DISLIKED LAMPHERE

So It Would Appear of Mrs. Gunnness from Expressions in Her Letters.

WHAT SHE WROTE HELGELEIN

Lamphere's Movements the Morning After the Fire — Taggart Not to Seek a Toga.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 17.—Prosecutor Smith played another trump card when, with A. H. Helgelein, of Aberdeen, S. D., on the stand he offered in evidence and read to the jury copies of three letters written by Mrs. Belle Gunnness to him during March and April, this year, in which references to "that crazy Lamphere" are made. Likewise these letters portray the methods employed by the arch-murderess in allaying the suspicions of the relatives of persons she had murdered. Even with Andrew Helgelein lying dismembered in her private burying-ground, she was asking his brother Asle K. Helgelein to come to La Porte to investigate and bring plenty of money with him. That she had designs on his life, too, is confidently believed by that man. The state made excellent progress during the day.

Woman's References to Lamphere.

Some of the expressions with reference to Lamphere used in her letters to Helgelein are these: "But this Lamphere began to find so many wrong things to talk about, until at last they took and arrested him, and they had three doctors to examine him and see if he was right. They found him not quite crazy enough to put in a hospital. But perfectly sane he is not."

Others have told me that Lamphere was jealous of Andrew (Helgelein) and for that reason troubled me this way.

This Lamphere drags so much. I think it is one of this half-crazed Lamphere who has started it all.

Lamphere he did not know anything about Andrew's trouble, but he has lately found so much to trouble us with.

Lamphere, who now has been arrested so many times for all the bother he had been.

I was pretty sure that Lamphere had in some way taken his letters.

Morning After the Fire.

Eli Hoover, who lives north of the Gunnness farm, testified to seeing a man running across the fields early in the morning of April 28th. He was not able to say that it was Lamphere.

The man wore an overcoat. Lamphere had one on that morning. John Ross, a cousin of Lamphere, testified that on the morning of the 28th Lamphere came to his place, about three and a half miles northeast of the Gunnness farm, shortly before 6 o'clock, to borrow a broad-ax. He told him that he had seen the Gunnness house burning.

Ross, who knew of the Gunnness-Lamphere troubles, told Lamphere he would probably be "pulled." The latter replied: "I hope the straight of it will come out." Lamphere told the witness that he had been in Michigan City.

Told of Seeing the Blaze.

John Westbrook, for whom Lamphere was working, and with whom he had come from the fire, testified that Lamphere appeared at his place at 6:30 a.m., April 28th, and told of seeing a fire which he learned was the Gunnness house. He said he did not know whether the folks got out or not.

HEARST CALLS ON ROOSEVELT

Has Half an Hour's Visit, but Didn't Talk Politics.

Washington, Nov. 17.—William Randolph Hearst was a caller at the White House last night. After his visit, which was about half an hour in duration, he said he had not discussed politics with the president, having merely paid him a social call.

Discussing Senator Foraker's letter in which he Ohio statesman defended his connection with the Standard Oil company, Hearst authorized the Associated Press to make the following statement:

I have no desire to debate the matter with the Standard Oil company. Mr. Foraker, however, begins his defense with a statement which is disingenuous, to say the least. He speaks of Mr. Hearst's charges, as if the matter at issue were merely a question of my assertion. Now I distinctly refrained almost entirely from comment. I produced the letters and laid them before the public, confident that the citizenship of the country could draw correct conclusions. Mr. Foraker now makes a defense not to my charges, for I have not made any, but to the letters and certificates of deposit.

ISLAND SUGAR FEARED

Philippine Product the "Black Bear" of Our Domestic Beet Sugar Producers.

PLEA BY SECRETARY WRIGHT

He Thinks There Is No Danger for About Fifty Years.

Fordney Differs with Him—"Trust" Referred to—Taft Cabinet Talk —Democratic Campaign Fund Inadequate.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The allegation that the so-called "sugar trust" controls the price paid the grower and the price charged the consumer of sugar, the secretary of war putting himself on record as a champion of free entry for Philippine sugar, and the general "stand pat" attitude of the beet sugar growers who appeared before the ways and means committee of the house, were the features of the day's hearing on the revision of the tariff as it would affect sugar. Secretary of War Wright and General Clarence Edwards, chief of the insular bureau, were present at the hearing. It was shortly after the afternoon session was begun that Chairman Payne asked Secretary Wright if he cared to make any remarks.

Fear of the Beet Sugar Growers.

"I just heard that the committee was hearing arguments on the tariff on sugar and tobacco, which affects the Philippine islands," said the ex-governor of the islands. "We are now having an investigation made in the Philippines regarding the cost of production in the islands, and other matters relating to the question. From what I have just heard the principal objection by the beet sugar grower to the admission free of duty of Philippine sugar lies in the danger that their markets will be inundated by the Philippine article.

Does Not Think It Is Justified.

"It is not possible that the Philippine islands could supply the actual increase in demand for sugar, year by year, in the United States. In that case there is no reason why the Philippine islands should affect the market until the beet and cane sugar produced within the tariff wall increases 1,800,000 tons. Before the beet sugar industry is in the slightest danger it must increase from 440,000 tons annually to 2,100,000 tons, and from annual reports it would take fifty years to do this. I can't see how it would affect the domestic product if Philippine sugar were placed for a time on the free list." The secretary added that he did not think the production of Philippine sugar would increase to any extent.

In addition to the statement of Representative Fordney, of Michigan, who has a large number of sugar beet farmers among his constituents, referring to the secretary's statement that the production of sugar in the Philippines would not increase, told the secretary that the same argument was put forth with regard to the Cuban sugar several years ago, and yet the production in Cuba had increased very largely, and the beet sugar industry in this country had not increased very much.

Representative Fordney, of Michigan, who has a large number of sugar beet farmers among his constituents, referring to the secretary's statement that the production of sugar in the Philippines would not increase, told the secretary that the same argument was put forth with regard to the Cuban sugar several years ago, and yet the production in Cuba had increased very largely, and the beet sugar industry in this country had not increased very much.

Much information concerning the cost of producing sugar, the profits derived, capital invested, and methods of growing and refining, were offered at the hearing. Colonel D. D. Colcock, on behalf of the Louisiana cane sugar growers, said that the methods by which the "trust" names the price which it would pay the grower were unfair and "damnable." Henry T. Oxnard, F. R. Hathaway, C. N. Smith, F. T. Scholz, G. W. McCormick and W. H. Baird, representing the beet sugar manufacturers of the west, asked that the present tariff be maintained, or if changed that it be increased, alleging that the margin of profit on beet sugar was too small to permit of any competition with the foreign refiners.

F. R. Hathaway, representing the Michigan Sugar company, charged that E. F. Atkins, who will appear today, representing the Cuban sugar growers, "not only prophesies, but threatens, a revolution in Cuba which would result in the annexation of Cuba and ultimate free trade if the request for redress is not granted." Chairman Payne intimated that the committee would recommend the admission free of duty of a certain amount of Philippine sugar.

Has Trouble Coming to Him.

Linton, Ind., Nov. 17.—Mayor G. C. Riley, the first Republican mayor of Linton, is considering making public the names of the men who are going to give him a whipping just as soon as his term expires. He says the list is growing day by day and by the time he has completed his term that he will have a list of fifty or more.

recently ended were not sufficient to meet the expenses of the campaign, according to Norman E. Mack, chairman of the committee. Mack said that he would make the deficit good out of his own pocket, and that he would regard it as a personal obligation to see that every bill was paid. A statement of the receipts and expenditures of the committee will be filed with the secretary of the state at Albany on Nov. 24.

To a reporter who asked Mack who was going to pay for the maintenance of permanent Democratic headquarters which are to be opened soon, either in Washington or New York, Mack said: "The Democratic party of the United States is going to pay for it. I have had offers from every state in the union to contribute to a fund for the purpose."
