

MONDAY, JAN. 7, 1952

THE INDIANAPOLIS TIMES

PAGE 7

Two Polio Victims on Honeymoon

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 7 (UPI)—Two polio victims were honeymooning today after a wedding ceremony at which all the attendants and most of the guests were paralysis victims.

The ceremony at First Wesleyan Methodist Church yesterday climaxed the four-month romance of Dorothy Raymer, 26, and Robert Haskins, 25. They met at a club which the bride founded a year ago "for the social betterment of the handicapped."

"I never saw anything like it," the Rev. William Montgomery said after performing the ceremony.

The bride, stricken with polio when she was an infant and confined to a wheel chair until she was 15, walked proudly down the aisle on special white crutches with the Indianapolis Board of Trade. Services at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Dorsey Funeral Home, Entombment in Washington Park Mausoleum.

MRS. GEORGE (EVALINE) STEWART, 39, Greenwood. Services at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Hinshaw Funeral Home, Sheridan. Burial, Crown View Cemetery. Sheridan.

MRS. ROBERT (LUCILLE) NELSON, former Indianapolis resident. Services at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary. Burial, Crown Hill.

DAWSON STANDISH, 75, of 407 E. 33d St. Services at 1 p. m. Wednesday at Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary. Entombment in Washington Park Mausoleum.

BARNIE SIDNEY BEAUFORD, 54, of 2052 Belfonteine St. Services at 1 p. m. Wednesday at George M. Miller Mortuary. Burial, Crown Hill.

ADVERTISING
Ruptured Men
Get $3.50 Gift
For Trying This

Kansas City, Mo.—Here is an improved means of holding rupture that has benefited thousands of ruptured men and women in the last year.

Inconspicuous, without leg straps, elastic belts, body encircling springs or harsh pads, it has caused many to say, "I don't see how it holds so easy. I would not have believed, had I not tried it."

So comfortable—so easy to wear—it could show you the way to joyous freedom from your rupture trouble.

You can't lose by trying. It is sent to you on 30 days trial. You receive a $3.50 special truss as a present for your report.

Write for descriptive circular. It's free. Just address Physician's Appliance Company, 6234 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main, Kansas City 8, Missouri.

But do it today before you lose the address.

Local Deaths

SAMUEL KING, 75, of 1040 N. Illinois St. Services at 1 p. m. tomorrow at Jacobs Bros. West Side Chapel. Burial, New Crown.

MRS. GUY (MARY ELIZABETH) JOHNSON, 60, of 336 S. Fleming St. Services at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow at Conkle West 16th St. Funeral Home. Burial, Moreland.

ORANGE HORN, 66, of 541 W. 25th St. Services at 1 p. m. Wednesday at Patton Funeral Home. Burial, Crown Hill.

MRS. MARGARET HURLEY, 79, of 1449 Shannon Ave. Services at 9 a. m. Wednesday in Little Flower Catholic Church. Burial, Holy Cross Cemetery.

HORACE T. MATHEWS, 59, of 623 E. 60th St. Services at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary. Burial, Crown Hill.

ALSON T. MORRIS, 61, of 335 N. Franklin Rd., grain inspector with the Indianapolis Board of Trade. Services at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Dorsey Funeral Home, Entombment in Washington Park Mausoleum.

MRS. ROBERT (LUCILLE) NELSON, former Indianapolis resident. Services at 11 a. m. Wednesday at Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary. Burial, Crown Hill.

DAWSON STANDISH, 75, of 407 E. 33d St. Services at 1 p. m. Wednesday at Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary. Entombment in Washington Park Mausoleum.

BARNIE SIDNEY BEAUFORD, 54, of 2052 Belfonteine St. Services at 1 p. m. Wednesday at George M. Miller Mortuary. Burial, Crown Hill.

ADVERTISING
Ruptured Men
Get $3.50 Gift
For Trying This

Court Order Ends Mixup At Princeton

By United Press

PRINCETON, Ind., Jan. 7.—Mayor M. Vernon Woodruff's 26 Democratic city appointees obeyed a restraining order today and stayed away from work ending a five-day mixup during which two persons reported for each job.

They stayed home after Pike Circuit Judge Lester Nixon issued an order forbidding them to interfere with the work of Republicans appointed to the jobs by the GOP city council until Jan. 14.

But the order did not end the controversy that began Jan. 1 when a politically divided city administration took office amid a scrap over patronage.

Mr. Nixon is judge of a circuit adjoining the Gibson County court area. The council asked him for relief under a little used law which allows such petitions in neighboring courts when the home court is in vacation or recess.

Judge Out of City

Earlier, Mr. Woodruff had asked an injunction against the Republicans in Judge A. Dale Eby's Gibson Circuit Court. But court was in recess until next Monday and Mr. Eby was out of the city.

Mr. Woodruff, who said Saturday he was going "coon hunting" and intended to forget the dispute during the week-end, had no comment today on his opponents' move.

Meanwhile, the GOP department heads and employees of street, water, garbage, sewage and park departments got their first workout of the year. Last week, they mostly stood by while Democratic incumbents did the work.

The "Atomic Special," operated by Island Air Ferries, Inc., is used rather than land transportation because some of the radioactive substances have short half-lives—that is, half of their radioactivity is gone in a matter of hours or a day.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent to 26 different research organizations in the United States.

The Boston shipment of "hot atoms" is part of a steady supply of radioactive substances turned out by the Brookhaven national laboratory's atomic furnace. Since the furnace has been operating all of 1951—there have been 270 radioactive isotopes sent