Recent births: Dec. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. Max Price of Middlesboro, Ky., a son. The mother was formerly Miss Mary Peck of Remington; Dec. 29, to Wm. Ball and wife, a son; Jan. 1, to Geo. Fulk and wife, a son; Jan. 3, to Charles Um and wife, a son.

Mrs. J. B. Chesebrough, formerly of Kentland and well known in Remington where she frequently visited, died last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. S. Coppock in Peoria, Ill. The remains were brought to Kentland for burial. She was the mother of Mrs. Simon Leopold of Francesville, formerly of Remington and Rensselaer.

Over two extra copies of The Democrat were sold here in a couple of hours Saturday, on account of its excellent report on the Bank of Remington failure. More could have been sold but the supply sent over was exhausted. If you want all the news ALL the time, send The Democrat a dollar and have it sent to you every week for a full year.

Kentland Enterprise: The Parker bank failure is a sad revelation to many people. Mr. Parker opposed the enactment of a banking law on the ground that it was unnecessary and a reflection on bankers doing a legitimate business, yet he was unable to do business 20 days after the law went into effect. Like many another man before him, he was unable to tell the difference between his own money and the money of other people. In banking parlance, that is embezzlement, but rude and coarse people who pay their debts call it something else.

Sam Parker and James Lefler finished husking corn this week and several others are getting very near done. The fields continue so soft that it is almost impossible to draw a load out of them.

Jack Hoyer has also finished husking corn and is now making arrangements to move soon on a farm north of Rensselaer, as has been mentioned before. Jack is a good farmer and will surely make things go wherever he locates.

A letter from G. C. Petree, one of the Tennessee boys, states that the weather is warm down there and men are going in their shirt sleeves and the girls are wearing low cut shoes. Grover expects to bring some more fellows back with him in the spring.

car, a $1.00 raw hide ready in the socket is the igniter. He has a fine span of black mules to take the place of his auto during bad roads.

Sunday school has not been attended very largely this winter. Of course bad roads and cold winter weather will make any country Sunday school drag, if we're not careful. Porter & Howe are doing some bustling business with their corn shredding outfit. They have about ten days' run before closing the season's work. They will quite likely have some kind of a machine to thresh buckwheat with next fall, and thereby save time and expense of waiting on a foreign machine.

Mrs. Simonsin filled the pulpit at Parker Sunday as Mr. Simonsin was not able to make the trip and also attend the meeting at Lee the same evening. Quarterly meeting at Gillam was announced for Jan. 27. This point is considerably behind with their quaterage, but hope we may be able to meet our payment promptly.

Sale bills are posted on every nook and corner. W. E. Poole has a sale billed for Jan. 17. Mr. Poole is selling out preparatory to moving to Muncie to take charge of a large brick factory owned there by his father. A fierce street railway strike is being quietly by the state militia at Muncie and it is hoped Warren will not let those intruders have any brick to throw.

R. S. Drake finished husking corn last week. He got done one day later than he expected, owing to the fact that Arthur Miller got lost upstairs one morning and did not get out to the field until nearly noon. The women folks heard some one calling like they might be lost but still kept thinking it was Ott calling up the cattle. Hereafter Arthur will let the lamp burn all night.

Some very brave chicken thieves entered James Lefler's chicken roost Thursday evening of last week, early in the evening before any one had gone to bed. Gaylord Parker was working there at the time, and he and Mr. Lefler hustled out as soon as they heard the noise and came within a hair's breadth of capturing the rascals. The thieves drove down the road at a rapid pace. As there wasn't a horse available they could not be overtaken.

Our friend, F. W. Austin, puts up a terrible howl on account of a little fun indulged in by Four Corners and gets quite witty at an innocent person. Don't think because on two or three occasions the marked envelopes of this person was used he is "it." You all have one more guess coming. We were after all very considerate in our description. We also heard that this Florida man hung up his socks on X-mas night and the board of health made him take them down, but we didn't say anything about it.

F. W. Fisher and son Warren returned Saturday from a week's visit with his father near Cincinnati, O., and one week visiting friends and old schoolmates in Wabash Co. Great changes have been made there. Push and energy has changed the Indian reservation into a fine farming district thickly dotted with fine farm buildings and peopled with farmers who possess push and energy. They believe in thorough drainage and good stone or gravel roads, and they have both. They do not believe in clogging the wheels of public improvement but lend a helping hand by pushing it along. North Jasper is twenty years behind and will remain there unless our people become more public spirited and enterprising.
