

British Newspaper Press.— London Courier says, "Of daily papers in London, three are decidedly on the side of the ministers, and only these is very profitable.
The paper is generally on the side of the ministers; the others all against them; & the most profitable are those that are most violent against them.
About twenty weekly papers in London, not one espouses the cause of the ministers zealously, or three are neutral, but out of twenty, are violently against government.

THE following constitution for a MORAL society, was adopted at a meeting of the members sometime last winter, but the publication thereof has from various causes been postponed until the present time.—

It is requested that all persons who have hitherto become members, and also all who wish to join the society, would meet in Madison, at Major Henry Ristine's on the second Monday in August next, for the purpose of making further regulations relative to the said institution.

BEING fully persuaded of the truth of that text of sacred writ which declares "That righteousness exalteth a nation," and that "Sin is a reproach to any people," and knowing that it is the duty of every friend of man, as well as Christian, to endeavor to suppress vice, and promote the interests of morality, and good order; and being sensible that concert, and united influence, will be necessary for carrying into effect, such desirable objects; We therefore agree to unite ourselves together, into a Moral association, for the purpose of promoting morality, and using our individual exertions, to suppress vicious examples, by bringing the guilty under the notice of those laws of our state, which respect vice and immorality.

Rule 1st. Each member of this association, shall use his influence to promote the general objects of this institution, viz. the suppression of vice of every kind, and promotion of virtue and morality in general.

Rule 2nd. Each member shall use his influence, both by precept and example, to inculcate the necessity of good morals to the order and peace of society, & the stability of civil institution.

Rule 3rd. The association shall appoint yearly, a standing committee of seven at least of their members, whose business it shall be at each stated meeting, to make report of the prosecutions for immoral conduct, and give an account of the state of morals within their knowledge.

Rule 4th. The members of this association shall meet yearly on the first Monday in March, for the purpose of electing the respective officers of the society, and to concert such measures, and adopt such resolutions as will be judged expedient for the further promoting the objects of the institution.

Rule 5th. There shall be appointed, as the standing officers of the society for each year, a Chairman, Secretary, and Treasurer, who shall continue in office until their successors are elected.— It shall be the duty of the chairman, to keep and preserve good order in the society, and to do all other duties of his office which may be pointed out by the laws of the association. The secretary shall record the proceedings of the society, and shall have the care of the records, and keep a fair and just account of all monies paid to the treasurer by the society.—It shall be the duty of the treasurer to pay out the money according to the directions of the society.

Rule 6th. The society shall in addition to the general annual meeting provided for in the 4th rule of this constitution, have a quarter annual meeting, & moreover, the standing committee shall have it in their power, if they conceive it necessary, to call an extraordinary meeting of the members of this association, by giving public notice thereof in the public prints, two weeks previous to such meeting.

Rule 7th. No person shall be, or continue a member of this association, who is not at least moral in his own conduct.—But all moral characters shall be willingly received as members.

Rule 8th. All gambling, breaches of the peace, Sabbath-breaking, profane swearing, disorderly taverns; and every species of immorality, cognizable by the laws of this state, shall be the subject of animadversion and reproof; and if any person guilty of such immoralities, shall prove refractory, after due admonition being given, (if such admonition be thought necessary) any member of this association under whose notice it shall happen, shall take due steps to have such person brought under the notice of the civil authority, and punished accordingly.

Rule 9th. Any member of this association who shall neglect his duty, shall be dealt with by the society.

Rule 10th. This association shall have full power to adopt such by-laws as may be necessary for regulating the proceedings therein, provided, such by-laws are not in opposition to this constitution.

Rule 11th. Each and every member of this society shall be bound to pay the treasurer thereof, at least once a year, such sum of money as shall be deemed necessary, by a vote of the majority of the members present at such meeting, for defraying the expen-ces of the institution.

Rule 12th. This constitution shall be published in the "Indiana Republican" for three weeks in succession, after which time the members of the society will be bound to attend to the objects of the institution.

Rule 13th. No article or rule in this constitution shall be altered, changed, or amended, without the concurring voice of a majority of all the members: nor is any person to be removed from membership in this association, without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present—nor shall he withdraw himself from the society (having incurred censure,) unless he has underwent a trial for his misconduct.
