New Horizon for Goodwill Employers Opened Through Subcontract Work

A NEW HORIZON for handicapped employees of Goodwill Industries is being opened through subcontract work solicited by the Association of Personnel Women.

Miss Bernice D. Eberly, project chairman for the association, announced today that bonus payments for subcontract work for the Indianapolis Life Insurance Co., solicited by the group, enabled two employees to take anticipated vacations.

Early this year the Association of Personnel Women began a promotion campaign of acquainting industries with the subcontract plan. It is arranged so private industry "lets out" an assignment of work, usually repetitive in nature, to a carefully supervised group of handicapped employees at Goodwill Industries, the chairman explained.

Costs Company Less

The private company transports the material for the job from its own location to the Goodwill plant. The work to be done is explained to the Goodwill production manager who is used to digesting instructions and passing them on to workers under her supervision.

Miss Marie Smith and Miss Mae Holmes, Goodwill workers, mailed 80,000 financial statements to more than 100,000 policy holders of the Indianapolis Life Insurance Co. in connection with the job. Walter H. Hsieh, company executive vice president, said, "Our firm was interested in the project because it was good business. The work was spot checked thoroughly, showed a high degree of accuracy and was entirely satisfactory."

He further explained it was good business because the company did not have to provide plant facilities or space, did not have to employ its own help for extra hours of work in the evening (which always means less efficient work on the following day) and did not have to supervise the work directly.

He estimated the flat price paid Goodwill Industries for the job was slightly less than the cost would have been to handle the work in the company's office.

Other Contracts Set

Miss Frances M. Kelly, personnel director of the insurance company and president of the Personnel Women, commented, "The experience of our firm will help the executives of other Indianapolis firms to be open minded to the economies of time, personnel and equipment in having certain jobs done by responsible workers in Goodwill Industries rather than in their own plants."

University Women Members Hear Miss Marie Adams Speak on China

Mrs. Russell R. Benson, Miss Marie Adams and Mrs. Russell Fanning.

"China with its rampant confusion stands as a symbol of the world situation today," Miss Marie Adams of Fortville told members of the Indianapolis Branch, American Association of University Women, last night.

The speaker, a teacher for 25 years in the Mary Porter Gamewell High School in Peking, spoke at the group's general dinner meeting in the Broadway Methodist Church. Repatriated on the Gripsholm from a Japanese concentration camp December, 1943, Miss Adams returned to China after the war. She is now home on a special assignment for the China National Christian Council.

Reviewing the amazing progress made under Chiang Kai-shek from 1928 to 1936 under the "New Life Movement," she declared, "It is now known Japan began her World War II attack on China three years earlier because China was making too much progress under Chiang."

Yalta, she explained, began the state of confusion. Russia won Manchuria, "the foothold which will give her the Orient unless we quickly make amends for our failure at Yalta and since." She described Manchuria as China's greatest industrial and richest province. "On it were Japan's largest stocks of military supplies."

Gen. George Marshall worse, than failed in China, Miss Adams asserted, by insisting Chiang take Communists into the government and later insisting he give them a year's freedom.

"That year was a triumph for the Communists," Russia, she said, handed Japanese military supplies in Manchuria to the Communists and trained the soldiers. Marshall followed with the arms embargo on China. "Since then there has been a concerted action to smear further the Chiang name," she said.

China Confused

China is further confused by seeing Japan being rebuilt with American money. "China is wishing she might have been the defeated government," Miss Adams stated. "We should continue rebuilding Japan. It is better than having another war. But why fall our friend and help our enemy?"

"I have great confidence in the ability of Chinese people to outlive this ordeal." History, she pointed out, shows China has always absorbed her conquerors. The majority are accepting new Communist rule because they have no other choice.

But, she declared, "We have sold out China—and Korea as well—to Russia. Some day our act will turn on us. For it we may even lose our American way. Let us as thinking women mold public opinion that we may again be friends with our sister republic of the Pacific."

Mrs. Russell R. Benson, president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Russell Fanning, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

Fabulous Furs Shown Here

There's just one word to describe the furs at Block's this week—fabulous. They are in the Ritter Brothers' collection being shown today and tomorrow in the Fur Salon.

The furs range from soft, Russian broadtail in black and bronze to natural white mink. The broadtail coats being shown are as soft and supple as fine velvet. Several of them are done in fitted models that look like costumedresses.

Back interest is all important in the collection. Especially in the mink and Persian coats and capes. The shoulders of all the pieces are natural, the fur falls in graceful folds from the yokes.

White mink has been developed so that even the faintest dark guard hairs are eliminated. The fur is as white as ermine. Small furs, described as "those priceless pieces that never go into storage," play a big part in the collection.

One of these, a jerkin of ranch mink, is at home over a dinner dress or a suit. Another, in gray broadtail with mink collar and cuffs, is done on bolero lines.

Some of the more amazing models include a chinchilla cape, a full length coat of mink, a stole of pearl-toned fox, a long coat of rare arctic blue fox and a cocoon wrap of white mink.
