In Hollywood— Ann Blythe Boosted For 'Molly O' Refilming

Johnson Eyes Star for Mabel Normand's Role
In Proposed Remake of Mack Sennett's Hit

By Erskine Johnson
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27—Behind the Screen: There's talk of remaking Mack Sennett's biggest film hit, "Molly O," which starred Mabel Normand. How about Ann Blythe for the new version? Mack paid Harold Lloyd a wonderful compliment after seeing the re-issue of "Movie Crazy." He wrote Harold:

"'Movie Crazy' has that lost formula so often missing on the screen. I enjoyed it and so did the audience." Hollywood's lost formula? Motion pictures that talk instead of talking pictures. Movies seldom move anymore.

ANNA MAGANINI, Ingrid Bergman's rival for the affections of Rossellini, will make a U. S. personal appearance tour this winter. Ingrid is still concentrating on her personal disappearance.

Now it's a blond Indian in "Anne Get Your Gun." Although Annie Oakley was part Indian, Betty Hutton will play her with her own blond hair. They tested her in a black wig but it wasn't the same Hutton.

THE CENSORS blinked and rushed to the set when they heard Joan Caulfield was doing a "Trinidad strip tease" for "The Petty Girl." But it was a false alarm—a dancing partner was unwinding five yards of silk from a turban around Joan's head. That's the "Trinidad strip."

NOW I've seen everything. Three beautiful dolls in bathing suits were walking on the water of a Beverly Hills swimming pool. Well, at least it looked that way. There was an almost invisible lucite runway just beneath the water. The girls hardly got their feet wet. Quite an illusion.

Ether Williams was kicking herself around the pool because MGM hadn't thought of it for one of her movies.

Water-color illusions—that's what Fred Cole called his annual fashion show—bathing suits for the summer of 1950. And I've got a flash for you. The big Cole line next summer features sheared velvet.

There were also suits with deep sea bras—"gives the impression you can see deeper than you can."

My wife made me go home early. Probably just as well.

David Niven goes back to England for retakes on "The Return of the Scarlet Pimpernel." . . . Janis Carter has written the music—and Frankie Laine the lyrics—for a song titled, "Christmas Is a Happy Time." It'll be out in December, natch. . . . Ed Wynn is after Barbara Britton for his new TV show after she completes "Champagne for Caesar."

AND WHILE I'm on on the subject of fashions, Walter Florell just sent me a note announcing his new fall hats. In line with the current economy, he added: "We cash annuities."

Gorgeous George turned out to be such a good actor (TV audiences knew it all along) in "Pardon My Toe Hold," that Republic is talking about doing his life story. Hmmm—I wonder how Don Ameche would look in golden curls?

Dick Haymes is down from 40 to six cigarettes a day—thanks to Nora. He's lost a lot of weight and looks great. Most of Hollywood will turn out for his opening, Oct. 4, at the Coconut Grove.
