

For Women

60-AND-UP SERIES—This social scene at Kirshbaum Center will be repeated Tuesday, when the Indianapolis Chapter, National Council of Jewish Women, holds its second program for the 60-and-up crowd. Mrs. William Hene will be general chairman. A simple handcraft exhibition is being planned by Mrs. Alex Rosenbaum for the 1:30 p. m. event. Among the more than 26 guests who turned out for the first program were Mesdames A. Drazier, Helen Goldsmith and Harry Cohen (seated, left to right). Serving them is Mrs. Julius Birk, hospitality chairman.

Organizations— Clubwomen Announce Events

INSTALLATION of officers, a guest speaker and regular sessions are on the books of local clubwomen this month.

The Indiana Society, Daughters of 1812, will install Mrs. Orville F. Shattuck its president at a noon luncheon Saturday in the Hotel Lincoln.

Other officers include Mrs. John Rush, South Bend, and Mrs. Garrison Winders, first and second vice presidents; Miss Carrie Hoag, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Lee Van Dervort, recording secretary and historian; Mrs. Frank Poland, registrar; Mrs. Maude Wade Snider, chaplain; Mesdames J. B. Cook, Donald Dale Armstrong and J. Haskins Smith, directors.

The organization, whose headquarters are in Washington, is composed of local descendants of those who have rendered patriotic service to the United States between 1754-1815.

Mu Phi Epsilon

Mrs. Edward LaShelle, 6055 E. 21st St., will be hostess for the 10:30 a. m. meeting next Wednesday of the Patroness Club of Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority.

Mrs. Loche Bracken as narrator and Mrs. Andrew Ross as pianist will give a Bachmann-off program. Mrs. John Smith and Miss Gertrude Gutelius will assist the hostess.

Alpha Lambda Laterian

Charles J. Keeler will discuss harmony and room arrangement before members of the Alpha Lambda Laterian Tuesday. Mrs. Lowell Reed, 3334 College Ave., will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Starr.

St. Agnes Alumnae

Plans for future social events and election of officers will be held by the St. Agnes Academy Alumnae Association at a refreshment meeting at 3 p. m. Jan. 20 in the school.

Prepare Children For Atomic Age

Iowa is getting its grade school children ready for the atomic age. Sponsored by the state department of public instruction, courses in atomic energy education are given to youngsters from the fifth grade on.

A report on the project explains that the purpose is not to make nuclear scientists out of the pupils but to help them understand the release of atomic energy and its use by society.

The children themselves conduct classroom experiments with colored blocks and draw pictures of the behavior of atoms.

The new courses, which have become the most popular in school, include the use of such familiar objects as matchsticks, mouse traps and dominoes to demonstrate the chain reaction of atomic piles.

Neat Frock

"NICE BIDDING and nice play, partner," said Mr. Dale, beaming.

"My suit preference lead of the deuce of diamonds did the trick," gloated Mr. Rhule. Mr. Dale had not noticed any such signal, but had only made the natural return, was silent.

But Mr. Champion was sore at being outbid and outplayed. "What do you think Dale would have led back if he had never heard of suit preference?" he barked. "On the bidding and the looks of the dummy, a half-wit would have returned a club."

There was a lot of truth in Mr. Champion's words. Many times, the suit preference signal gets credit for a certain lead, where the very same lead would have been selected on the basis of ordinary common sense and good judgment.

BY SUE BURNETT

HERE is a neat and simple frock for daylong wear that even a beginner can make with ease. Just two main pattern pieces, and a clearly illustrated sewing chart to guide you smoothly and quickly.

Pattern 8771 is a sew-it-right pattern in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40, 42, 44, 46. Size 16, 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch.

The new Spring and Summer Basic Fashion for women who sew will be ready for you shortly. Send 25 cents now for your copy.

The Indianapolis Times
372 W. Quincy St.
Chicago 6, Ill.

No. 8771 Price 30c
Needle Album Price 25c

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

'Cover Up' Is New Look in Sun Wear

BLUE AND BEIGE—Ballroom sleeved blouse tops brief shorts.

By BETTY LOCHER
Times Fashion Editor

WHERE the sun shines brightest and where skies are bluest you'll find fashions like these.

New resort and summer styles are fresher and more exciting than ever before. They have become so important on the American fashion scene that they lay claim to significant trends in their own right.

The "next word" in sunshine fashions scheduled to be a byword by summer, is the "covered-up" look. The bikini bathing suit was the last resort in bare fashions and the pendulum was bound to swing in the opposite direction.

SHOWN ABOVE are several shining examples of this new trend definitely designed to magnify charms and minimize defects.

By contrast to the sleeveless blouses of the past, these sunmers is the charming balloon-sleeved blouse (upper left), Marjorie Montgomery of California makes it of royal blue linen teamed with brief shorts of sand beige with blue dots. This is a color scheme to watch for—blue with beige for spring and summer. You'll see it in early spring fashions, too.

BELLE OF THE BEACH—Elasticized swimsuit, terry cloth jacket.

Fresh as a sea breeze and twice as frivolous, the young ensemble (center) is designed to make you the belle of the beach. The one-piece swimsuit is elasticized, nipped at the waist, and has a very nubby texture. It is teamed with a beach coat of terry cloth with white scroll embroidery. A Frances Sider

The Burbanks of fashion have been busy cross-breeding again. It looks like they cut the bottom off a pair of pedal pushers and added it to a pair of shorts. The results are wonderfully smart—knee high shorts (upper right) that are just revealing enough to tease the imagination. The two-piece ensemble is a Clare Potter design in heavy beige silk tussor.

California, testing ground for sunshine clothes, has outdone itself this season with light-hearted summer fashions pretty enough to melt the heart of a snowman in the chilly Midwest. Emphasis, as always, in these fashions is on the "body-beautiful."

KNEE-HIGH, SHORTS—Magnify charms, minimize defects.

Hollywood thinks the feminine figure is just fine the way it is and California fashions never resort to distortion of the figure or discomfort in wearing.

THEREFORE, if the Golden State has anything to say about it, waistslines will stay put, be tiny but not pinched, and full skirts are the "dearly beloveds" of every collection for their free and easy ways.

The fresh, wholesome colors in California sportswear provide interesting contrast to the more sophisticated combinations seen in Eastern collections. Certainly color, too, can be a way of life, be it smoothly sophisticated or vital and fun-loving.

But let's save a few secrets for you to discover for yourself over the counters. Downtown windows and sportswear departments are brimming with play-time clothes from both East and West. May the "twain" meet in your suitcase going South.

Bridge-Tea Set Saturday

EARLY reservations have been made for one of the first social events of the New Year, Goodwill Service Guild's benefit bridge-tea at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in Block's Auditorium.

Planning to attend are Mesdames Herman C. Krannert, William Trimble, Walter Leckrone, George J. Garceau, Kurt Pantzer, Frederick Lee Jr., Edward Gallahue, Fred Kroeger and Edwin McNally.

Other hostesses will be Mesdames Harry Perrine, William T. Schittges, Ernest Millholland, John A. Crawford, Lester Iron and Winifred Allison.

Mesdames Fred A. Genck, James Young, Charles T. Coy, W. Howard Bull, Howard Lytle, John Maddox and John Holton.

IN MRS. CECIL BERRY'S party will be Mesdames E. Clark Alkin, W. E. Albrecht, Marshall Harrington, Herman Boesch, Albert Rose, George W. Schmutz Jr., Ralph G. Fox and H. N. Siefert.

Mesdames Cecil McClintock, Earl Haley, Russell Cooper and Clara Irwin will be with Mrs. R. F. Kepbox.

Also holding reservations are Mesdames Everett Brown, Alta Julian, Marie Cortelou, Robert Shipley, Robert Lee, James Sligar and Claude Otten, Misses Carol Brown, Eleanor Bull and Ann Coy.

MESDAMES William C. Tremear, Carl Ellis, Howard C. Caldwell, William A. McKinzie, Ralph Heslar and Rhoda Little and Miss Dorothy Giles.

Mesdames James P. Cook Jr., Dan Flickinger, Glen J. Riser, W. W. Peelle, Robert L. Monroe and Ralph Monroe and Miss Mary Jane Duttonhaver.

Blackwood on Bridge—

Common Sense Also Makes Up a System

IN any gathering of players who go beyond the stage of conversational bridge, there is a Mr. Rhule. He not only learns every new bidding or playing convention as it comes out, he temporarily builds his entire system around it.

Once he used the Blackwood four no trump bid on every big hand because his curiosity wouldn't let him wait to see how many aces his partner had.

Later he adopted the four club bid to ask for aces and committed mayhem on John Gerber's favorite bid. Then he became a Rusbini addict, always leading the second highest of touching honors—even when he should have led an entirely different suit.

HE WENT through a stage of fascination with the "prepared club" opening with one club and South dealer North-South vulnerable.

Mrs. Keen
S-K 9 3
H-A 9 7 4 2
D-10 7 3
C-8 4

WEST
Mr. Rhule
S-7 6 4
H-K J 8 6 3
D-A J 10 6 2
C-none

EAST
Mr. Dale
S-10 2
H-Q 10 5
D-K 9 8 4
C-9 7 5 3

SOUTH
Mr. Champion
S-A Q J 8 5
H-A Q J
D-5
C-A K Q J 10 6 3

The bidding:
South West North East
2 C 2 H DBL Pass
2 S 3 D 3 S 4 D
6 C 6 D Pass Pass
6 S All Pass

most every time he opened the bidding.

Today he is a Stayman addict and a suit preference fanatic. He opens one no trump almost any distribution just to give his partner a chance to say two clubs. And the two clubs response is practically automatic with him when his partner opens with one no trump.

As for his passion for suit preference signals, take today's hand. He made the very fine opening of the deuce of diamonds. His partner won with the king and returned a club which he ruffed for the setting trick.

"NICE BIDDING and nice play, partner," said Mr. Dale, beaming.

"My suit preference lead of the deuce of diamonds did the trick," gloated Mr. Rhule. Mr. Dale had not noticed any such signal, but had only made the natural return, was silent.

But Mr. Champion was sore at being outbid and outplayed. "What do you think Dale would have led back if he had never heard of suit preference?" he barked. "On the bidding and the looks of the dummy, a half-wit would have returned a club."

There was a lot of truth in Mr. Champion's words. Many times, the suit preference signal gets credit for a certain lead, where the very same lead would have been selected on the basis of ordinary common sense and good judgment.

The Mature Parent—

Emotional Housecleaning May Be Needed

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

SAY to Mrs. Y., "I hope you had a pleasant time over the holidays"—and she says, "I worked like a slave, if that's what you mean. It was Paula who had the fun."

Say to her, "What colorful table doilies!" and she says, "The set is ruined. Paula has burned two with cigarettes."

Say almost anything to Mrs. Y., and she will make what you say refer to some past action with which she can reproach her daughter.

What is Paula like? She is 16 years old. She is a chain smoker. In her purse, along with her cigarettes, she carries a box of aspirin for her frequent headache attacks.

Does Mrs. Y. really find it too hard to forgive her child for the day during Christmas vacation when she took a lunch guest off to skate without washing up the dishes? Does she really so cherish her table mats that she cannot forget the two cigarette burns?

NO, MRS. Y. didn't really mind washing the dishes or losing two table doilies. The fact is, that she isn't angry with her child at all. She is angry because Mr. Y. contributes $20 a month to the support of an aging mother who never approved of his marriage.

Paula's mother feels that it would be best not to express this anger to Mr. Y. for fear she lose a husband instead of $20 a month. However, since anger repressed is not anger killed, but anger merely diverted, Mrs. Y.'s anger at her marital situation becomes anger at her child.

She welcomes any action by Paula that will afford her an excuse to discharge some of her feeling. Her need to complain is so intense that if Paula fails to behave thoughtlessly or badly, Mrs. Y. has to resurrect past misbehavior to relieve herself of inward emotional pressures that have nothing whatever to do with Paula or that misbehavior.

PARENTS, like other human beings, often suffer from resentment which they do not dare to admit or express openly. Though we try to stifle these inconvenient and dangerous feelings, we do not succeed.

All we do is to defour them away from the people who have nothing to do with them at all. We wound them with criticism and complaints that are all out of proportion to their mistakes.

If we don't catch on to the way our anger at others is making us use our children as scapegoats, we can actually come to expect and want them to do wrong things, to take satisfaction in their wrongdoing, in order to give ourselves the chance to sound off and make our indignation sound high-minded and good.

CHILDREN'S LOVE for us is pretty dependent on the quality of justice we give them. It is foolish of Mrs. Y. to refuse to recognize how unjustly she is treating Paula, since this refusal may not only cost her Paula's love but can also delay the solution of her marital problem.

Mrs. Y.'s trouble with Mr. Y. is based on her conviction that she is a victim of his injustice. She regards his financial gift to his mother as unfair to his wife.

If Mrs. Y. wants justice from her husband, she will not persuade him that she deserves it by treating their child unjustly. On the other hand, it is quite probable that by being most careful to dispense justice herself, Mrs. Y. might wake up one day to find her husband and child taking pleasure in returning some to her.

OF COURSE we never know, Mrs. Y. may not really be interested in justice at all. She may be merely interested in making Mr. Y. prove that he regards her good will above his own sense of responsibility.

In such a case, Mrs. Y. has some very thorough emotional housecleaning to do if she wishes to retain the love of any member of her family.

Mrs. Lawrence.

Teen Tastes Develop

BY ALICIA HART

SO you teen-agers think shopping is a snap. All you need is the necessary financial backing, and you are positive you could buy the most "dreamy" wardrobe imaginable.

Actually, buying spree take careful planning and training. If you want to get the best values for your money.

As a starter, you'd be a smart girl to accept guidance from your mother and the saleswoman who waits on you. They've both had enough experience to offer you valuable suggestions.

BEFORE YOU even leave home, analyze your figure and features. What are your most flattering colors? Decide on the type of clothes that will do the most for you, and then stick to them.

Since it's important for you to cultivate an individual style, better not shop with a group of friends. "Follow the leader" buying will only result in clothes that don't suit you.

SET ASIDE several days or afternoons for shopping. Concentrate on school clothes one day, and party duds the next. You'll never get anything you want by running from department to department.

Once you've made a list of what you need, don't sacrifice conservative, useful clothing for novelties. The outfit that's really "different" rarely outlasts the season.

Set your shopping sights high. The taste and technique you develop now will influence your appearance for the rest of your life.

Several Luncheons on Tap

Luncheons highlight two club meetings this week.

Miss Harriet Bury will address the Jesse Wallis Heywood Alliance of All Souls Unitarian Church at a luncheon tomorrow. Miss Bury is director of the Family and Child Care Division of the Health and Welfare Council of Indianapolis and Marion County. Her subject will be "Some Aspects of Community Planning."

Kyles Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Kyle, 1016 E. Palmer St., entertained as guests Mrs. Paul Pagies, Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. Curwin Leaming, Hazelwood Farm, Romney; and Miss Hallie Rariglen, Pasadena, Cal., as holiday guests.

Wife With Martyr Complex No Bargain for Husband

BY RUTH MILLETT

SOME women have the idea that the harder they work the better wives they are.

That attitude is reflected in many letters that come my way. The wife who feels neglected and unappreciated often goes into great detail about how hard she works, how she does all of the laundry, takes care of the yard, and all that.

And she is likely to talk, too, about how thrifty she is, spending little on herself, and economizing in every possible way. Just why these women think that a man's idea of a perfect wife should be one who works hard and denies herself everything is hard to figure out.

BUT THEY DO. And when they discover that the "hard work" isn't necessarily appreciated, they find it hard to believe.

Sure a man likes a well-kept home. And he certainly doesn't want to be driven to bankruptcy by an extravagant wife. But he isn't going to be made happy by how hard his wife works or how many things she does without.

Nor is he necessarily going to appreciate her for either one of these reasons. He is just as likely to take her everlasting drudgery and self-denial for granted as to think what a wonderful wife she is to work so hard and demand so little.

SO EVEN THOUGH you may have to work hard and have few of the things you really want, don't expect that, in itself, to hold a husband's love or prompt his appreciation.

And as soon as you can, and in every way that you can, ease up on the drudgery and always accept your fair share of the things that money will buy.

Here's A Simple, Light Dessert

Top off a rich, heavy dinner with a simple light dessert and you'll feel the better for it. One such tasty treat is a pineapple-marshmallow combination.

Cut up one pound of marshmallows and heat in top of a double boiler, stirring until melted. Then mix with one and one-half cups crushed pineapple. Chill in dessert glasses, top with coconut and serve.

Stretches Budget

Here's a penny-wise idea which will stretch the budget and appeal to the family. Serve a bowl of chile con carne (without beans) to ladle over macaroni and cheese.

Castleton China

Shown exclusively
at

Charles Mayer and Company

You will find our store the center of activity for brides—who like to register their pattern choices in China, Silver and Crystal, in our brides register.

A. BELROSE—A bouquet of roses and daisies in tones of rose, magenta and gray is framed in baroque scrolls in this romantic pattern.

Five pc. place-setting, $15.75

B. PEONY—Radiant peonies, exquisitely shaded from rose-pink to delicate carnation bloom among amber-green leaves.

Five pc. place-setting, $14.75

C. LILY—A delicate pattern of lilies in shades of pink and gray, framed in baroque scrolls in this romantic pattern.

Five pc. place-setting, $14.75

D. LILY—A delicate pattern of lilies in shades of pink and gray, framed in baroque scrolls in this romantic pattern.

Five pc. place-setting, $14.75

Mail Orders Carefully Filled

Charles Mayer and Company

• 29 WEST WASHINGTON STREET •

When Was Johnstown Flood?

See in your free 1952 St. Joseph Calendar and Weather Chart. Also has historical dates, weather data, planting charts, fishing, other facts. Get FREE at any drug counter.

Wyoming All Set Elk Invo

By United Press

JACKSON, HOI.—The first of an 800 head of elk are from the Teton their annual free of the state and men.

The elk have no promises to make, but collect the stay alive until next year, the elk—some at least—will pay as the prey in the Hole hunting season.

Without the would be no season. Each year Wyoming and fish commission with the federal fish service in feeding of roving elk in the playground of west.

Winters R

The winters high Teton are consistent just higher, freezing snow-bounds less the two service their free lunch program of the 17.0, ably die of the cold.

Several years ago government, at the sportsmen's groups established the Jackson National elk refuge, a winter haven for animals. The refuge supervision of Almon game manager for the federal service.

On the refuge, played "farmers" of hay, meat and milk. The hay, 3000 tons standing in fields graze through during. In addition, the foment and the state costs of buying and of hay to supplement.

Come by

Between about the last of November and the first of January, the refuge is open to the public. There they make their home, grazing in standing hay fields of hunters.

When heavy snow eight feet deep in covers the standing and federal workers purchased stores around the refuge. They diet the elk cakes of oil feed give them a varied to stretch out a ton—hay supplies.

"We can carry over year's hunting season many elk as we state we game was," Hancum, said. "I feed between 10,000 elk and the other for themselves."

Used Car Ceil

Prices Dip 8 P

WASHINGTON, Most used car ceilings nationally dropped yesterday, but the reduction will mean an actual change in prices.

The sole exception models which dropped per cent.

The Office of Regulation ordered the reflect normal depreciation automobiles generally below ceiling, however, cut in most cases the gap between the and the legal limit.

Additional two per all models are scheduled first day of each year—April 1.