Hoosier Headliners Contest Judges Are Announced

NATIONALLY known judges have been announced for the annual Hoosier Headliners contest sponsored by the Indianapolis Alumnae Chapter of Theta Sigma Phi. Indiana newspapers are co-operating.

Contest winners will be announced at the Matrix Table of the group to be Apr. 5 in the Antlers Hotel by the national professional journalism fraternity for women.

The judges and their various divisions include Elizabeth Toomey, United Press special writer, women's page features; Thomas Moore, Chicago Tribune night and make-up editor, straight news, and Edward J. Mowery, New York World-Telegram and Sun, winner of the Pulitzer award for setting off an international war against peddling dope to minors, straight news series.

HAL BOYLE, Associated Press reporter, feature stories, and Ernest K. Lindley, Washington editor of Newsweek, editorials.

Women newspaper writers all over Indiana are invited to submit entries. Contest announcements were mailed to all newspapers in the state today. Rules for entry are included in the announcement. There are no entry blanks and no entry fee.

A $25 first prize and $10 second prize in each of the five divisions will be presented in person at Matrix Table. Mrs. Irvin J. Miller is chairman of the contest.

MRS. LOUIS WHITESELL is Matrix Table chairman, and Mrs. Florence Herz Stone is Theta Sigma Phi president.

Daily and weekly newspapers which contributed funds for cash prizes are The Indianapolis Times, the Indianapolis Star, Clay City News, Corydon Democrat, Ft. Wayne Journal-Gazette, Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel, Gary Post-Tribune, Hammond Times, Kokomo Tribune, Michigan City News Dispatch, Monticello Herald, and Peru Daily Tribune.

Others include the Pulaski County Democrat, South Bend Tribune, Tipton Daily Tribune, Vidette - Messenger of Valparaiso and the Williamsport Pioneer.

Study Club to Meet

Mrs. Sam L. McCormick Jr., 1137 Hawks Lane, will be hostess tomorrow to members of the Study Review Club. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. J. Kurker and Mrs. Fred H. Wuefeling.

Teachers To Attend Art Show

TEACHERS of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades and art teachers in the public and parochial schools of Indianapolis will be guests of the Indianapolis Art Association at 3:45 p. m. tomorrow in Herron Art Museum.

Wilbur D. Peat, museum director, will speak on the new exhibit, "The Arts of Old Persia," which he assembled. He also wrote the catalog.

Guests also will view the collection of art objects from prehistoric times to the 19th Century, which have been loaned to the museum.

JUNIOR LEAGUE members who have been acting as lecture guides for groups of children from city schools will be hostesses at the tea.

Among them are Mesdames Jameson Campaigne, chairman, Mesdames J. Perry Meek, Post Milliken, Charles R. Weiss, Edwin M. McNalley, John E. D. Peacock, Norma R. Kevers, Charles Latham, Robert Smith and Harry V. Wade and Miss Josephine Madden.

Lake Shore Golfers Plan 'Pig Roast'

A "Pig Roast" will be held from 6 to 8 p. m. tomorrow by the Golf Club of the Lake Shore Country Club for members and their guests.

The event is under the direction of Bob Hiatt, Clyde Andrews and Clarence Trieb. There will be a golf picture shown following the dinner.

By JEAN SPICKLEMIER

THE younger the artist the more uninhibited is his work.

That's a fact Ray Hodson, art instructor at Park School for Boys, will verify. His class of first and second graders will produce a hill, an elephant, a plane at his slightest suggestion.

Their spontaneous interest leads them on to turn the hill into a landscape, the elephant into a jungle mural and the plane into a German Messerschmidt.

Probably one of the reasons for their amazing ingenuity is Mr. Hodson's theory of expression. He gives them a choice of materials—chalk, crayon, showboard paint or pencil. He seldom worries them about details. Instead encouragement is substituted.

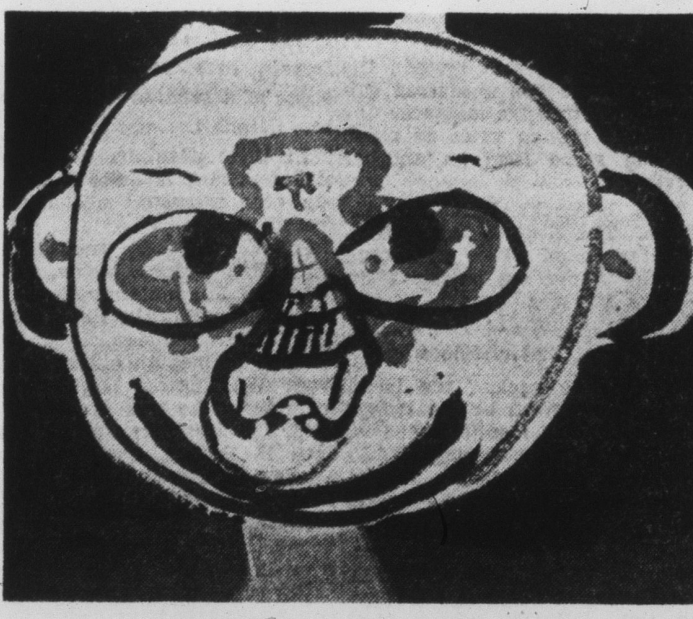

WHEN THE YOUNGSTERS go home covered with chalk dust or paint smudges, there's never a reproach from mama. Home co-operation contributes to the Left Bankish atmosphere.

Normally Mr. Hodson draws a pattern on the blackboard. The class follows suit, embellishing their copy with original ideas. Often free periods are allowed in which the children may draw anything they desire. Mr. Hodson sets the general theme for the period and the tots carry on from there.

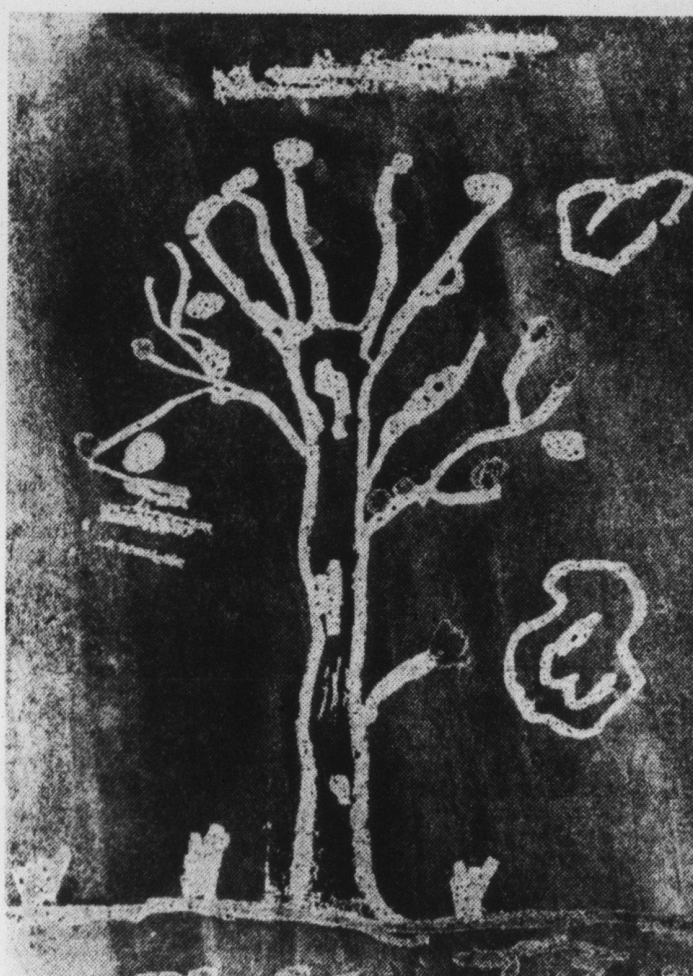

A classroom art "gallery" filled with pictures like the ones shown spark added interest. Although art is "required" at Park through the sixth grade, older students try to cram it into their programs if possible. A good many work at it late in the afternoon when their regular schedule is over.

ONE OF THESE boys has done so well, Mr. Hodson plans to enter his oil painting in an upcoming scholastic art show. For the first time this year, a Park pupil will create the cover for the Park Mothers Garden Tour calendar. The boys are working on a design now, the winner to be selected early in March.

Big event of the year is the exhibit during the term in the gymnasium. Then each of the amateur artists—first graders and upper school students alike—have their works "hung" for parents and friends to view.

Blackwood on Bridge—Careless Handling of Opening Bid Cited

ONE of the principal marks of an "old-fashioned" bidder is his careless handling of the opening bid of one no trump. His requirements for such an opening are a balanced hand and "something" in every suit.

When you realize that "something" could be anything from an ace down to a jack, it is clear that there could be a wide range of strength between a minimum and a maximum holding.

Today the high card strength for an opening one no trump is held between narrow limits—three and one-half to four honor tricks or 16 to 18 points in the Work count or about an 11 to 12 count, Four Aces.

IN THE HAND just before this one, Mr. Fusty, whose bidding methods go back to auction days, opened one no trump with a jack above an average hand. In this deal, as you see, he made the same opening with three aces, a king, three queens and two jacks. It's pretty hard to know when to raise him and when to pass.

Mr. Dale, with hopeless looking suits of his own, decided to try and hit something in his partner's hand and opened the seven of spades. The four was played from dummy and, after

"I just told you on the last hand," replied Mr. Fusty, "they mean I have better than an average hand and, no bid-able suit."

"In my league," went on Mr. Champion, "an opening no trump shows between 40 per cent to a little less than 50 per cent of the high cards. Your hand was too strong for that bid."

"In my league," said Mr. Fusty, "they mean just what I told you twice."

Mr. Champion correctly figured there was no point in discussing the matter further.

some thought, Mrs. Keen won with the ace, Mr. Fusty dropping the jack. A spade was "returned" and dummy's 10 won.

A successful heart finesse was taken and Mr. Fusty then led a small diamond and put up dummy's queen. Mrs. Keen won with the king and led a third spade, taken by dummy's king.

Thus, Mr. Fusty was enabled to take another heart finesse and rack up nine tricks—two spades, three hearts, three clubs and a diamond. Mrs. Keen could have held him to a trick by ducking the first spade lead, thereby killing one of the entries to the board.

"MAYBE YOU'D better tell me more about your opening no trump bids," said Mr. Champion, testily.

Legion Unit Presses UMT Drive

AN all-out drive to effectuate Universal Military Training made possible by the passage of Public Law 51 last session of Congress was planned at yesterday's meeting of the National Executive Committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, in the Antlers Hotel.

Activities in connection with the education of public opinion and with passage of the bill by the legislature have been entrusted to Mrs. A. J. Breaux, Beaumont, Tex., legislative chairman, and Mrs. F. P. Bowersox, Fremont, Neb., security chairman.

The Legion is supporting Senate legislation, S. 2441, and two House bills, HR 5403 and 6032. These bills differ from the President's Commission Report in reducing from seven to six years, after UMT, the time required for service in the National Guard or Reserve Officers Association.

They also seek to place UMT under civilian planning and control rather than military.

MRS. RAE ASHTON, Vernal, Utah, national chairman of the rehabilitation committee, stated that 100,000 Americans are casualties of the Korean conflict.

She added, "These great hospitals with new equipment designed to meet the needs of World War II veterans have proved islands of hope and mercy for our wounded in the Korean War. All of these veterans have basic needs for physical, mental and spiritual training."

"They need education for they are so young. Many have not had the chance to prepare for their life's work. They need retraining, jobs, love and interest. All of these, we can help to give."

MRS. HAROLD S. BURDETT, Brooklyn, N. Y., national child welfare chairman, reported on the area child welfare conferences being held throughout the country with accent on protecting children from narcotics.

Mrs. B. D. Ward, Kingswood, W. Va., Americanism national chairman, also talked.

Yesterday's meeting and dinner meeting were presided over by Mrs. A. E. Campbell, Homer, La., national president. She also led the organization's officers and delegates this afternoon to the Woman's Patriotic Conference for National Defense in Washington, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Sorority to Meet

A social meeting will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow by Rho Chapter, Phi Delta Pi Sorority, at the home of Mrs. Burton Keithley, 145 N. Denny St.
