

A description of a social circle, in the vicinity of Boston.

OUR social band, is thus composed :-

Seven towns have giv'n us birth,
sir,

In a small circle we'er inclos'd—
And meet for civil mirth, sir.

Three Husbandmen, our club adorn ;

Three Blacksmiths, and a Hatter ;

One Currier good as e'er was born :

We do not mean to flatter.

Of Housewrights two, a Wheelwright one,

Two Victuallers fat and hearty ;

And one Cordwainer, who loves fun,

And these make up our party.

Our meetings once a month we hold,

At each one's house, by turns, sir,

The season whether warm or cold,

Each breast with Friendship burns
sir.

Two strings to the Bow

As fiddlers and archers who cunningly know

The way to procure themselves merit,

Will always provide them two strigs to their bow,

And manage their business with spirit,

So likewise the provident maiden should do,

Who would make the best use of her beauty:

If her mark she would hit, or her lesson play through,

Two lovers must still be her duty,

Thus arm'd against chance, and secure of supply,

Thus far our revenge we may carry:

One spark, for amusement, we may jilt and set by

And tother, poor soul! we may marry.

WOMEN.

A woman is a BOOK, and often found

To prove far better in the SHEETS than bound ;

No wonder then, some students take delight,

Above all things, to study in the night !!

Remarkable Meteor.

The Gazette of Dusseldorf speaks of a remarkable meteor. On the 16th ult. at 6 in the evening, a large mass of Iron fell in the streets of our city: this mass when cool, was hard, but it was easily broken, and emitted a sulphurous smell. Meteors of this kind are very rare here.

Melancholy --- On Saturday morning, James Black, stage driver, while driving the mail-stage 7 miles west of this place, on the road to Pittsburgh, was frozen to death and fell from his seat. This distressing event took place about day-break, the horses going on correctly as usual, he was not missed by the passengers in the stage until they had proceeded two and a half miles from the spot where he fell, nor until they were hailed by a person who had discovered the dead body, and followed them with the information [Greensburg Gaz-

Unchartered Banks,

Two persons of colour, at Columbus, Ohio, quarrelled. One wishing to make his antagonist as contemptible as possible, called him "a d— du unchartered son of a bitch." It has since become quite fashionable at the aforesaid place to apply the appellation of "unchartered" to all evil doers. [Ohio Fed.

A good one.

A lusty young man was earnest with his father to be married, & after much importunity he was married to a neighbor's daughter; he had not been married six months, till he looked so bad, & was so ill and feeble, that he could scarce stand on his legs! A little after, he espied a butcher running over ploughed field after a mad bull: he asked him why he did so? He told him to tame him. O! says he, let him be married—let him be married, if it dont tame him I'll be swampt.

An Irishman travelling in a street that was paved, a dog accosted him with a threatening growl, the traveller attempted to pull up one of the paving stones to throw at him, but it was fast. Arrah, says Paddy, what a country is this, where stones are tied and dogs let loose.
