

WOMAN.

The celebrated Segur, on female education, justly remarks, "Heaven in creating woman—seemed to say to man, behold either the torment or delight of our present and future existence. Give a direction to this being, calculated by extreme anxiety of her mind, to receive all the impressions you may wish to bestow on her. It is another self which I offer you—on taking charge of her you ought, in a certain degree, to identify her with yourself. Her breast sustains and nourishes us, —her hands direct our earliest steps—her gentle voice teaches to hush our first expressions; she wipes away the first tears we shed; and to her we are indebted for our chief pleasure. In fact, nature seems to have confided man to her continual care; the cradle of infancy is her peculiar charge, and her kind compassion smooths the bed of death."

DANGEROUS THREAT.

A gay spark, who had taken up lodgings at a public house in London, and got considerably in debt, absented himself and took new quarters. This so enraged the landlord, that he commissioned his wife to go and dun him; which the debtor hearing of, he declared publicly, that if she came he would kiss her. "Will he? (quoth the lady) will he? give me my bonnet, Molly, I'll see whether any fellow on earth has such impudence." "My dear," said the cooling husband, "pray don't be so rash; you don't know what a man may do when he is in a passion."

SPANISH HEROISM.

An authentic anecdote, related by captain Korff, who served in Spain, in a regiment of infantry of the guard of Jerome, the Ex-King of Westphalia.

Fatigued and exhausted by forced marches, the regiment to which captain Korff belonged, arrived before the monastery of Figueras in Spain. The colonel of the regiment, a Frenchman, sent in an officer, to demand of the prior the necessary refreshment for the men, as well as for the staff consisting of about 20 officers. The prior with some of the monks came out to meet the general, assured him that the inhabitants of Figueras would provide for the soldiers, but that he himself would prepare a frugal meal for the staff. The prior's offer was accepted; captain Korff received from the general some commissions for the regiment, and about an hour afterwards it was announced to the prior, that the dinner was served up in the refectory of the monastery. The general, who was aware that the French in Spain had reason to be on their guard in eating and drinking what was offered by the natives, invited the prior to dine with them; he, and two other monks accepted the invitation in such a manner as to leave no doubt that he felt himself much flattered by it. After the officers had taken their seats, the prior said grace, carved, eat of every dish first, and with his two brethren, who poured out the wine, drank plentifully with his guests. It was not till towards the end of the repast, that captain Korff returned, having been detained by the commissions of the general longer than he expected. During that interval, he had found an opportunity to take some refreshment, and only participated in the lively conversation of the company, hosts as well as guests, at the monastery. The general, in particular, expressed his satisfaction to the prior, whose kind reception had surpassed all expectations. Suddenly, however, the cheerfulness of the prior was changed into profound seriousness; he rose from his seat, thanking the company for the honor they had done him, and concluded with asking if any of them had affairs to settle in this world? adding with emphasis, "This, gentlemen, is the last meal you and I shall take on earth: in an hour we shall all be before the judgement seat of God!" Cold shuddering horror seized the amazed guests: for the prior and his two monks had poisoned the wine in which they had pledged the French officers; all the antidotes given by the French physician were in vain, in less than an hour every man of them had ceased to live.

For sale at this office.

LAND OFFICE.

The subscriber has opened in Madison, Indiana, an office for the purchase and sale of lands, and for the transaction of land concerns and land intelligence generally. His office for the present is in the three story brick house of Dr. Canby, where books are provided for registering lands offered for sale or to lease, farms to rent, houses to rent, &c. &c. which may be registered by persons offering the same, free of expense.

This Register will be open at all times (during regular hours of business,) for the inspection of those who may wish to purchase or rent, and information given as to the situation and advantages of the same. The subscriber will transact as agent, all duties connected with land concerns—such as buying and selling, paying taxes, leasing lands, renting houses, &c. Conveyancing of all kinds connected with the establishment, will be attended to for a moderate compensation. I will also attend to the selection and entry of land in the different land districts in this state, in which great pains will be taken to make the most advantageous selections.

As the subscriber has been making preparations for sometime past, for opening an office of this kind, he has already a plat of the survey of the old purchase, from the east line of the state to some distance west of the falls of Ohio. Arrangements have also been made for a plat of the survey of the new purchase, which it is expected will be in readiness in a few weeks, together with the field notes by the surveyors. Arrangements will be made to obtain from the land offices regular returns of all lands entered, and which will be noted on the plats, by which means a view may be had of all the unentered lands. Persons wishing to explore the old or new purchase for the purpose of making selections, will by giving a short notice be accommodated with plats of such sections of the country as they may wish, with notes of such lands as are entered.

As it is the wish of the proprietor to render the establishment of public use and convenience, as well as profit to himself, he intends to spare no exertions or expense in the collection of all such maps and geographical information, as will render his office of public utility, as a place of reference and general local information; and as he intends to devote the whole of his attention to the business, he hopes by the most unremitting attention, to give satisfaction to those who may patronize the undertaking. It is hoped that all those who have lands for sale or property to rent, will come forward and register the same, as it is presumed by that course they may accomplish their object as soon, and with as little trouble as any other way within their reach. Persons at a distance who may have business of the above description, will have their requests promptly attended by addressing letters, post paid, to
