George Washington; and to the honorable, the virtuous and the brave; the hypocrite and the coxcomb he spurns from his presence.

Washington's March.

Thomas Jefferson; the American philosopher; the preserver of sound principles.

Jefferson and Liberty.

Montgomery and Clinton; of the brightest stars in the solution; may the Eastern eyes never fail in statesmen and patriots to supply their place.

Jemmy Welcome Home.

An equal distribution of office throughout the union, according to merit, a just policy, the only means to establish a nation.

The congress of the United States; the guardians of the people. They have done their duty.

Jackson, Harrison, Brown, Tomb, and Smith, with their grades in arms; the conquerors of the veterans of Wellington.

Jackson's Morning Brush.

McGregor and Bolivar, the patriots of South America, now fighting to free another part of the globe from the craft and priest craft. They have our prayers; what a pity it was not our presence.

Rolling's Hornpipe.

Our executive department, from which emanates justice, and which is rewarded. May it never be deceived, and take enemies for friends in the distribution of goods.

Drops of Drink.

The Eagle to watch, and sharp to tune the nations, under the tree of liberty shall have a perch in each sufficient for them to rest upon, when the storm of bootism is past.

The state of Ohio. May she maintain her integrity, and for her constitution.

Ricketts' Hornpipe.

Agriculture and manufactures; the two main pillars of freedom and independence.

Road to Boston.

The army and navy of the United States. They have laid the foundation for the freedom of mankind. Will not the nations accept the offer, and build thereon?

Sailor's Hornpipe.

Bonaparte, the choice of the French people. His superior greatness is acknowledged by the monarchs of the old world, now exiled in the island of St. Helena. Experience has taught him the folly of ambition.

Bonaparte's Lamentation.

The American people—wielding the sword and sceptre of liberty. Will not the nations learn wisdom therefrom?

AFFAIRS OF THE PATRIOTS. A gentleman just arrived from Port-au-Prince in, the brig Aid, gives us the cheering intelligence of success having attended the arms of the Patriots in Venezuela in their latest enterprises. Gen. Bolivar had a respectable force well organized; and many gallant officers were waiting at Port-au-Prince for an opportunity to join him.—Some of them we know, & know them to be men of the highest worth.

The latest report was, that Caraccas had fallen into the hands of the patriots, and that a cargo of ecclesiastics, with their money and plate and cowls, &c. had arrived at the city of St. Domingo. The most lively zeal animated the agents of the independents at Port-au-Prince; and their friends were uncommonly sanguine of a complete triumph. We have this from the best authority, but have not time for particulars.

[Eastern Paper.]

Elnazar Williams, son of an Iroquois Indian chief, who was principally educated in this state, has been employed for nine months past as an instructor among that part of the Oneida Indians in the state of New York, who have heretofore adhered to paganism. They have however lately addressed a letter to the governor of New York, declaring their conversion to christianity, and their abjuration of paganism and its rites. Their letter contains an abstract of their faith, which seems to be quite orthodox, and they request that they may be known by the name of 'The second Christian party of the Oneida nation.'—B. D. #### Town Lots for Sale

WILL be exposed to public sale, on Tuesday the 17th day of June next (and from day to day) in the town of Vernon, a great number of lots (in said town) belonging to the county of Jennings. This town has lately been established the seat of justice for said county, by the Commissioners appointed by the legislature for that purpose, and is situate on the main branch of the Muscokutuk river—twenty five miles North West from Madison—forty miles North of Charlestown—twenty six East of Brownstown—forty three West of Lawrenceburgh—and forty six South West of Brookville. The town and country around it is generally rich, but rather rolling & uneven in places, to please many—abounding with the best of springs and Mill-streams; also quarries of limestone for building, and as a further description is deemed useless, will only name that one fifth of the purchase money will be required in hand; the balance in three equal payments of one, two, and three years, with interest from the date if not punctually paid when due.—Any current bank paper will be received by

JOHN VAWTER,
Agent for said county

April, 14, 1817.—17 tds.

The Editors of the Indiana Gazette, Corydon; Correspondent, Louisville, Ky. Argus, Frankfort, Ky. and the Cincinnati Gazette, will please to give the above a conspicuous place in their respective papers until the day of sale, and forward their accounts to this office for settlement.
