

Here's A Little House On Which People Will Use Many Superlatives

Natural Fireplace
In Living Room

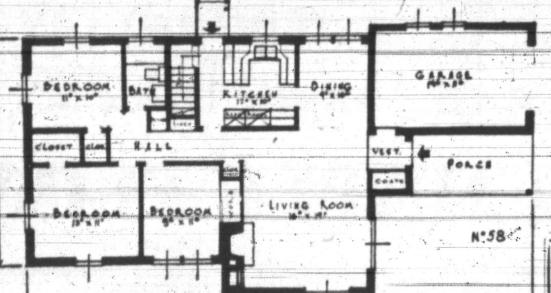

HAVE YOU ever been out driving on Sunday afternoon and passed a little house that made everyone in the car say "Oh, isn't that lovely, or cute, or precious," or some other equally descriptive superlative? That is just what happened to us when we drove by the little home we are showing today. It was so attractive from the road that we drove around the block and back again, and finally got up our nerve to walk up to the door and ask if we might be shown through.

A brand new bride greeted us at the door and was extremely proud to show us her pride and joy. We, in our turn, were even more surprised with the interior of the house. It has just about everything that most people want in their home. It even has three bedrooms, and yet is only 27 feet wide, and if placed the other way could be built on a 40-foot lot with the garage entrance facing the street.

As we entered from the protected front porch we found a small vestibule with a coat closet on the left and a door on the right leading to the garage. Right here is one of the things that everyone would like to have in their home. The coat closet even had sliding doors so that the confusion often caused by opening the front door and coat closet door at the same time is avoided. The entrance into the house directly from the garage, of course, is what every man wants when he comes home on a rainy night.

Picture Windows

We entered the living room directly from the vestibule and found two large picture windows in the corner and a natural fireplace with book shelves on one side. Because the living room is combined with the dining area, it seemed very spacious. The dining area had a picture window along one complete wall, and a door leading directly from there into the most compact little kitchen I have ever seen. One can stand at the sink and look out over the landscaped backyard, and there are work counters within easy reach on both sides. There are cupboards over these work areas and additional cupboards over the

ONE OF A SERIES OF SKETCHES ABOUT YOUR WATER SUPPLY

Your Water Supply IS GROWING, TOO!

INDIANAPOLIS with its surrounding suburbs is growing like "Topsy." As it grows, the need for water and fire protection likewise increases. The Indianapolis Water Company is meeting that need through its continuing expansion program.

As one phase of this program, purification facilities and the pumping capacity of Fall Creek Station were increased during the last year at a cost of $1,000,000.00. So that we may be ready to serve you with an adequate supply of water, the future development of our facilities is constantly under study by our engineering staff.

Additional purification facilities at the Fall Creek Station include a duplicate pretreatment basin (foreground, within dotted line), which, with six new filter units installed in the rear of the filter building (arrow), increased the daily production capacity from 15,000,000 to 32,000,000 gallons of safe water.

None of us could find a single thing wrong with this little house so we asked if we might obtain complete building plans from the owner. They were delighted to give them to us when we explained we wanted to make this little home available to our readers throughout the country.

Incidentally, the exterior has been designed for rough brick and horizontal wood siding, but would look equally attractive if built of cinder blocks or wood siding throughout.
