer.

A company spokesman said the strike is costing workers $81,713 a day.

Martin Gerber, regional director of the UAW-CIO, is heading negotiations for the strikers. About 50 hours have been spent in conferences.

Robber Who's 'Only a Voice' Gets $200 at Gas Station

'Don't Turn Around,' He Tells Attendant

A 26-year-old filling station attendant was questioned by police today after he told of being robbed of $200 by a phantom bandit who left behind almost $500.

Kenneth Hicks, Mooresville attendant at the Spur Distributing Co., 1017 E. Michigan St., told officers he never saw the bandit who came up from behind and robbed him and said he could recognize him only by his voice.

'Don't Turn Around'

Hicks told police he was bent over in the warehouse at the station shortly after 8 a. m. when he suddenly heard a movement behind him and a voice said:

"Don't turn around."

The voice then ordered Hicks to throw his money to the floor. Hicks said he tossed over a roll of $200 which was in his shirt pocket. He added later, however, that the bandit failed to get his possession.

The attendant said the bandit ordered him to remain in the warehouse 10 minutes. He said he remained about five minutes, then called police.

Meanwhile, other police today were investigating an equally baffling burglary at a West Side haberdasher, puzzled at the amount of merchandise which robbers carried away in the apparently leisurely looting.
