

Caprices by Christy

A LAMB, a spit, an outdoor fire and a strong arm can add up to an old-fashioned barbecue. Of course, a few people should be around to serenade the lamb.

It happened last night at the Jack Shelton's and there were 10 couples present to join in the chorus.

Mrs. Shelton decided that dinner guests meant work for the hostess so an outdoor treat would be the solution.

Men took turns turning the spit over the hot coals and finally the food was eaten around the flames on paper dishes. These were later added to the fire.

No work, no house to clean, and still it was entertaining.

Here's a way to keep that grocery bill down and still eat like a Nero. Improve your party personality and see to it that you're indispensable to social gatherings (especially dinners).

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Davidson didn't spend a cent on food this past week-end. They started off Friday night by being guests in the Indianapolis Athletic Club for the buffet dinner. Saturday morning, breakfast and luncheon were on Mrs. Lenora Spratt with a dinner party that evening at the John Conways.

An all-day picnic was on the agenda for yesterday, taking care of everything up to the midnight snack.

The best things in life are free.

Women are never too young or too old when it comes to clothing.

A 4-year-old girl entered one of the downtown department store lingerie departments with an older woman. The grown-up asked to see a pair of girdles and the salesgirl proceeded to show them to the customer.

Suddenly, the child said, "I used to wear rubber pants, too, when I was a little girl. But I don't have to anymore."

Wait 'til she grows a bit.

"Love thy neighbor," can be expressed in a number of ways. But Mrs. Fannie Price's method wasn't appreciated by everyone. Having seen "South Pacific," she purchased the record album of the musical, took it home and started off in her attempt to please the neighborhood.

First, all the windows were raised. Then the victrola volume was turned up as high as it would go.

Meanwhile, the phone kept ringing, unheard by the music lover. As the third record started spinning, an indignant man entered the house complaining about "all the racket."

With eyes wide open, Mrs. Price said, "But I only wanted to share this beautiful music with everyone."

AAUW Raps Defense Cut

Times Special
WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 31—The American Association of University Women went on record today in opposition to any cut in the $7.9 billion appropriation proposed by the administration for the 1953 mutual security program.

The association emphasized the need for defense support to Europe and Point Four aid to other areas in a statement to members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The statement was also sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The AAUW statement pointed out that a drastic cut in the aid appropriations would have unfavorable psychological repercussions in the free world. "Failure to provide defense

Point Clarified for Times Sewing Contest Entrants

JUDGING from the number of calls being received in the fashion department pertaining to The Times National Sewing Contest, there is considerable confusion over what constitutes a "Standard Pattern."

Let's clear it up right now. "Standard Pattern" means any commercial or newspaper pattern. If you wish to use a pattern service from a newspaper, you need not confine your selection to The Times service. Your entry is judged on its craftsmanship and style and not upon the pattern chosen.

IN THE LOCAL contest, first prize in each of the eight classifications is $50, second prize, $20.

First prize in the national contest is $100 in each classification. In addition, the first prize winners of the national finals will receive a three-day expense-paid trip to New York. If any Times' winners place first in national judging, they will receive an additional $100 award from The Times. Here are the rules:

The contest is open to women and men of all ages in the area reached by The Times, except employees of the newspaper and their immediate families. Professional designers or dress-makers are not eligible.

CONTESTANTS may submit as many garments as they wish, provided each garment is accompanied by an official entry blank which we will make available free.

The decision of judges will be final, and in case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Judging will be on workmanship, neatness, style, attractiveness, suitability of style and fabric used.

THE CLASSIFICATIONS ARE: SENIOR STANDARD PATTERN GROUP: Open to contestants above 18 years of age. Every entry in this group must be made from a Standard Commercial pattern—any commercial or newspaper pattern. There are three classifications in this group. They are wool coat or suit; tailored dress of wool, linen or linen-weave fabric; and afternoon dress of silk, rayon or dressy cotton. Prizes will be awarded in each of these three categories.

THE MEN AND WOMEN of LINDE and PREST-O-LITE welcome you, members of the International Acetylene Association and your guests, to Indianapolis. On the occasion of your 52nd Convention we congratulate you on being one of the oldest technical organizations in this country. You have a fine record of 54 years serving IAA members and the public concerning the production and uses of calcium carbide, acetylene gas, and related products. The IAA and our Company have mutual interests—always have had. In fact, acetylene has been a byword hereabouts since 1907, when the PREST-O-LITE factory was established. Today nearly 1000 people at Speedway are regularly engaged in operations relating principally to acetylene.

We're looking forward to being your hosts this Tuesday at lunch and on a tour of our Speedway facilities. You will find many things to interest you in our apparatus factory, our research laboratory, and our acetylene plant.
