

THE TALE OF THE TERRIBLE FIRE.

I will tell you the tale of the terrible fire; it springs from the earth—it is dreadful and dire.

In the dark
Wintry sky,
See the spark
Upward fly;
See it grow—
Like a flame—
See it glow
Into flame!

See it burning and blazing;
See it trying to touch a tall star;
It likes to fly to the sky;
Like a flag of fire from afar.
See it turning and burning and braving—
It's streaming and gleaming and red!

Ah! the smoke in the air now is wavering—
Like a winding sheet of dull lead.

See it rushing and rising and roaring,
It's trying to touch a tall star;

It's like a flag of fire from afar.

See it turning and burning and braving—

It's streaming and gleaming and red!

Ah! the smoke in the air now is wavering—

Like a winding sheet of dull lead.

Hear it laugh with wild glee at each futile endeavor.

To quench or to quell its exuberant force;

It is flaming and free and fantastic forever;

It delights and exults with no pang of remorse.

With no pain, with but passion—mad passion—it quivers.

With its pennon of scarlet, the bloodiest hue,

With its gleaming streams and its rearing ripples,

Dares to do all things that flame dares to do.

How it darts, how it dances and dashes,

How it dashes and dashes for gain.

To reduce all the world into ashes.

And to fling all the stars into flame!

It is glittering and glowing and glaring—

Andraging it rings its own knell;

It is showing its wonderful daring—

It is turning the sky into hell!

How it lazily lingers—
With its swell and its fall;

With its ferv and its fall;

With its pangs and a pall;

With its horrible hisses;

Like the wind in a storm;

With its blistering kisses;

On face and on form!

Or its flashes

Bereft,

Only ashes

Are left;

The fires

Tell the doom—

And it dies

In the gloom.

I have told you the tale of the terrible fire; it has sung its last song, it has breathed its last breath.

It has lived without life, has died without death.

INDIANA INTELLIGENCE.

Seven houses per night is the average for Evansville burglars.

The twilight flicker is alluded to by an Evansville cotemporary.

The Warsaw young men and ex-soldiers have organized the Warsaw rifles.

Judge W. E. Niblock is at home swapping jokes with the boys and spending the holidays.

The ladies of Fort Wayne have raised $1,500 for the benefit of the masonic temple and opera house.

Intelligence from local exchanges is to the effect that democratic clubs are being organized in every county.

Pauline Markham did not perform at New Albany Monday night, the paper collar box containing her wardrobe having been lost.

Will Cumback started a grave yard at Madison yesterday. He will celebrate, but draws his salary with commendable prudence.

Ad Arnold has straddled the local bipod of the Columbus Democrat, and announces defiantly that although he has no experience he is giffed as to legs.

If implicit confidence can be placed in the Lafayette papers, the citizens of that city are still returning thanks on account of the visit of the rural editors.

The directors of the First National bank of New Albany have declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent, payable on demand. The New Albany National bank also declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent.

Fort Wayne Gazette: In Decatur county the communists are driving iron rods in the ground throughout wheat fields. So far three reapers have been entirely ruined. This diabolical work is being done in different parts of the state. The scoundrels should be shot whenever caught in the act.

The entirely new and elegant cantata of "Joseph's Bondage" will be given by the teachers and pupils of Mr. H. S. Perkins' normal, on Saturday and Monday evenings, July 13 and 15, at the Pallas theater, Columbus. This cantata, as prepared by Mr. H. M. King, will be given in oriental costume, with full dramatization, and will be of especial interest to all.

Terr. Hante Express: Captain Dreusick, of the light artillery, went to Indianapolis yesterday after a gun, which he has borrowed from the German veteran corps of that city for us on the 4th. Captain Dreusick has prosecuted the organization of his battery with great energy. He is now able to give assurance that the 4th will be opened with an artillery salute.

Garber, of the Madison Courier, has a field glass, and though his fine feelings have evidently been lacerated, it has never occurred to him to look the other way. He says: "The young men who go swimming on the opposite side of the river in daylight on Sundays, should remember that by the aid of powerful field-glasses persons could see them plainly, and thereby become grossly insulted."

Lafayette Courier: George Dixon, who was arrested yesterday for assaulting James Burns, was bound over by Mayor Kimmel in the sum of $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury. Burns is in Culver station, and met Dixon in Fitzgerald's saloon, where he played several games of pool with him, and afterward at Madiera & Conness' saloon. At the latter place they had some words and one of the proprietors ordered Burns out. Dixon, it seems, went out first, and was followed by Burns. When Burns came out Dixon struck him on the back of the head with a stone, knocking him down, and then kicking him brutally in the face and head. Dixon, it will be remembered, was arrested about a year ago for stealing a coat from a man on Oakland Hill, but was afterwards released, as the party did not desire to prosecute him.

A fine head of hair is such an indispensable adjunct to beauty that no one who prizes good looks should neglect to use "London Hair Color Restorers," the most delightful article ever introduced to the American people for increasing its growth, restoring its natural color, and at the same time a lovely hair dressing and beautifier. It is totally different from all others; not sticky and gummy, and free from: all impure ingredients that render many other articles obnoxious; in fact, it is exquisitely perfumed, and so perfectly and elegantly prepared as to make it a lasting hair dressing and toilet luxury. Sold by dealers in fine toilet articles at 75 cents a bottle, or six bottles for $1. If your druggist has not got it, address letters to Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Sent by express to any address. Browning & Sloan, wholesale agents.

Columbus Republican: A little scene of a communistic nature occurred at Milford, Decatur county, last week. A man by the name of Smith, the leader of a squad of rioters, while drunk, entered the clothing house of Messrs. Rothchild Bros., and with rocks in hand ordered the store closed. This was done, and after the squad departed from the building it was opened. The mob returned and again closed the store. And a third time did they close the house, and then broke in the windows with stones and brickbats. Smith declared that he was a communist and that he did this in the name of communism. Smith was once an offender of the law in this country, and may be remembered by many of the citizens here.

Fort Wayne Sentinel: A man is tramping through the state getting rid of counterfeit $10 bills on the Muncie national bank. The bill is a fair looking one, and will deceive the most careful.

Cambridge City Tribune: Some of our young men do not know what to do. They wanted work all the year and did not find it. Now that harvest hands are in demand, they are trying to think of some other kind of work they would rather do.

Hoosier State: The editor of the Indiana would never have gotten his tail over the political dash-board and flopped over to the national if his superior qualifications for office had been recognized by the republican party. But then you know, that "if" is the reason why the dog didn't catch the rabbit.

Richmond Independent: Dr. N. A. Munhall, of Indianapolis, the Y. M. C. A. worker, arrived in the city last evening at 8 o'clock p.m. He held a large street meeting at the corner of Fifth and Main streets. His audience almost blockaded the street. After this a meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A.

Logansport Pharos: E. W. Halford, formerly editor of the Indianapolis Journal, came up from Lafayette last week, and spent a short season in our city. It is whispered that the candidate for attorney general on the republican ticket has been making overtures to Mr. Halford to take charge of the Journal.

Hoosier Democrat: Mrs. Emma Molloy and Major Welch are working up a temperance revival again in the benighted region of South Bend, Niles, and adjacent towns. We wish they would come up this way and "reconstruct" some of the brethren who are getting a little lukewarm in the cause. Professor Gardner left before finishing the good work.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Masonic Mutual aid association, of New Albany, held Tuesday night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: F. S. Devol, president; I. P. Leyden, vice president; M. D. Condiffe, secretary; H. Fawcett, treasurer; S. J. Alexander, ex-surgeon; W. W. Tuley, attorney; Jon Peters, general agent.

Franklin Jeffersonian: The cutting of the wheat crop is about all if not altogether, completed, and we think we can safely say that never before was there such a wheat crop raised in Johnson county. The acreage was not only vast, but the yield and quality of the grain will be grand, and is likely to turn out from fifteen to thirty-five bushels to the acre. We may now look for cheap flour and that is good.

New Albany correspondence Louisville Commercial: Joseph Eckard, the crooked distiller of Harrison county, failed to appear in the United States court on Monday, and his bond of $1,000 was forfeited. About 1 o'clock yesterday morning he came to town and gave himself up to Deputy Marshal Payton. He stated that sickness in his family prevented his responding. He was committed to jail yesterday in default of a new bond.

Columbus Democrat: Bartholomew county has nine temperance societies—more than any other county in the state, and yet the very place there ought to be one, in fact the only place worthy of note in the county, has none. Its officers had to foot the expenses of the hall, and the organization went down. Speakers from a distance had to be paid. It takes money to run a temperance society, and it must be forthcoming.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel thus refers to one of the leading institutions of the city: Never was the filthy old calaboose a greater nuisance than at present. The stench emanating therefrom has been strong for years; now it is unbearable. The old shell is reeking with filth and swarming with vermin. The air is close and pointed, and a healthy man finds it difficult to inhale it more than a few moments. Through the imbecility or worse, of the council, the old plague spot has disgraced and insulted the community for many years; and now decency and common humanity demand that some change be made. Will the council take some action?

Madison Star: We have conversed with several farmers of our county this morning notably among whom were Dr. David L. McClure, of Lancaster township, and Mr. James Baxter, of Monroe, and they tell of an insect in the oats which is likely to ruin the crop. It is a little green louse, about half the size of a house fly, and it is very destructive, eating the head off of the grain. Some of the farmers were very much alarmed, thinking the insects were young grasshoppers, and gave the corn crop up for gone. Mr. Baxter says that about sixteen years ago the same insect made its appearance and did much damage. The oat crop in this vicinity may be given up for gone.

Lafayette Courier: George Dixon, who was arrested yesterday for assaulting James Burns, was bound over by Mayor Kimmel in the sum of $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury. Burns is in Culver station, and met Dixon in Fitzgerald's saloon, where he played several games of pool with him, and afterward at Madiera & Conness' saloon. At the latter place they had some words and one of the proprietors ordered Burns out. Dixon, it seems, went out first, and was followed by Burns. When Burns came out Dixon struck him on the back of the head with a stone, knocking him down, and then kicking him brutally in the face and head.

Dixon, it will be remembered, was arrested about a year ago for stealing a coat from a man on Oakland Hill, but was afterwards released, as the party did not desire to prosecute him.
