Ask Mrs. Manners—

Mother of Six Girls Wants Good Husband

DEAR MRS. MANNERS:

I WOULD like to know how to get a good husband. I want one my age who does not drink and wants a good home. I want one who can be a father to my girls, and one who will appreciate my cooking and come home at night time. I want one who does not take that first drink, and will be home with us.

I am 39. I have six little girls and one big girl, 19. The little girls are 13, 11, 9, 6, 4 and 2. They are good girls and are in the house before dark. The oldest is living on her own, but the little ones are on the welfare.

My husband has been in prison nearly two years and I am getting a divorce next month. My girls would love to have things like other girls have and go places they go, but it takes all the money I get to support them. We only go to the show once a month. I cannot have a home because the welfare thinks I should use the money for my girls.

Six little girls, no matter how good they are, are going to startle the new men you can meet at church social affairs, etc. You'll have to do the most possible with your looks and to atone for the lack of it in another. You're used to trouble—expect more of it—it's always around.

Disillusioned

MY CHARGE account is swollen from the clothes I couldn't afford, bought to impress a man who told me I looked better in an outfit in which he caught me unaware.

So I've decided you make a mistake when you urge women to give too much attention to their clothes.

The women this man noticed and mentioned favorably were dowdily dressed. I looked my best, and my best isn't bad. I was well turned out and had the self-assurance that goes with knowing it.

He hasn't called, but he called right away after we went to the drugstore with me dressed in an old college outfit that embarrassed me to death.

What goes? JANE.

The well-dressed, poised woman appeals to a man, no matter what he says, if she lets him impress her more than he knows she's impressing him. She doesn't need to lose her own self-assurance to give him his. The smarter she is the smarter she can make him think he is.

You were probably so busy preening yourself you forgot all about the man. When you turned on the sophistication you didn't do it naturally. In your college clothes, cowed in embarrassment, you weren't pretending—you were real and he liked it—not the outfit.

Let Mrs. Manners and readers of the column share your problems. Write in care of The Times, 214 W. Maryland St.

Deanna Durbin
Seeks Divorce,
Charges Cruelty

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 (UP)—Film Star Deanna Durbin asked superior court today for a divorce from Writer-Producer Felix Jackson, charging her 47-year-old husband with extreme cruelty and desertion.

The 27-year-old former child star, separated from Mr. Jackson for two years, said in a suit filed yesterday that a settlement had been reached under which she receives custody of their daughter, Jessica, 3.

Miss Durbin said at the time of their separation that they were together so much at home and at work they got on each other's nerves.

THE COUPLE married June 13, 1945, in Las Vegas, Nev., and separated Jan. 6, 1947. Miss Durbin formerly was married to Film Producer Vaughn Paul.

Mr. Jackson, who has been married four times, was responsible for many of Miss Durbin's successes, both as a writer and producer.

Your Marriage: By Samuel G. and Esther B. Kling—
Why Be a Meddler? It Only
Stirs Marital Unhappiness

Q—Should you tell a wife that you've seen her husband out with another woman?

A—No. It's always safer to mind your own business and not get involved in someone else's marriage.

Those who meddle usually do so for purely selfish and even sadistic reasons—even though they often delude themselves into thinking that it's for the wife's good to "know." Actually, these "informers" get some peculiar delight in making a wife uncomfortable, or forcing her to justify her husband's behavior, or even in knowing that they're helping to disrupt a marriage.

No matter what your real motives—it's better to maintain a discreet silence and give the man the benefit of the doubt. For one thing, he may be perfectly innocent of any romantic entanglement. It may be a business date. He may have run into an old friend. Or, he may be entertaining a mutual friend when his wife, for one reason or another, isn't available.

As soon as you start commenting on it, you attach significance to a harmless procedure and so make the husband and wife self-conscious about continuing the practice in the future. After all, they don't want to start any "talk." And if the husband hasn't mentioned the date at all because he's forgotten, or because his wife is overly jealous—even about business dates—you're only starting unnecessary trouble.
