

Lend me your Paper.

The borrowing of Newspapers has become a serious evil, not only to printers in general, but to subscribers. Our patrons frequently complain, that they are obliged to pay for the gratification of others; that as soon as their papers are delivered, some officious neighbor seizes upon them before they have had time to peruse a word. Now there are but two reasonable excuses for borrowing; the want of money to purchase the article borrowed, or the inability of procuring it in market. Neither of these pleas can ordinarily serve the man who gratifies his curiosity in reading a newspaper at the expense of his neighbor. 1st. Because there is not one in a thousand of these newsmongers, who is not able to pay, without the least inconvenience, ten times the price demanded for a paper. 2nd. Because a dearth of this article is never known in our markets. He who is continually borrowing furniture, or the most necessary implements of trade, especially if it be known that he is able to procure them for himself, is justly regarded by mankind as a contemptible sponger—a penurious wretch. How much more contemptible & miserly must he be, who feeds his curiosity upon the avails of another's industry or generosity! We are aware that those who descend to this BEGGARLY practice are very ready to plead the politics of the paper in extenuation. They are not willing, forsooth, to encourage a paper whose principles are opposed to their profound ideas of National and State policy! They cannot read such a paper without being disgusted!! Why then will they stoop to borrow it? the same excuse by which these soulless gentry pretend to palliate their conduct, would justify them in sneaking into a Theatre without paying the door-keeper, or in pushing through a turnpike gate without leaving the toll; for they may be opposed to theatrical representations, and still wish to see a play, or they may be averse to pay for mending a road which they seldom travel, and still wish to ride a short distance on it.

If any of these Newspaper spongers are so poor, that they cannot afford to pay two dollars per annum for reading; on application they shall be furnished with a paper gratis. If, on the other hand, there are others, who, though worth thousands & tens of thousands of dollars, are yet held in such a state of mental bondage as prevents them from violating the commands of their masters, by paying for a newspaper which has been condemned before the aristocratic tribunal; to such unfortunate bondsmen—such political wards we would say—by calling at the Printing Office, gentlemen, you shall be allowed to read the paper free of expense; and promise not to expose you by informing your unmerciful taskmasters of the fact. But we beseech you, by all the rules of honor, etiquette, & common decency, not to disturb our subscribers in the enjoyment of a right for which they pay.
