HOLLYWOOD'S LOST FORMULA—movies that move—has been rediscovered by MGM in "King Solomon's Mines." The African adventure thriller is in the magic tradition of prewar Hollywood and will be a shot in the arm to the whole film industry... Peggy Lee is TV bound—via Lou Snader's three-minute musical telecasts.

THE ESTRANGED Richard Greenes are beginning to break down and admit that a kiss-and-make-up ceremony is in the offing... U.I.'s Tony Curtis, who gets around, has gotten around to Janet Leigh... The same studio's bright hope, Peggy Castle, and her estranged husband, Revis Call, are back together and dropping divorce plans. She has been dating Audie Murphy until landing that big role in "The Prince Who Was a Thief."

NOW IT CAN be told: MGM offered Joel McCrea $100,000 for the Ray Milland role opposite Lana Turner in "No Life of Her Own." Joel nixed the job, on the theory he wasn't right for it, even after the studio raised the ante to $175,000.

THE RUMOR that the Johnston office has lifted the ban on sweaters is denied by the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

"There has never been anything in the production code specifying that sweaters cannot be worn on the screen," Duke Wales of the association said. "No reference to sweaters exists in the code. How can you lift a restriction that was never a restriction in the first place?"

The censors worry only about who puts on a sweater. But Republic dress designer Adele Palmer looked puzzled when I passed the information along to her. She said:

"I haven't been notified that we can now dress stars in sweaters. It's good news if we can. The important thing about a sweater is that it fits without wrinkles and that it's tight where it should be tight."

"Until I hear that sweaters are okay, I'll continue making them to button up the back and calling them blouses."

NICKY HILTON won't have to put on grease paint after all. Don Taylor, who was dropped by MGM after playing groom to Elizabeth Taylor in "Father of the Bride," will be Mr. Celluloid one-and-only once more in "Father's Little Dividend." He says: "The sequel gives me more to do—and the script is wonderful!"

THE HENRY FONDA-Susan Blanchard marriage will be an any-day-now event... Now it's Margaret O'Brien who's taking rhumba lessons at Arthur Murray's... Glenn Ford wants to do a prizefight yarn. "Farwell a hit with a midnight TV show to glory." Benny Rubin is in New York.
