

County Council Studies Health Inspector Job

Emergency Session Called to Discuss Fund Requests

Marion County's all-Republican County Council must decide today whether the county will remain without a health inspector.

Auditor Ralph Moore called an emergency session of the Council this morning to discuss appropriation requests from the health and building inspectors departments, the juvenile court and the Marion County Home.

The county has been without a health inspector since Jan. 1 when the Council slashed the health department budget.

Complaints Pile Up
For four months, complaints have piled up in the health department concerning the health problem. Many complaints told of dirty restaurants, garbage strewn along roads and filth spilling out of septic tanks.

No health inspector was available to check the unsanitary conditions or attempt to alleviate them.

The health department has requested a $2250 appropriation to fill the position for the remainder of the year.

Julietta, the Marion County Home for the Aged, has requested $3386 for salary raises.

Seeks $5000 Fund
The county building inspectors' department urged council to appropriate $5000 for salary raises.

Sunnyside, the county's tuberculosis hospital, made a request of $31,536 to construct a resident home for physicians and for other improvements.

Prosecutor George Dailey urged council to appropriate $2000 for special investigation.

'Loved By So Many'—Nation Honors Ernie Pyle In Pacific Island Services

Correspondent Called World War II's Greatest By Roy Howard, President of Times

IE SHIMA, Apr. 15 (UP)—Memorial services were held on this tiny Pacific Island today for war correspondent Ernie Pyle who was killed by a Japanese sniper's bullet five years ago today.

Roy W. Howard, president of The Indianapolis Times, in a message sent from New York and read here at the special services, called him "World War II's greatest correspondent."

Mr. Pyle was correspondent for Scripps-Howard Newspapers and the United Features Syndicate.

A chaplain read a brief biography of Mr. Pyle and a wreath was placed on the spot where a marker has been erected in Mr. Pyle's memory on Ie Shima, a few miles off the northwest coast of Okinawa.

Following the benediction, a bugler of the 29th Infantry Band sounded taps.

'Loved By So Many'
"All good men live on in the memories of their loved ones," Mr. Howard said in his memorial message. "Ernie's distinction was to be loved by so many. Few if any were so widely known, so highly regarded by the millions of men in war and to their folks back home who had never seen him. He seemed a personal friend—like a brother or the boy next door—because in some strange way what he wrote seemed to speak directly for them and to them."

"Like any GI he, too, was afraid when he came under fire. He, too, was lonely and homesick. He, too, was shy and frustrated. And he, too, found it hard to speak."

"But somehow he could say it through written words—all the hopes and fears and doubts and longings and the dreams which are part of man."

Earnest Hobericht, United Press manager for Japan, said in a message from Tokyo:

"Ernie Pyle was the hero of the war."

Ernie Pyle

Millions. He was a friend of the GI and he wrote some of the best stories of the war when he wrote about the rough, tough day to day routine life of soldiers in the field.

"Many of us who were war correspondents are proud that there were men like Ernie Pyle in the correspondent corps. He gave us a goal at which we can shoot. None of us will ever let his memory fade away."

Wells Pays Tribute To Ernie Pyle
BLOOMINGTON, Apr. 15—President Herman B. Wells, Indiana University, sent the following telegram today to Ie Shima where memorial services were to be held for War Correspondent Ernie Pyle:

"Ernie's memory will live forever at his alma mater and his ideals and work will be carried on by our Ernie Pyle Memorial Scholars who are following in his footsteps."

Rail Strikers Plan Hit-Run Tactics

Enginemen Working On Walkout Details

CHICAGO, Apr. 15 (UP)—Railroad firemen and enginemen have decided to strike to enforce demands for an extra fireman on diesel engines, a union spokesman said today, but they are expected to stage "hit-and-run" strikes rather than a nationwide walkout.

Top officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen went into their fourth day of secret conferences today to work out details of the threatened strike.

"Determining when, where and how we are going to strike is the only thing holding up a formal announcement," the brotherhood spokesman said.

A general strike by the union's 110,000 members would tie up virtually all the rail traffic in the nation, industry sources said. But the union was believed preparing "hit-and-run" tactics against one or more roads to avoid creating a national emergency which might result in federal seizure.

Roads which use much diesel equipment appeared likely targets. Western railroads, which use diesel engines on most fast runs between Chicago and the West Coast, are the most heavily dieselized.

Brannan Pledged 'Free Audience'

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was offered a ready-made audience today to hear him expound his proposed farm program.

The Indianapolis Press Club's Gridiron Committee, sent the secretary this telegram:

A large audience waiting to hear you will be provided free by the Indianapolis Press Club at its annual Gridiron Show May 18. Moreover, club will pay for your ticket. RSVP."

Mother Discovers 2 Children Dead In Refrigerator

HAPEVILLE, Ga., Apr. 15 (UP)—A small red sandal lying in front of a discarded refrigerator led Mrs. T. E. Kinsler to discover the bodies of her two children inside, police said today.

Mrs. Kinsler had been searching over the neighborhood for two hours for Cindy, 4, and Gayland, 5, when she saw the boy's sandal yesterday. She opened the ice box and found them crouched inside.

The tots apparently crawled into the box and suffocated when the door swung shut.

Mrs. Kinsler said she missed the children when they failed to appear for lunch. At the time she called them they were in the box less than 10 feet away.

HER HUSBAND said he moved the refrigerator outside the house when he got a new one a short time ago.

"I never realized how dangerous it was," Mr. Kinsler said.

Fire Chief J. B. Nunn estimated the children had been in the ice box for more than two hours.

Another child, Ronald Eugene, 8, was playing in the yard nearby when his brother and sister were found.

Latest victims of the tragedy were Miss Beverly Gilbert, 16, Red Key, and Richard Lord, 16, Dunkirk.

U. S. Hints Use Of 'Nerve Gas' In Future Wars

DETROIT, Apr. 15 (UP)—America may use a "nerve gas" to smash a future enemy's will to resist without bloodshed or destruction, according to Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

He described the bloodless warfare to the American Chemical Society last night.

"The military concept of annihilating the enemy's military might and destroying his industrial potential has been drastically altered since the end of World War II," Gen. McAuliffe told the society's 117th annual convention.

"THE WEAPONS developed, or now being developed, by us provide an opportunity at the smallest logistical cost, to reduce a potential enemy's will to resist and thereby obtain victory without the enormous destruction of his economy," the general said.

Gen. McAuliffe warned, however, that "we are not the sole possessors of the offensive and defensive secrets of the new nerve gases."

Gen. McAuliffe, famed for his reply of "nuts" to a German surrender demand at Bastogne in the Battle of the Bulge in World War II, said that biological and radiological agents as weapons have not yet been proved in war.

But he said that the U. S. cannot ignore such trends.

A Frank Evaluation—Wonder Drugs Held Aid, Not Cure for Leukemia

Doctors Report Value of ACTH, Cortisone Lies in Giving Clue to Cause of Disease

By PAUL F. ELLIS, United Press Science Editor

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Apr. 15—The "wonder" hormones—ACTH and cortisone—are bringing relief to about two-thirds of acute leukemia cases, but are not curing the disease, a team of doctors reported today.

The frank evaluation of the drugs was made by Dr. O. H. Pearson and his colleagues, Drs. L. P. Ellis and T. R. Talbot Jr., of the Memorial Cancer Center and the Sloan-Kettering Institute, New York City, to the American Association for Cancer Research, here.

The scientists said that ACTH and cortisone will prove their value not in the treatment of disease, but in giving science knowledge of what causes disease—knowledge that in time may bring cures of the most of the aging diseases of man.

22 Get Help
Dr. Pearson said that in a series of 30 patients with acute leukemia—cancer of the blood stream—the hormones had brought relief to 22, but that no remission so far has lasted longer than two months, and some remissions have been as brief as three weeks.

However, to a dying person even a short remission is a long time.

The doctors reported that in four of the patients the hormones brought second remissions—that is, the patients received benefit a second time. In all of the 30 cases treated in the last six months, 11 are still alive.

The average life-time expectancy of a person diagnosed as suffering acute leukemia is about six months. Dr. Pearson said that 10 adults and 20 children, all suffering acute leukemia, had been treated with ACTH or cortisone at Memorial Hospital.

He said that "good responses" were made in 13 of the 30 cases, and "some response" in eight cases.

He reported that four children obtained a second remission with the hormones, but that in most patients resistance appeared to develop rapidly and that second responses could not be obtained or were not as good as the first response.

The doctors said that no adult patient has had a second response to the hormones, and that ACTH appears to bring a remission sooner than cortisone.

ACTH is a hormone from the pituitary gland, the master gland of the body's glandular system. Cortisone is a hormone produced by the adrenal glands.
