Dietrich May Take Part Of Lady 'Rassler'

Grapevine Has It Marlene May Put on Muscles For Forthcoming Screenplay by Bill Wilder

By Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 31—Exclusively Yours: All the little tendrils on the Hollywood grapevine are saying that Marlene Dietrich will play a lady wrestler in a screenplay by Bill Wilder. . . . While Hollywood story editors were picking daisy petals, Gertrude Lawrence snapped up the film rights to Daphne du Maurier's best seller, "The Parasites." Gertie is out for a and now it's "Key to the Hand-cuffs." When Shirley Temple and John Agar were married, Harry Sugarman, host at the Beverly Manicure, presented them with a pair of silver-plated handcuffs mounted on a teakwood plaque. He told them: "If anything happens I have the key." Shirley was the first to ask for it—two weeks before she announced the divorce. Other night Agar popped in with Jerome Courtland's sister and said: "In this, my greatest performance, I was not alone—Belvedere."

DOLORES DEL RIO has Hollywood producers gasping over her film terms. She asks a tax-free salary, plus transportation to and from Mexico City and living expenses. If Evelyn Keyes can get out of her Columbia contract, she'll play the feminine lead in ex-husband John Huston's movie, "Cost of Living." Shelley Winters wants the role, too.

Hollywood is paraphrasing "over the hill to the poorhouse" this way in Elizabeth Taylor's case: "Over the Hilton to the Rich House."

FIRST it was "Key to the City"

"Mr. Eddy has changed from a reluctant yet wary acceptor of adulation to a friendly, warm-hearted, co-operative artist who fondly stops to chat with his fans whenever the opportunity presents itself."

Well, I'll be darned.

Producer Aaron Rosenberg spends almost 100 per cent of his time on the set of "Winchester '73" to the amazement of Jimmy Stewart. Says Jim: "Usually the producer doesn't show up until the preview."

LILLI PALMER will star in Irene Selznick's next play, "Bell Book and Candle." Lilli describes the role: "I'm a witch." Clifton Webb is being modest again in his fashion. Ads for "Cheaper by the Dozen" read: "In this, my greatest performance, I was not alone."

THREE: He will appoint a prominent Republican as the State Department's new roving ambassador. This move is designed to strengthen the bipartisan approach to foreign affairs.

There were indications that the Senate would be asked to act on the nominations next week. Little, if any, opposition was expected.

"The fact is going to drop like a bombshell next winter."

Note to the ladies: Get the minx first.
