

UN Planes Rip 4 Key Targets As GIs Hold Vital Hill

Foe Repulsed At Outpost in 10-Hour Fight

By United Press
SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 6.—United Nations warplanes smashed four vital Communist targets today, including a North Korean Corps headquarters, while ground soldiers hurled back a savage Red attack on a strategic hill outpost after a 10-hour battle.

United Nations Pantherjets, Meteors and Shooting Stars destroyed 66 buildings in the North Korean Army's 8th Corps headquarters south of Kowon on the east coast.

Pilots reported 10 large fires swept through the area and three secondary explosions sent flames and smoke billowing to the sky. "The buildings just seemed to collapse as though they were made of playing cards," said Capt. Felix C. Fowler of Cleveland, O.

Blast Red Mine
Other United Nations warplanes plastered a Communist tungsten mine south of Tangdok, but clouds over the target prevented a full assessment of damage. Pilots reported two large secondary explosions.

In early morning attacks, American B-26 night bombers virtually wiped out an important Communist supply center at Puk-chong on the east coast, and 11 Okinawa-based B-29 Superforts blasted a military supply area near Hamhung in northeast Korea.

American Sabrejets probably shot down one Communist MIG-15 and damaged another in two aerial battles between 38 Sabres and 50 MIGs.

The heavy air attacks came as Communist ground troops stepped up their pressure along the 155-mile battlefield.

Battle for 10 Hours
Screaming North Korean Communists fought fanatically for 10 hours in an attempt to take a forward hill outpost held by soldiers of the 25th Division's famed Wolfhound regiment. The hill, known as "sandbag castle," is on the east-central front north-west of the punchbowl.

Chinese Communists attacked United Nations infantrymen at two points on the western front after heavy artillery and mortar barrages.

Face Charges In $25 Holdup

Two men will face preliminary robbery charges today in a $25 hold-up at an East Side filling station.

A dented front fender on a late-model car led last night to the arrest of William A. Johnson, 22, 315 N. Lansing St., and James W. Graves, 22, of 2261 Brookside Ave.

They were seized by Police Lt. John Sullivan after a description of a car used by a hold-up man was broadcast over the police radio.

Described Car
Filling station attendant Richard Holder, 17, of 5714 N. Noland Ave., told police a man took about $25 from him at the station at 3702 E. 10th St.

He said the man took the money at gunpoint, then fled in a car with a smashed front fender.

Lt. Sullivan saw a car of that description on Massachusetts Ave. and stopped it at New York St. where he said he saw Johnson put a gun in the glove compartment.

The case was to be heard today before Municipal Court Judge Philip L. Bayt.

In other robberies, Nolan Long, 30, of 3117 N. Sherman Dr. said five men forced him into an alley at 1005 W. Washington St. and took his billfold containing $17.

William Collins, 1914 Carrollton Ave., said two men stopped him outside a tavern at Indiana Ave. and California St., taking $35 from him.

Barge Slows Traffic
PITTSBURGH — Allegheny County officials today figured a drawbridge over the Ohio River near here might be a good thing. A derelict barge got stuck under the Fleming Park bridge, disrupting traffic for 45 minutes.

Pal of Local Girl, 14, Held in Crime Spree

One of the two escaped convicts, who encouraged a 14-year-old Indianapolis girl to accompany them on a cross-country spree of burglaries and possibly two killings, today was back in custody.

But Detroit police still held the headstrong Indianapolis girl in secret "protective custody" because the other hunted convict has a definite "revenge complex."

Michael J. Giandoni, 23, was nabbed by the FBI yesterday in San Diego, Cal., where he was working in a soap factory.

Hunted in Detroit
Harold Hummel, his partner with the "revenge complex" was being hunted in a Detroit suburb. The Indianapolis girl told police she met Hummel in a downtown theater here and had threatened to kill her several times if she gave any information to police.

The FBI said Giandoni and Hummel were identified as gunmen who shot and killed bar owner Joseph Vinokur, 31, and his father, Vidos, in Hazel Park, a Detroit suburb during an attempted robbery last month. They escaped from the Michigan prison hospital July 21.

The Hoosier teen-ager said they told her Aug. 19 they had to "get out of Michigan in a hurry" and the three later left by car. She said that in Illinois Hummel, alias Bill Bonney, admitted shooting the victims in Hazel Park. The alias "Bill Bonney" was the name of "Billy the Kid," western badman of the last century.

Later the two argued over the loot from two other holdups and parted in Kansas, and she said, she left Hummel, returning to Michigan despite his two threats on her life.

can find someone to do it of the Negro race I'd like to hear about him."

RUSSIA — "There can be no normal peacetime relations with Russia as long as the Soviet Union continues to stir up revolts all over the world."

Ike's slightly revised views were delightfully received by Sen. William E. Jenner (R. Ind.), who is campaigning for re-election against Democrat Henry Schrieker.

'Same Views'
Said the Senator: "Eisenhower and I share the same views on foreign policy. He said we had no foreign policy. I've been saying that all along."

Undoubtedly, Sen. Jenner's campaign will be aided by Ike's sudden shift to the right. Democrats have made much of the fact Sen. Jenner and the General did not see eye to eye on foreign policy heretofore.

But speculation that Gen. Eisenhower and Sen. Jenner are now in close harmony on the basic foreign and domestic issues is misleading.

In his major foreign policy address in Philadelphia Thursday night, for example, the General rejected isolationism, which is one of Sen. Jenner's main issues.

Also, Gen. Eisenhower stated publicly he dislikes criticism of his old Army boss, Gen. George C. Marshall, whom the Indiana Senator labeled "a living lie."

But Ike greeted Sen. Jenner warmly and shook hands with him. There was no evidence of any breach.

Different Atmosphere
Fresh from his triumphal reception in Philadelphia, Gen. Eisenhower found a different atmosphere. Less than 300 persons, including politicians, greeted him at the airport.

But Ike radiated charm and confidence. He impressed candidates and leaders with his affability and desire to learn the ABC's of politics.

Such Indiana Ike supporters as Congressman Charles Halleck, publisher Eugene Pulliam and Congressman Charles Brownson were delighted with the General's performance. Even Hoosier Taft backers, like Lisle Wallace and State Chairman Cale J. Holder, were impressed.

He made one noticeable slip, saying "certainly I try to be honest, even if stupid."

Gen. Eisenhower listed as key issues in the campaign (1) peace, (2) the Korean War "caused by indecision and bungling in high places" and (3) honesty in government.

After Ike left the platform, National Chairman Arthur Summerfield called for the Midwest Republicans to rally around the General's candidacy and promised "rewards."

"What the honors are passed out," Mr. Summerfield said, "you are going to be in the front lines to receive them."

Poultry Demand Continues Brisk
LAFAYETTE—Demand for commercial broilers continues good in Indiana, Melvin L. Wilson, assistant in poultry husbandry at Purdue University, reports.

A total of 471,593 broilers and fryers were sold this week compared to 502,317 birds sold last week and 417,246 sold for the same period last year.

Lillian Aldridge, Pianist, Dies
Mrs. Lillian Madeline Aldridge, 50, popular night club pianist, died last night in her home at 1132 N. Illinois St.

Born in Linton, Mrs. Aldridge had lived here 20 years and had played in clubs throughout the city.

Survivors are her husband, James E.; two sisters, Mrs. Mary D'Brasseur and Mrs. Lorraine Eyer, both of Indianapolis; three brothers, Roy D. Parks, Indianapolis, William and Robert Parks, New Sarpy, La.

Services are being arranged by Flanner & Buchanan Mortuary.

Wins Top Prize In Horse Show

Meadow Princess, a 7-year-old chestnut mare, from the Dodge Stables, Lexington, Ky., took top honors in the $1000 three-gaited grand championship stake last night.

Credibly's Fancy Free, Ridgefield Farm, and Fashion Gail, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fleisch, 7938 Windcombe Blvd., were second and third in the stake class sponsored by Ayres.

Dodge Stables' Show Boat also captured the $1000 grand championship five-gaited stake. Bourbon Masterpiece and Abdullah King were second and third.

Other winners in the final night of the Indiana State Fair's Centennial show in the coliseum were: $1000 Heavy Harness Championship—Lucky Boy, second, and Custom Maid, first; $1000 Roadster, Waggon—Senator Plaster, first; $1000 Light Harness—Dutch White, second, and Dinner Date, third.

Coastal Threat Lifted as Storm Moves Out to Sea

By United Press
MIAMI, Sept. 6.—A tropical hurricane with winds up to 100 miles per hour moved slowly out to sea today after wallowing uncertainly across a shipping lane off the Carolina coast.

The Miami Weather Bureau said it was moving "toward the northeast" at 4 to 6 miles per hour and estimated its center at 430 miles east of Wilmington, N. C.

The bureau warned small craft from the North Carolina Cape to Atlantic City, N. J., not to venture into the open Atlantic until this storm passes.

Hurricane "Baker," second of the year, had sent ships scurrying when it whirled almost to a standstill at a menacing spot along ship routes halfway between the Carolinas and Bermuda.

The Navy cut short summer training cruises of 2000 Navy ROTC midshipmen from 50 colleges and universities and 16 warships raced into Norfolk, Va., last night 12 hours early to bring them home ahead of the storm.

Gruner Funeral Set for Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Patricia E. Gruner, former secretary in the State Department of Welfare, will be held at 5:30 a. m. Monday from the G. H. Herrmann Funeral Home to St. Philip Neri Catholic Church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

A lifelong resident of Indianapolis, Mrs. Gruner, who was 41 and lived at 526 Eastern Ave., had been prominent in women's bowling circles for 10 years. She was a member of the Altar Society of St. Philip Neri and of Beta chapter of Alpha Beta Phi Sorority.

Survivors are her husband, Wilbert R.; three sons, David, John and Michael; a daughter, Joan; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Harry Woirhaye; a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Rodenbeck, and a brother, Harry W. Woirhaye, all of Indianapolis.

Three of Family Killed in Crash

LAFAYETTE—A family of three was wiped out when their car crashed into a bridge on Ind. 43 south of Romney yesterday.

Mrs. Claudene Reddish, 40, was found dead in the wreckage. Her husband, Charles, and their 10-year-old daughter, Connie Lee, died later in the hospital here.

Gov. Schrieker Announces Special Session

Gov. Schrieker announced today he will not call a special session of the Indiana legislature to make it easier for a Hoosier serviceman to vote.

Gov. Schrieker's announcement was contained in a letter to George N. Craig, Republican nominee for governor, who asked a one-day session on grounds it is too hard for a soldier to register and vote under the present election laws.

The Governor said he and the other two members of the State Election Board, one of them Mr. Craig's fellow Republican Edwin C. Steers, "unanimously agreed that our present law gave ample opportunity to every legal voter to the armed services to become registered and to cast his vote at the coming election if he so desired."

Law Enacted in 1947
Gov. Schrieker also rejected Mr. Craig's suggestion to have Selective Service furnish county clerks the lists of service personnel because draft board information is under federal—not state—jurisdiction.

The Governor reminded Mr. Craig the present election law was enacted in 1947 with unanimous approval of both houses, and two regular and one special sessions had passed since then without any new legislation being introduced.

Furthermore, Gov. Schrieker said, nobody except Mr. Craig asked for a special session, "and I find it necessary to respectfully decline your request."

CIO Backs Schrieker In Senate Race
Indiana's CIO labor organization today announced it has endorsed Democrat Henry Schrieker for U. S. Senator.

Three other Democratic state candidates were also favored by the union. No Republicans were endorsed.

Other Democrats "approved" by the CIO were John A. Watkins, candidate for Governor; Spencer Walton, candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Thomas Callahan, candidate for Secretary of State.

Coach's Child Killed
SEYMOUR—The 2-year-old son of the Medora High School coach and athletic instructor was fatally hurt yesterday when he was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad passenger train. Authorities said Michael Hawley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hawley, was struck after he wandered away from his home, about a block from the tracks.

Expectant Mother's Prison Term Reduced

By JOHN V. WILSON
Beautiful Sherry Morgan, facing the prospect of bearing a child while in prison, had her 500-day sentence cut by 25 days today.

A young father, who refused to identify himself, contributed $25 toward the payment of her fine which she's serving out at the rate of $1 a day.

And Judge Harry O. Chamberlin, who sentenced the former model as a check forger, said he might contribute "something," too.

Deserted penniless by the man Sherry named as the father of the child, the 22-year-old redhead was to be transferred from the County Jail to the Woman's Prison today.

Expecting in February in the dramatic Criminal Court 1 session Thursday, Sherry revealed she is expecting a baby in February. Unless the fine is paid, she will remain in prison until January, 1954.

The unidentified contributor handed the $25 to the court clerk, Mrs. Maude Smith, yesterday. He explained he was a recent father and "wanted to help out."

Mrs. Smith gave him a receipt in the name of "John Doe." She said she would turn the money over to Charles Symmes, one of the public defenders who acted as Sherry's attorneys.

Judge Chamberlin was sympathetic toward Sherry's plight. But he was bound by law to punish her for a $30,000 forgery spree.

42 Injured In Bus Crash

Greyhound Vehicle Hits Truck in N. J.

By United Press
BORDENTOWN, N. J., Sept. 6.—A south-bound Greyhound bus traveling on the high-speed New Jersey Turnpike rammed the rear of a slow-moving truck today, injuring 42 persons, two critically.

Turnpike Trooper Glenn So-wash, 28, said both vehicles careened into a ditch about four miles south of the Bordentown Exchange on the Turnpike.

Mr. Sowash said all of the persons involved in the accident were shaken up but only 17 were hospitalized.

'People Were Moaning'
"The front of the bus was ripped wide open," Mr. Sowash said. "People were moaning. A lot of them were hysterical."

The bus was headed for Washington from New York.

Mr. Sowash said the impact turned the truck, which was carrying a cargo of onions, over on its roof, but that William James Jr., 41, of Congers, N. Y., the driver, and his wife, May, got out without aid.

The trooper said Mr. James told him he had halted the truck under an overpass a few minutes before the crash "to rest a few minutes."

Mr. Sowash said Mr. James then resumed his journey at a 25 mile speed.
