

Balling the Jack . . . Watch It, Bub . . . GIs Wounded in Action

Wounded in battle near Pohang, a group of GIs wait on a hillside until they are evacuated. Medical corps carriers will lug those who cannot walk back to an aid station. After that they will go to a hospital. Those severely wounded will find themselves back in the states pronto.

Two South Koreans—Gen. MacArthur calls them ROK's—watch for snipers after they capture a Red on the Pohang front. He's scared. But about all that will happen, after he's screened, will be a long stretch as a POW.

Yanks hug the sides of the road as Patton tanks advance toward Pohang. Some of the soldiers carry air-ground control panels to direct airmen if and when. What is left of Pohang has fallen to the Reds but the Yanks expect to go back. It's their second best port in Korea.

Consumer Credit Controls Due

(Continued From Page One)

public was $20.3 billion in debt for automobiles, refrigerators and other goods bought on the installment plan or charge accounts.

This amount reflected a record increase of $600 million in July alone and a startling 25 per cent rise in a year.

Federal Reserve Board officials say it is the rate at which this sort of debt is growing that is dangerous. The credit curve is supposed to slow or stop it.

By forcing people to pay more down, the government hopes to slow buying and remove some of the demand for major consumer goods.

There are no plans to regulate charge accounts. But this may come later.

Plans for imposition of other controls authorized by the new bill are still vague.

High School Bands Feature at Fair

(Continued From Page One)

contest was by far the top competitive feature of the day. Hundreds of Indiana high school musicians assembled on the infield at the track.

By parade starting time, uniformed bandsters, in the colors of their schools, were ready for the big promenade of the year.

Judging continued in the coliseum as horses, cattle, sheep and swine "strutted their stuff" in the big arena.

With a weatherman's promise of continued clear skies and cool weather today, Farmers' and Farm Organization Day loomed as another high spot in the big Hoosier exposition.

While the State Fair is primarily an agriculture exposition, the one day in the week designated as Farmers' and Farm Organization Day is the peak event for the Hoosier farmer.

As early as yesterday, farm families from throughout the state

held an amateur talent contest of the Indiana Farm Bureau won

TODAY—EDUCATION AND CHILDREN'S DAY
(Children under 12 admitted free.)

Judging—Belgians, Percherons, Herefords, polled Herefords, Red Polls, Guernseys, Tamworths, Berkshires, Hampshire sheep, Oxfords, Cheviots.

Grandstand—High school band contest and parade, 11 a. m.

Women's Building—L. S. Ayres & Co. style show, 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7 p. m.

Women's Building—Crochet race, 1 p. m.

Coliseum—Light harness horse judging.

Grandstand—Grand Circuit races, 1:30 p. m.

Coliseum—Horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra, 8 p. m.

Grandstand—State Fair Follies, 8 p. m.

TOMORROW—FARMERS' AND FARM ORGANIZATION DAY

Judging—Belgians, Aberdeen-Angus, Ayrshires, Jerseys, Spotted Poland Chinas, Hampshires, Southdowns, Suffolks.

Grandstand—Farmers Day parade, 10 a. m.

Women's Building—L. S. Ayres & Co. style show, 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7 p. m.

Coliseum—Light harness horse judging, 1 p. m.

Grandstand—Grand Circuit races, 1:30 p. m.

Coliseum—Horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra, 8 p. m.

Grandstand—State Fair Follies, 8 p. m.

They were arriving on the grounds. They planned to sleep in their cars, in tents beside their cars, in trucks or in the various buildings with their exhibited live-stock or produce.

Yesterday's attendance fell short of the record by thousands. Fair officials attributed the decreased number of paid admissions to the fact that the day followed Sunday and Labor Day, which had near record-breaking crowds.

Judging continued in the coliseum as horses, cattle, sheep and swine "strutted their stuff" in the big arena.

With a weatherman's promise of continued clear skies and cool weather today, Farmers' and Farm Organization Day loomed as another high spot in the big Hoosier exposition.

While the State Fair is primarily an agriculture exposition, the one day in the week designated as Farmers' and Farm Organization Day is the peak event for the Hoosier farmer.

As early as yesterday, farm families from throughout the state

held an amateur talent contest of the Indiana Farm Bureau won

Judging—Belgians, Percherons, Herefords, polled Herefords, Red Polls, Guernseys, Tamworths, Berkshires, Hampshire sheep, Oxfords, Cheviots.

Grandstand—High school band contest and parade, 11 a. m.

Women's Building—L. S. Ayres & Co. style show, 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7 p. m.

Women's Building—Crochet race, 1 p. m.

Coliseum—Light harness horse judging.

Grandstand—Grand Circuit races, 1:30 p. m.

Coliseum—Horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra, 8 p. m.

Grandstand—State Fair Follies, 8 p. m.

over the fifth district. The winning district comprises Hancock, Wayne, Madison, Henry, Marion, Hamilton, Randolph and Delaware Counties.

One of the peak events of the day will be the Farmer's Day parade before the grandstand at 10 a. m., Daylight Time.

Mrs. Roy Newman, director, induced the following entertainers:

Miss Betty Lou Macy, Miss Patty Souders, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Creek, Ray and David Jordan, James Sharp, Maurice Williamson, Miss Carol Jean Mock, Miss Rowena Johnson, Duane Johnson, Miss Barbara Hollingsworth, Ivan Wagner and the State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public speaking contest held yesterday.

Judging was scheduled to con-tinute today on Belgians, Aberdeen-Angus, Ayrshires, Jerseys,

Spotted Poland Chinas, Hamp-shires, Southdowns, Suffolks.

Grandstand—Farmers Day

parade, 10 a. m.

Women's Building—L. S. Ayres & Co. style show, 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7 p. m.

Women's Building—Crochet race, 1 p. m.

Coliseum—Light harness horse judging.

Grandstand—Grand Circuit races, 1:30 p. m.

Coliseum—Horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra, 8 p. m.

Grandstand—State Fair Follies, 8 p. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p. m., and the

State Fair Follies will be repeated before the grandstand at 8 a. m.

Harold Bowman of Monroe

County and Mary Wylie of Miami

County were winners of the public

speaking contest held yester-

day.

The horse show and Tex Beneke's orchestra will be staged in the Coliseum at 8 p.