PEOPLE OF THE DAY

A Fearless Foo of Graft.

Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, who recently resigned as head of the Society For the Prevention of Crime, has long waged a determined fight against immorality and crime in New York.

The son of a schoolteacher and farmer in South Framingham, Mass., Dr. Parkhurst was born in 1842. He was called to New York in 1880 to become pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian church, a pastorate he still retains. He began to look into the moral condition of the city when he found that he was having trouble in holding his young men in the church.

Dr. Crosby, then head of the society, enlisted the minister as a member of the board of directors of the Society For the Prevention of Crime and then started the crusade against police graft which ended in disclosures which startled the world.

In the course of his crusade Dr. Parkhurst secured evidence on which the grand jury found indictments and a presentment charging the police with collecting blackmail in New York amounting to $7,000,000 a year.

The reform fight went on, and the chamber of commerce finally took a hand, passing a resolution calling for a legislative investigation of conditions. The Lexow committee was the result. The culmination of this activity was the defeat of Tammany in 1894.

It Ran Ahead.

Oscar Hammerstein was talking in Philadelphia about the wonderful success that he has had with opera.

"And yet at first," he said, "success came very slowly—as slowly as the trains on that southern line. You know the one. It doesn't advertise."

"I was waiting for the train in Nola Chucky one morning. One hour, two hours, three hours, passed. The train was three hours late. I was indignant. 'After awhile the ticket agent sauntered out of the office and lighted a cigarette. 'Look here,' I said, 'won't that train be along soon?' 'The agent looked down the track and yawned. 'Ah, yes,' he said, 'she'll soon be here now. Here comes the conductor's dog.'"

To Wed a Real Prince.

Miss Katherine Elkins, who, rumor says, is to become the bride of the Duke of the Abruzzi, is the daughter of Stephen B. Elkins, United States senator from West Virginia. Miss Elkins made her bow to society in Washington three years ago and is one of the most popular girls of the younger set at the capital. She is fond of outdoor sports and is a noted horsewoman, having begun this exercise on a pony at the age of five. Miss Elkins is described as tall and handsome, with a brilliant outdoor complexion and fair hair.

The Duke of the Abruzzi is the third son of the late Prince Amedeo, duke of Aosta, younger brother of King Humbert. He is therefore a cousin of King Victor of Italy. His father was for four years king of Spain. The Duke is thirty-five years old and holds the rank of rear admiral in the Italian navy. He is a man of scientific and scholarly attainments and an interesting writer. The duke has won considerable fame as an explorer.

302 DEAD IN A MINE

Only Six of the 380 Who Went to Work Escape Alive and Uninjured.

THIRTY-SEVEN DEAD ARE FOUND

Thirty-Five Others Are Brought Out Badly Wounded.

No Chance for the Rescuers Because of Flame and Smoke—Those in the Mine Cannot Be Saved.

Hamm, Westphalia, Germany, Nov. 13.—The greatest mine disaster in many years in Germany occurred yesterday morning at the Radbod mine, about three miles from this place. There was a heavy explosion in the mine about 4 a. m. and almost immediately the mine took fire. Of 380 miners working under ground at the time, only six escaped without injury. Thirty-five were taken out badly injured and thirty-seven were dead when brought to the mouth of the pit. The remaining 302 have been given up for lost.

Flames and Smoke Aid Death.

The explosion, which was unusually violent, destroyed one of the shafts, which had to be partly repaired before the rescue work was begun. In addition the flames and smoke proved almost insurmountable obstacles in the early efforts of the rescuing parties. A special corps, composed of the men who rendered such valuable aid in the terrible mine disaster at Courrières, France, in March of 1906, arrived upon the scene later, but was unable to enter the mine, being forced to await the result of the determined efforts of the firemen to keep the flames in check.

No Hope for the Men Entombed.

Meantime heartrending scenes were being enacted at the mine when the dead and wounded were brought to the surface, and there were similar scenes in the town when the injured were transported through the streets to the hospitals. At 1 p. m., the fire had made great headway and later in the afternoon, after a consultation of the engineers, it was decided that any further attempts to rescue the entombed men were vain, owing to the impossibility of entering the galleries. At the same time an order was issued to flood the mine.

Cause of the Calamity Unknown.

First reports indicated that the accident was the result of an explosion of coal dust, but the statements of the injured men render this improbable, and it is not clear just what caused it.

WORK OF THE FEDERATION

Labor Convention at Denver Devotes a Day to Hearing Reports and Speeches.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 13.—During the session of the convention of the Federation of Labor, the secretary, at President Gompers' request, read a letter from William J. Bryan in which he thanked President Gompers and the other members of the Federation for the support given him during the recent presidential campaign. The entire day was spent in listening to reports and fraternal and other addresses. Among the speakers were Rev. Charles Steitz, of the Presbyterian church; Mrs. Raymond Robbins and Mrs. Anna Fitzgerald, representing the Woman's Trade Union League and Raymond Robbins, of Chicago.

Then there were speeches by fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada—Herbert Skinner and Wadsworth, of England, who told of trade union progress there, and P. H. Draper, of Canada, who spoke on similar lines. Andrew Fureseth, who attended the British Trade Union Congress and Hugh Frany, who attended the Canadian gathering, made their reports.

Will Take It to the High Court.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Following the recent action of the circuit court of appeals in Chicago in refusing the United States government a rehearing of the Standard Oil case, made famous by its $29,000,000 fine, the department of justice officials have decided to carry the case to the supreme court of the United States, and the application for a writ of certiorari will be made Nov. 30.

Arrest in the Carmack Case.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 13.—John D. Sharpe, ex-sheriff of this county, has been arrested here charged with murder and aiding and abetting the murder of Senator E. W. Carmack Monday afternoon. It is alleged Sharpe was seen with the two Coopers shortly before the killing and was at the scene of the tragedy after Carmack fell.

One of Us May Friends.

New York, Nov. 13.—According to cable advices received here it is expected that because of divided sentiment among the powers a citizen of the United States may be selected to head the court which will arbitrate the Casablanca affair.

Historic Playhouse Burns.

New York, Nov. 13.—Less than an hour after a large audience left the Park theater, a historic Brooklyn playhouse, fire was discovered and an hour later the building was in ruins. No one was injured.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

TIPPING MADE PLEASANT.

This tipping of the waitress a fellow doesn't mind if she is rather pretty And sociably inclined. Most willingly the quarter He gives to Maud or Jan, But he hates to pay it over To man, mere man.

If when she serves the beefsteak And Saratoga chips She has a set of dimples That play about her lips, He gives up coin so gladly, But, oh, it breaks his heart When man is slinging dishes With those two dimes to part!

He may be young and giddy, Just ripe to have a thrill Or past the age romantic And sliding down the hill, When she comes tripping lightly And stands beside his chair He reaches in his pocket And finds a coin to spare.

If he had but the courage He wouldn't give a cent To any biscuit totter Who bore the name of "gent," But when a girl comes deftly The dishes to arrange A privilege he feels it To part with all his change.

Out For Results.

"Do you expect to be in the football team?" asked the casual friend of the young man just entering college.

"No," replied the astute youth. "I shall devote the time to my studies, and if at the end of the season I feel something lacking I can get an automobile to run over me."

She Might.

"Woman can't do man's work. She couldn't be a blacksmith, for example." "No?" "Could she?" "Doesn't it consist largely in welding the hammer?"

Didn't Get Mixed.

"So annoying! I cannot remember dates and faces. Are you ever troubled that way?" "No; I cannot say that I am. So far I have been able to remember all of the faces that I have had dates with."

Popular Ticket.

"What office did you say your uncle was running for?"

"County treasurer."

"On what ticket?"

"I dunno. On the meal ticket, I guess."

Where It Belongs.

"Let me sell you some flying machine stock."

"Chance to get in on the ground floor?"

"Oh, no; up on the cloud levels!"

Fatiguing.

"I've been thinking."

"Have you?"

"Yes—"

"I noticed that you looked all done up."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is foolish to be angry, but foolishness has great affinity for lots of good people.

One doesn't mind having to work, but is sometimes particular about who catches one at it.
