

Acheson Staff Says McCarthy 'Utterly Fails'

State Department Assails Senator's Latest Speech

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UPI) — The State Department asserted tonight that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, (R. Wis.) so far has "utterly failed" to prove it employs a single Communist or pro-Communist.

Resuming its running battle with its No. 1 critic, the department issued an 11-page paper describing as "factual inaccuracies" 31 statements Mr. McCarthy made in a speech at the Republican state convention of Wisconsin in Milwaukee June 9.

Five pages of the release were devoted to a denial of Mr. McCarthy's charge that Secretary of State Dean Acheson admitted in January, 1949, when he was responsible for his former law firm's success in arranging a $90 million loan to Poland.

Sen. McCarthy charged that $50 million of the loan "went to equip and arm the Communist army and the dreaded Communist secret police"

"Utterly False" "This charge, with its innuendoes," the State Department said, "is utterly false and based on a deliberate distortion of the public record."

Quoting testimony on the loan arrangement heard by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in January, 1949, when Mr. Acheson was nominated to be Secretary of State, the department said:

"The committee's hearing established that Mr. Acheson had severed all connections with his former law firm five years before the Polish loan was approved by the Department of State."

New Set of Figures

The department added that as assistant secretary of state several years ago, Mr. Acheson acted on the loan only after it had been recommended by various divisions of the department at a time when there was still some hope of saving Poland from Russian domination.

Referring to various figures Sen. McCarthy has given in several speeches since February on the purported number of Communists and Communist sympathizers in the department, tonight's statement said Mr. McCarthy, reverting to his numbers game, had injected a new number of 306.

In the past Sen. McCarthy has used the figures 205; 81; and 57.

"To date," the department added, "Sen. McCarthy has utterly failed to prove that there is a single Communist or pro-communist in the state department."

VETERANS TO MEET

The 151st Infantry 38th division will hold its fourth annual reunion next Sunday in the Morgan-Monroe State Forest. Homer L. Short is president of the reunion committee.

Nothing Is Too Good for Pop

It's Dad's day to relax today and 35-year-old Bob Graves, 270 S. Audubon Rd., is taking full advantage of the privileges of Father's Day. In an all-out effort to make him comfortable his six children are cooing contentedly and bringing him matches, ash tray, slippers, a pillow and a copy of The Times. They are (left to right), Mary Elizabeth, one month; Shiloh, 6; Elaine 4; John, 2; Denny, 1, and Robert Jr. 9.

Why Good Boys Go Bad—

Breakdown In Family Life Blamed By Judge for Most Juvenile Crime

Penalizes Own Grandson, Tells of Events Which Led Youngster Into Misdeeds

(Editor's Note: Judge Cleon W. Mount has never previously divulged information about a juvenile court case under his jurisdiction. He said he was departing from the practice, this one time, in the hope the story will give light so that parents, by blood or adoption, will find a way to keep their children "good.")

By IRVING LEIBOWITZ, Times Staff Writer

TIPTON, June 17—It was a hot day, May 29, outside the small Tipper County Courtroom. Inside the paneled room, perspiration dripped off the faces of seven teen-age youths.

Circuit Judge Cleon W. Mount's eyes wandered around his nearly-empty courtroom until he fixed his gaze upon his 17-year-old grandson.

"I'm through with you forever!" the gray-haired jurist nodded, his eyes misty, "unless and until you have made of yourself an upright and honest young man."

Then the veteran judge, whose reputation for being a hard boiled task master is legend, wiped his glasses and continued sternly:

"I've begged, pleaded . . . I've reasoned, I've done everything I know how. You are not entitled to any consideration."

Placed on Probation

Thereupon, Judge Mount placed his grandson and six companions on probation for one year and ordered them off the streets by 9 p. m. daily.

The youths, who ranged in age from 14 to 18, were also ordered to make monthly reports of their conduct to the court.

National Guard, his mother used her influence to enlist him, despite the fact he was too young.

Judge Mount, who looked after the boy when the youth's mother accepted a wartime position abroad, blamed the "auto age" for the increase in delinquency.

"Fifty years ago we had no autos, no picture shows, no taverns where both sexes gather," the judge asserted. "There was just not much to do after dark and home life was in vogue."

Judge Mount, who will complete 16 years on the Tipton Circuit Court bench this year, cited an example.

"A fellow went courting a girl at eight in the evening on those days," the judge said, "and when 10 o'clock came, the girl's parents closed and ached a little bit, indicating it was a dark good time for the boy to go home."

He compared the old time youngsters to today's moderns, "who don't even start out on dates until 10 o'clock."

There was one modern invention Judge Mount thought was good for youngsters—television.

"If I were a television salesman," Judge Mount said, "I'd surely try to sell parents on the idea that they can beat juvenile delinquency by staying home with their kids and watching television."

Today, both Judge Mount and his daughter think they have found the solution to make the judge's grandson "good" again. The youth has been sent out of the state to stay with a retired Army officer who is a friend of the family.

The boy's mother will join him soon, hoping to come back "some day when this mess is all forgotten."

"That will be the happiest day in my life," Judge Mount said. "I pray God I may live to see the day when the boy will come home an upright, honest young man."

GEORGIA JAILS RED

CARROLLTON, Ga., June 17 (UPI) — Homer B. Chase, state head of the Communist party, was sent to jail to serve 20 days for contempt of court today. Superior Court Judge Samuel R. Boykin ordered the jail term and a fine of $200 for a pamphlet which claimed that a man was "framed" on a murder charge in his court.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.

When he wanted to join the

police in connection with the automobile accessory thefts. He had a comfortable home, plenty of spending money and lots of spare time. No one questioned his whereabouts. He came and went as he pleased.

In one respect, the judge's grandson was adopted.

The jurist's daughter adopted him at an early age. Later, when her marriage was dissolved in a divorce court, she vowed to give him everything he needed or wanted. She kept her pledge. The boy never wanted for anything.