

CHUCKHOLE COLLECTOR—George Osman, State Ave. and Raymond St. supermarket operator, measures the one he entered in The Times Chuckhole Derby.

Jump in Chuckhole Derby

By ED KENNEDY

Are pit stops plaguing your driving in Indianapolis?

Not pits of the Speedway type where you pull in for repairs, but the chuckhole kind which make those repairs necessary.

If you've exhausted yourself and your choice collection of temper words—temper yourself and turn your cheek. Get a laugh out of the chuckhole and maybe laugh it out of existence.

David A. Hendricks, of 2933 S. East St., has just such an axle breaker entered in The Times Chuckhole Derby. This pit is at Madison Ave. and Merrill St.

You too, should enter the chuckhole bothering you in The Times Chuckhole Derby. Just fill out the entry and send it in.

"I'm steaming hot about this particular chuckhole," Mr. Hendricks says in a letter sent along with his entry.

"Last night I passed there and seeing no markings of any type I drove across at about 25 mph. Boom. I thought the front end of my car had fallen out. I believe this 'basement' has caused the front end of my car to be out of line," he said.

Another entrant in the derby, Mrs. Calvin Baucum, of 31 Sycamore St., reports the chuckhole near her house is so deep a policeman on a motorcycle got stuck in it recently.

The Chuckhole Derby, which can go on all year with Indianapolis streets being what they are will suspend operations tomorrow for the big once a year 500 to take over. But be back with The Sunday Times for early results in the pit contest and some good news for entrants.
