Sen. Morse Pays Tribute to Jacobs

Cites Record Made By His Subcommittee

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Sen. Wayne Morse (R. Ore.), one-time member of the War Labor Board, paid tribute last night on the Senate floor to Rep. Andrew Jacobs, Indianapolis Democrat.

He presented at length the record made by Mr. Jacobs' subcommittee investigating union democracy.

"He outlined in detail the findings of the subcommittee regarding misuse of funds by the late President George L. Berry of the Pressmen's Union, the prediction of George L. Googe, vice president of the union, that the Jacobs committee would be called off, and the subsequent suppression of the committee by Chairman John Lesinski (D. Mich.) of the House Education and Labor Committee."

Included in the Morse speech were all the documents from Mr. Jacobs supporting the case. These included his letter to Chairman Lesinski asking that the subcommittee be reinstated.

Since nothing was done by the House, Sen. Morse suggested that perhaps the Senate should act. In any case, some law should be passed to stop such malpractices in unions as the Pressmen's case disclosed, he said.

And he added that neither he nor Mr. Jacobs considered such cases typical of unions generally.

Walsh Walks Out of Air Hearing. 'Won't Go Back'

By DAN KIDNEY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Freshman Rep. John R. Walsh (D. Ind.), an Army sergeant in World War II, angrily walked out of the House Armed Services hearings today he declared that he isn't ever going back.

He denounced Chairman Carl Vinson (D. Ga.) as a "Navy stooge." He said Mr. Vinson would not give new committee members a chance to ask questions and "favored the Republicans in their criticism of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson."

"Chairman Vinson has turned these hearings into a sounding board for Navy crybabies," Mr. Walsh said. "I am convinced that the 73-36 is the best weapon we now have for delivery of the A-bomb. And I feel that Secretary Johnson was justified in canceling the super-carrier."

When I walked out of the hearings, I told the chairman I am never coming back. For we freshmen in the outfield never get a chance to ask a question. He just shunts us up to give more time for the admirals and Republicans to torpedo the administration.

"I was only an infantry sergeant in World War II. But I can see the point of the Air Force not wanting to fight the next war with the weapons of the last one."

"It seems that is what the Navy wants to do. The idea that A-bombs shouldn't be used is fantastic. There were more civilians killed in the last war than soldiers, sailors and marines."

"I wanted to ask Air Force Secretary W. Stuart Symington if he didn't think that it would be good to let civilians know that with both us and Russia having the A-bomb they are going to suffer plenty unless we are prepared so that Russia will not dare attack."

"In my mind that is a great war deterrent. But Chairman Vinson never gave me a chance."

When he returned to his office, Mr. Walsh wrote to Secretary Symington:

"Due to the dictatorial methods in handling of the armed services committee investigation, several of the committee members were denied the privilege of examining you when you appeared before our committee today."

"It is obvious to me that the committee chairman and some of the other members of the committee are not interested in obtaining the true facts under investigation. . . . I was pleased that you in no manner reflected upon other branches of the service, but emphasized the sisterhood between the same."

"I do not propose to again attend the committee hearings, as my presence is unnecessary, or at least that is the present appearance. But I assure you that when the matter of a report is prepared, I am going to give great weight to the testimony that you gave to our committee."

"Of the testimony we have had presented to us, yours was the most constrained and able statement."

"I assure you that the Air Force has no apologies to make to this nation, and I am proud that you are head of the department of the Air Force."

Executives Study Colleges' Plight

125 Business Leaders At Earlham Meeting

RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 19.—Some 125 Indiana and Ohio business executives today are studying the dollar crisis faced by private colleges.

Earlham College last night took the lead among Midwestern schools in presenting the institutions' financial plight resulting from spiraling costs and relative income decrease.

Currently educators are looking to industry for dollar aid in their struggle rather than accept government help. The aim is to stop the testimony that you gave to our committee."

"Of the testimony we have had presented to us, yours was the most constrained and able statement."

"I assure you that the Air Force has no apologies to make to this nation, and I am proud that you are head of the department of the Air Force."

Library Group Plans Luncheon Meeting
