

Hunches Don't Count— M'Arthur Takes Risks, But Not Off the Cuff In War to Crush Reds

Planned Inchon Landing in August With Calm Detachment of Chess Player

By HUGH BAILLIE, President of the United Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur is awaiting the "early decision" of the Korean Communists to lay down their arms and surrender their prisoners, in response to his demand of Oct. 1.

Failure to get a satisfactory response will result in Gen. MacArthur moving swiftly and vigorously to enforce his terms.

Gen. MacArthur considers that the victory over the Communists has been won. It remains for their high command to recognize this fact and avoid further bloodshed and destruction.

Just what form the next operation of the United Nations forces under Gen. MacArthur will take is a military secret.

I have just returned from Korea, where I saw the devastating consequences of Gen. MacArthur's strategy which ruined the Korean Communist armies before the 38th Parallel.

This smashing success was planned long in advance. Books complete with maps for distribution to all the commanders in the Inchon landing were ready as long ago as Aug. 15 but remained top secret until a month later when the amphibious landing was launched.

Caught Off Guard
Gen. MacArthur's military successes are not "hunched" on the spur of the moment.

He has no idea of breaking off the engagement in Korea and leaving the Communists safe behind the 38th Parallel in smug defiance of his call for them to cease hostilities and disarm under military supervision directed by him, in all parts of Korea. The next steps he will take are already planned.

At the outset of the Korean War last June, the Americans under Gen. MacArthur's command were caught unprepared only because military defense of Korea against the Communists was not contemplated until the actual aggression occurred.

Gen. MacArthur had planned only for the evacuation of the Americans from Korea. He was called to the telecon at 4 o'clock in the morning and directed to undertake the Korean War to carry out the resolution of the United Nations Security Council of the United Nations.

Much Surprised
Gen. MacArthur was very much surprised. However, he proceeded immediately to utilize such forces as he had on hand with such good effect that the Communist offensive was slowed down and finally brought to a halt on the Pusan perimeter.

All the while the General was carefully planning the Inchon landing which would cut the enemy's supply line and throw him into panic disorder far from the supposed sanctuary of the 38th Parallel.

Gen. MacArthur at first was the only one who favored a landing at Inchon. He had to win others over to his point of view, and when the blow was launched he bore full responsibility for it on his own shoulders.

But, he knew what he was doing and what was going to happen. He doesn't gamble on hope.

United Nations Week Scheduled

Special Programs Are Prepared

"Today's best hope for peace is UN—plus you."

This message will be brought to Indianapolis in a city-wide program, designed to reach every resident—during United Nations Week, Oct. 16 to 24.

A speaker from United Nations headquarters will appear at a rally on United Nations Day, Oct. 24, Time and place of the meeting will be announced later.

Special programs are being prepared by schools, clubs, factories, civic organizations, religious groups, youth groups, libraries and labor organizations. Talks, films and displays explaining UN activities will be emphasized by participating groups.

Plans were started at a meeting of the Citizens Committee for United Nations Week, which met yesterday in the Severin Hotel.

R. C. Clark Named
Roscoe C. Clark, Ell Lilly & Co., was named by Mayor Feeney as chairman of the committee.

Red Cross Plans New Blood Drive

Successful Donor Year Ends Tonight

The Indianapolis Red Cross Blood Donor Service will close a successful year of donation tonight and open a new blood procurement drive.

A special meeting of the group will be held at 5:45 p. m. today at the Veterans' Hospital on Cold Spring Road. Dr. C. J. Culbertson, chairman of blood donor service for both Indiana and Marion County Civil Defense organizations, will address the group on the "Use of Blood and Blood Derivatives in the Treatment of Atomic Blast Casualties."

Presentation of certificates of appreciation will be made by Harlan J. Hadley, acting chairman of the Indianapolis Red Cross Chapter, to the 10 companies which exceeded blood donor quotas by 100 per cent or more in the past 12 months.

These companies include the U. S. Naval Ordnance Plant, Ell Lilly & Co., Diamond Chain Co., Lane Bryant, Inc., U. S. Rubber Co., International Harvester Co., Allison Division of G. M., Citizens Gas & Coke Utility, H. P. Wasson & Co. and P. R. Mallory Co., Inc.

Since reaching New York I have sensed a general feeling that the war in Korea is all over. This is not the impression that prevails in Korea, unless the Communists see the light, accede to Gen. MacArthur's demand, and give up.

Hold-over members of the board who will serve for another year are John Henry Blakley, Lawrence J. Hennessey, Elmer R. Krueger, C. W. McCarty, Henry W. Manz, Ralph D. Morris and Charles J. Trees.

Balloting took place before the dinner. An entertainment of music and magic was presented under the direction of David P. Williams, Rotary entertainment chairman.

Maybe He Just Decided To 'Duck' Out

ANYBODY seen a duck?
Police and Mrs. Elmer Warren, 330 N. Elder Ave., would like to know.

Mrs. Warren reported two pet ducks were stolen from her backyard yesterday afternoon. Two hours later police arrested her nephew, 50-year-old Willard McKinney, 438 1/2 W. Washington St., on pre-larceny charge.

McKinney had one duck. There wasn't time for dinner on the other.

McKinney said he took only one duck. Mrs. Warren insisted today that two were missing. Both white Pekins and fat.

McKinney said his aunt promised he could help himself to a duck any time. Mrs. Warren firmly denied this.

Maybe the other duck went for a waddle through the gate, which was left open.

'Old Folks at Home'— Stephen Foster Shrine Dedicated in Florida

Memorial Idea of Late J. K. Lilly; 243-Acre Park on Suwannee River

A $500,000 shrine to the memory of Stephen Collins Foster, a suggestion made in 1921 by the late J. K. Lilly of Indianapolis—was dedicated today at White Springs, Fla.

The shrine is a 243-acre park on the bank of the Suwannee River, immortalized in Foster's song, "Old Folks at Home."

Mr. Lilly, a collector of Americana, commented while visiting the Suwannee River famous.

Mrs. W. A. Sanders, Jacksonville, to whom he made the remark, set to work to make the shrine a reality.

Florida Project
Mr. Lilly's collection of original Foster songs and personal effects are in the University of Pittsburgh. Duplicates of the material are being placed in the Suwannee Museum.

The new shrine was entirely a Florida enterprise and the Lilly family made no contribution toward it, officials of Ell Lilly & Co. said today.

The composer's granddaughter, Mrs. Jessie Welsh Rose of Pittsburgh, cut a ribbon admitting visitors to the museum to climax the dedication.

Hundreds of persons stood on the banks of the river as Florida Gov. Fuller Warren praised Foster as "America's troubador of the world, an ambassador of peace, understanding and good will among all people and all races."

Ceremony on Radio
A 100-voice choir from Florida A&M College for Negroes provided a backdrop of Foster's songs, and soprano Gloria Villars sang his "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair."

The ceremony was carried over a national radio hookup and by the State Department's Voice of America.

Poster, whom many historians say never saw the river he immortalized.
