

Second 'Casualty'—Trooper Quits To Join Smith Furniture Co.

Indiana state police today lost its second "top-notch" officer to a new paper furniture industry.

Latest to resign was Lt. Robert H. Shields, ranked as one of the department's outstanding officers. He was in charge of its Indianapolis post.

Lt. Shields resigns a 12-year career in the department to join the new industry founded by a fellow state police lieutenant, Earl Dallas Smith, who also resigned to devote full time to the manufacture of his now nationally acclaimed furniture.

Maj. Robert A. O'Neal, state police executive officer, said the department regretted the departure of both officers—"very good men."

Lt. Shields will become manager of the manufacturing and sales office of Dallas Smith Corp., 118 S. Pennsylvania St., of which Lt. Smith is president.

Patented Idea

Lt. Smith hit upon an idea for making inexpensive and sturdy "cardboard" furniture about two years ago and recently patented his idea to go into production of the fiber board, foam rubber chairs and couches. His idea was publicized in Life Magazine, and many of the nation's leading department stores and hotel chains have begun stocking the new furniture line.

Lt. Shields, 34, joined the state police in 1938 and became commanding officer of the Indianapolis post in 1949 after moving up through the ranks. He has figured in most of the department's important investigations, and was one of the men credited with helping solve the notorious Robert Austin Watts murder case.

The 32-year-old Lt. Smith also figured in the Watts investigation and both men turned in "praiseworthy jobs as policemen" in such outstanding cases as the Howard Pollard murder trial and the slaying of two Hammond policemen in 1947.

Served 10 Years

Lt. Smith served on the police force 10 years, returning after three years in the Air Force to head the department's aviation division as the department's chief pilot.

Lt. Smith lives at 2110 E. 61st Pl. with his wife, a daughter and twin sons, and Lt. Shields resides at 1806 N. Auburn St., Speedway, with his wife, a son and daughter.

Symington To Resign This Month

Editorial, Page 18

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—President Truman announced yesterday that W. Stuart Symington, his number one handy-man, will resign this month as administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(The Indianapolis Times reported exclusively yesterday, before the President's announcement, that Mr. Symington would resign.)

The President told his news conference that Mr. Symington has wanted to leave government service for the last 18 months and that he will accept his resignation sometime this month.

Disclosure of Mr. Symington's plans to resign came as no surprise to official Washington. It has been known for some time that he wished to take an extended vacation after six straight years in high-pressure government jobs.

No Successor Named

There was no hint as to who would succeed Mr. Symington as RFC administrator.

He took the post for the express purpose of reorganizing the huge government lending agency and rebuilding public confidence in it. He himself enjoyed the full confidence not only of Mr. Truman but of Congress as well.

When he accepted the post last May, he said he would stay no longer than necessary to perform the cleanup and reorganization job that Mr. Truman had assigned him.

Mr. Symington inherited the RFC from a five-man board of directors that was castigated by a Senate banking subcommittee headed by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) for their management of the agency.

Linked to Favoritism

Three of the directors were accused of belonging to a "favoritism and influence" web that strung into the White House itself.

E. Merl Young, a key figure in the congressional inquiry, was indicted by a federal grand jury Dec. 19 on charges of lying about accepting "influence" fees. Three other persons whose names figured in the testimony also were indicted.

Mr. Young is a former RFC employee. His milk-coated wife was a White House stenographer until she quit the post to help her husband operate their newly-purchased Florida motel.

Offers $400 Reward In Death of Teacher

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 4 (UP)—Gov. Kerr Scott offered a $400 reward yesterday to anyone furnishing evidence leading to arrest and conviction of the person who wired dynamite under the seat of a pickup truck to kill a GI farm training supervisor at Mt. Airy.

William Homer Cochran Jr., of Surry County, was brutally murdered while he was attempting to start his truck in the performance of his duties as a vocational agriculture teacher, the governor said in a proclamation announcing the reward.

The 24-year-old teacher died 13 hours after the blast Dec. 31 hurled parts of his truck atop the four-story apartment building where he lived.

Senator Predicts Hike In Servicemen's Pay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UP)—Sen. Lester C. Hunt predicted today that Congress will give servicemen a pay boost.

The Wyoming Democrat, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, forecast a seven to 10 per cent increase in the pay of men in uniform. He raised the possibility that "graduate" pay increase might give larger boosts to lower ranks and rates.

Six Arrested in Rash of Break-Ins Here

Early morning break-ins here and arrest of six persons kept Indianapolis police busy today.

Occurring in a 1½-hour period, they were reported by the Cotton Club, 244 W. Vermont St., and the Valhalla Bowling Alley, 2545 W. Morris St.

Near the window on which he perched, police found a burlap bag containing 18 bottles of whiskey identified by the club manager as property of the Cotton Club.

At the Valhalla Bowling Alley, an hour earlier, police arrested Calvin Cline, 20, of 980 Church St., and sent four juveniles, 15-17 years old to Juvenile Aid Division. They were picked up on blocks on S. Meridian St. were suspicious as they drove in the reported looted of an undetermined amount of merchandise.

Wee Hour Auto Crash Rate Blamed On Sleepy Eyes

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 (CDN)—Drowsiness can make you see double, says Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, professor of physiology at the University of Chicago.

He tested the vision of 13 men and five women kept awake during a 30-hour period. Those who began getting drowsy had difficulty seeing properly. Writing in the French publication, "L'ance Psychologique," Dr. Kleitman said drowsiness of vision may help account for the relatively high rate of auto accidents in early morning hours.

The midnight to 4 a. m. period is the third most dangerous four-hour period in the 24, even though traffic is relatively light.

The physiologist advised drivers to pull off the road in the early morning hours and resume driving later in the morning when the muscular balance of the eyes returns.

In Princeton It's 2 Guys For Each Job

PRINCETON, Ind., Jan. 4—Duplicate Republican and Democratic employees of this city's 27 jobs raced each other to work today while awaiting a court decision on who controls the patronage.

Both Democratic Mayor M. Vernon Woodruff and his GOP city council appointed workers to each of the jobs. In most cases, the man who showed up for work earliest did the work and the other loafed.

But the council said it would not recognize claims for payment of merchandise "sold to or ordered by" the Democratic holdovers. It said it would recognize claims only of council-appointed persons.

Files Injunction Suit
Mayor Woodruff filed an injunction suit in Gibson Circuit Court asking that the council not interfere with his appointed workers. The suit also sought to enjoin City Clerk-Treasurer William Davidson from paying the council-appointed workers.

Both parties said the dispute centers on membership of a fifth class city's board of public works. Mayor Woodruff believed it should be composed of the mayor, his city attorney—a Democrat—and a councilman. But the council said it should be two councilmen and the mayor.

Mayor Woodruff's suit accused the council of trying to take over the executive as well as the legislative authority of the city. It cannot come up in court until Jan. 14, when the next session starts, and even then, Judge A. Dale Ely is expected to disqualify himself.
